BRICK.—I will have plenty of brick for sale by next week.

PETER MORTON.

There is no cough medicine so popular as Foley's Honey and Tar. It contains no opiates or poisons and never fails to cure.

Miss Gertrude Sipes, who had been visiting friends in Chambersburg, returned home last Thursday.

Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs and colds; reliable, tried and tested, safe and sure.

Mr. J. V. Stouteagle and daughter Miss Marden, spent part of Wednesday and Thursday of last week in Chambersburg.

Mrs. Martin Lake and son, Master Joe, of Licking Creek township were in town last Saturday.

Foley's Honey and Tar always stops the cough and heals the lungs. Refuse substitutes.

Mrs. M. L. Tice of Willow Hill, and Mrs. Harry Tice of Metal, spent from Saturday until Monday with friends on this side of the mountain.

Peter Morton Hixson aged two years of Akersville, underwent an operation by Dr. W. Albert Mason, at Roaring Springs, Saturday last for club foot.

W. A. Herren of Finch, Ark., writes, "I wish to report that Foley's Kidney Cure has cured a terrible case of kidney and bladder trouble that two doctors had given up."

Walter Peck of Bedford, who had been visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Peck of this place, returned to Bedford last Wednesday.

HOMES WANTED.—For two bright little Fulton county boys aged 6 and 8 years, respectively. May be adopted. Absolute control given. Inquire at this office.

If we were to charge you 25c, a pack we could not make Peerless Horse and Cattle Powder better and we only charge you 10c, for a full pound.

Mr. Harry W. Dubbs of Pittsburg, spent a week at the home of his parents at Fort Littleton, and during that time, greatly enjoyed several excursions through the woods with his gun in quest of game.

Now is the season your stock needs a good blood and condition medicine and you cannot get anything better than Peerless Horse and Cattle Powder, 10c., a pound.

Miss Maude Gillis, one of Fort Littleton's most estimable young ladies, spent a day at the county seat one day last week. Miss Gillis has been in poor health during the past few months and her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

We give a guarantee that there is nothing but absolutely pure drugs in Peerless Horse and Cattle Powder. Only ten cents for a full pound pack.

We are pleased to notice that Dr. T. W. Sharpe, a former citizen of this place, occupies the position of vice president of a new national bank just established in Hartford City, Indiana, where he has resided since leaving McConnellsburg.

The proceedings instituted to condemn rights-of-way for the Wabash through the lands of the late Wm. A. Bowles and the Cement Co. near Hancock have been dismissed, a settlement having been effected. The Bowles heirs receive $6,000 for 25 acres and the Cement Co. $500 for 2 acres and a fraction.

There is no other stock or condition powder on the market that has given such general satisfaction as Peerless Horse and Cattle Powder, and none so cheap, 10c., a pound pack.

While boiling apple butter at her home in Adams county Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Howard Group was burned to death. The flames from the fire under the kettle caught her dress and in an instant the woman was in a blaze. Her clothes were burned from her body before help came and she died in agony several hours after the sad accident.

THE CURING OF WINE.

The Different Kinds Are Named from Localities Where Produced.

After fermented wine is stored in the vaults, a new change takes place as time goes on. All wines contain acids. These acids will gradually separate themselves from the wine, and adhere to the sides of the casks and form a stony crust, which is called wine-stone. Its color may be in part white or red, and out of it is manufactured the cream of tartar, which is sold in our markets.—This acid is sometimes called argol. It has been known that casks of wine were found in the vaults of old castles, which had been uninhabited for hundreds of years, time had rotted off part of the staves, and yet, the wine was nicely preserved, as the argol had formed so thick and perfect a crust, that it could not escape.

Now, the fact is, time alone will separate this acid from the wine and the freer the wine is of it, the better its quality, and the greater its value. The rich lords of Germany store away the wines of extra good vintages in their spacious vaults, which may partly stay there to gladden the hearts of their grandchildren. They will invite those whom they wish to honor, to visit their vaults and sample their priceless old wines, as the rare and costly wine supply, will to a great degree, establish their social standing among their peers.

