JANUARY TERM OF COURT

Hearing of Petitions for and Opposing Liquor Licenses Consumes Nearly a Day.

BIG FIGHT AGAINST DUBLIN'S HOTEL.

Immediately after the court crier convened the regular session of the January courts at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Clerk Harris read the commission of Associate Judge William H. Bender, and that official took his seat.

The court appointed D. V. Sipes tipstaff to fill a vacancy existing.

The report of W. Scott Alexander, appointed to report on the mental condition of Alexander Bernhard, of Bethel township, was presented. The court said the appointment of his son, Grant Bernhard, as a committee would be confirmed unless exceptions be filed within ten days.

The examining committee of the Fulton County Bar association reported favorably upon the application of Frank P. Lynch, and in admitting him to practice in the courts of Fulton county Judge Swope administered the customary oath.

The next business to occupy the attention of the court was the matter of hearing the petitions for the granting of liquor licenses and the remonstrances against the same. The first petition taken up was that of George Rexroth for license at the Fulton House in McConnellsburg. A general remonstrance by the Moral Reform association was presented by Rev. J. L. Grove. The petition for license bore the signatures of twenty-four electors and the remonstrance was signed by ninety-two male and female adults. The court said that the number signing the remonstrance would have had great weight in the case if this had been an original petition for license. The fact, however, that this was an old established hostelry, the necessity for license being apparent and there being no specific charges, the remonstrance being general in character, the license would be granted.

Petition of Leslie W. Seylar for license at the Cooper House, in McConnellsburg. There was also a general remonstrance in this case. For reasons set forth in the case preceding license was granted and bond approved.

There was no remonstrance against the granting of a liquor license asked for by Harry Hamill for the Eagle Hotel at Fort Littleton, and the same was granted.

When the petition of John E. Speck, for license for his hotel at Burnt Cabins, was presented by Attorney Daniels, it developed that there was pronounced opposition to the granting of the license. The applicant was specifically charged with being intemperate, selling liquors in quantities of more than one quart, selling to minors and to men of known intemperate habits. M. R. Shaffner, Esq., represented the remonstrants. The inquiry into these charges was exhaustive, and a large number of witnesses were called to sustain them. Probably as many more testified to the temperate habits, within the meaning of the law, of the applicant, and that he had conducted his hotel in an orderly manner. At the conclusion of the testimony and addresses for and against the petition, the court summed up the matter with his associates. They decided that it would be safe to entrust Mr. Speck with a license for the ensuing year, and it was accordingly granted.

It was near the close of the day's session when the petition of James H. Fields for a license to sell liquor at Clear Ridge was presented. There was a remonstrance against the granting of the privilege of selling intoxicating beverages at this point, but before it was presented the application was withdrawn.

At this juncture court adjourned until Wednesday at 9 o'clock a. m.

Birthday Surprise.

It came about this way: Last Monday evening Mrs. S. M. Cook called at the home of her neighbor, Mrs. S. A. Nesbit, and succeeded in impressing upon the mind of the latter that they owed their down-street friends some calls, and that the matter ought to be attended to at once. Mrs. Nesbit hustled around, and in a few minutes the pair was proceeding down Courthouse Hill. (Not coasting). Well, their friends were glad to see them, and Mrs. Nesbit was enjoying the evening, with the exception, as she said, Mrs. Cook wanted to be a little too formal, and the calls were rather short; and to add to her surprise, Mrs. Cook suggested going home at a rather early hour.

It was only a little past 8 o'clock when Mrs. Cook had succeeded in returning Mrs. Nesbit to the latter's door, when upon it being opened, a parlor full of friends were there to congratulate Mrs. Nesbit in having reached another mile post in the journey of life.

An hour later Miss Netha served delightful refreshments and the company remained until nearly midnight.
