Family Reunion.

Christmas was a happy day at the old homestead of Elder and Mrs. Thomas Palmer near Needmore. There were present at an early hour all the children, namely Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dixon (Hattie) and family of Chambersburg, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mellott (Maggie), Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lake (Mattie) and family of Pleasant Ridge, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hart (Francie) and family of Needmore, Prof. B. N. Palmer of Orbisonia, and Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Palmer—altogether six children and six grandchildren. There was present also Mr. Palmer's only sister, Mrs. Mann.

Before going out to dinner all were called into the large sitting room, and the aged father took up his Bible and made a few touching and appropriate remarks in which he stated that on the following Sunday he would have rounded out his three-score-and-ten years, and the 40th year of married life. He spoke of the ups and downs of life; of the dark days of the Rebellion, when he bade goodbye to his wife and two little daughters,—as he thought for the last time. Kneeling around the family altar, thanks were humbly tendered to God for all his mercies, and especially that the family had remained unbroken by death.

They next assembled in the dining room, where they found they were all still blessed with good appetites. The afternoon was spent in games and song for a time, and then assembled in the yard, where the Dr. made a picture of the group. The company then repaired to the parlor, where the Christmas tree was shorn of its heavy burden of presents, and much cheer and glee for the grandchildren.

MORE INCENDIARISM.

Another Schoolhouse Burned in Wells Township.

While by no means the largest nor wealthiest, Wells township in this county has for years carried the banner for educational progress and moral reform; and no other township has turned out a greater number of sons who have won distinction in the battle of life.

It was Wells that was first, in this county, to take advantage of the offer of the State to assist in the establishment of township high schools, and through the judicious management of the school board they were able this year to have a high school, employ a professional head at $75.00 a month, and, with the State aid, save the township nearly a hundred dollars.

But now trouble begins: an enemy of progress appears; and during the night of November 27th the school building is fired, and with all its furniture, books and apparatus, is burned.

Nothing daunted, the board, encouraged by their constituents, proceeded to place a contract for a new and better building. Jas. B. Horton took the contract, and the building would have been completed Monday, but—about 4 o'clock Monday morning the new building was discovered enveloped in flames; and daylight found nothing but a smoldering bed of coals and ashes.

The board meets to-night, and will proceed to build another; and, as an added precaution, will purchase a well trained blood hound; for had they been in possession of one of these animals, it would have been an easy matter to have had the incendiary Monday morning.