Now, the most celebrated Rhine wines are named after localities where they are raised, as Hockheimer, Rudersheimer, Nierensteiner, Heidesheimer and Ingelheimer. The connoisseur will unerringly identify each, by their flavor and fragrant odor. Here we might compare Rhine wine with some other European distinguished wines. Rhine wine on the average contains only seven per cent of Alcohol, and is equal therefore to claret of Bordeaux and Champagne (of Marne France). But Sherry (of Xeres in Spain), and Port (of Oporto in Portugal) contains from sixteen to twenty-five per cent of alcohol.

One would suppose that the people of Germany would consume a great deal of wine, which in reality, is not the case. Beer drinking is the rule, wine drunk the exception. Wine is too high priced, to be used by the working classes, as one pint of wine is in price equivalent to eight or ten pints of beer. So beer is consumed to a greater degree; it even takes the place of coffee and tea.

Now, the question arises: Is the German nation promoting the health of its people by making beer a national drink, and consuming such enormous quantities of it? As I understand it, I must say no, surely not. The consumption of beer is so great, it is appalling. Many men will drink gallons of it daily, and shorten their lives thereby. I learned of a score of widows, whose husbands were my school mates, who died in middle age and even before it, and their deaths, were positively attributed to beer. Yet many say a glass of beer will harm no one. I will not say whether it does or not. But I do say very few, will stop at one or two glasses occasionally, but it will become a habit that is hard to overcome, and is the ruin and death of many.

The German government seems to be aware of the harm beer does to the working men. It was the custom to allow them one half hour in the middle of each day to refresh themselves with beer, this is now abolished on the ground that beer drinking, incapacitates a man to do his best, and hinders development of skill and adaption. Now one may ask: Would you advise using wine?—No. What has been said of beer, applies equally to wine. Who then consumes all the costly wines? The upper classes of society of most nations. The wealthy who are able and willing to pay its price. On the steamer, on which I crossed the ocean, I observed that the first class passengers, drank wine almost exclusive of all other beverages. A ten bushel box full of empty wine bottles was in evidence every morning, which had been emptied during the late hours of the night. No diners without wine. In conclusion I would remark that if you seek happiness, do not seek it in drink, for it will surely disappoint you.

ROCKY CLIFF.

Apples are picked and cider is in the cellar.

We are now having our Indian Summer.

The season for open faced pies is at hand. What has become of your pumpkin, Dick?

Last Sunday A. C. and George Sipe were guests of N. S. Strait, and George Fagley visited Frank Sipe.

Clarence Mellott has purchased a new buggy which he puts into private use at the end of each week.

Henry Sipe and John Barber are employed in Big Cove husking corn.

Last Tuesday morning Wesley Hoop and his tenant, Ob Oakmen, on going to the barn were surprised to find one of the large barn doors badly chewed. They think a dog did the work.

The girls say Nevin's horse must have been crippled, for they have never seen him driving his newly purchased horse.

A very ferocious animal about the size of a polar bear was seen near "Niger Cabin Hollow" last Sunday evening. Now, boys, don't travel that road so late.

Where are the skunk hunters? They had better be getting around, as our friend Jimmy got five in one hole.

Haymaking is not over in this township yet; for Geo. W. Decker harvested five loads last Wednesday.

I understand by the last items from Philips Grove that there was a great bubble burst. I hope it did not in any way stunt the growth of the grove.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner Marion, Ind., who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold at Trout's drug store.

The merchant who thinks he can "get along" without the local newspaper, is right. He can also get along without sugar in his coffee, paint on his house, or clothes on his back. That is, he can exist. But if he will devote a little careful study to the subject of "getting along" with the local newspaper, he will find it the greatest assistant he has ever employed at any price. The subject, however, like any other, should be studied. Don't imagine that any kind of rubbish about your business, that you choose to put in your paper, will of necessity repay the cost. The advice to the beginner at chess—"Never make a move without a well defined object in view"—applies to nothing more completely than to advertising. The statements you make through the paper are only half of the proposition. Before making them be sure you are ready to execute what you promise, and if it is at all reasonable, you'll find that the newspaper does its part all right.

Nothing has ever equalled it. Nothing can ever surpass it.
