PNEUMONIA'S DANGERS.

Fatal Inflammation of Lungs Commences With Cold.

At this time when pneumonia is prevailing and counting its victims by the hundreds any means of preventing the disease are of obvious intarest to prospective victims. It is from such a stand point that we venture some suggestions which may serve their purpose in protecting those who may be especially exposed to the sudden and mevitable changes in the weather it this season. It is generally admitted that the fatal form of inflammation of the lungs commences with a "cold of longer or shorter duration" and that epidemic influences and individual susceptibility to infection are prime factors in inducing the much-dreaded malady. Theyoung strong individual has the advantage of inherent vital resistance to any prevailing disease, while the feeble and old succumb quickly. This must always be borne in mind in estimating the ultimate the basis of the Presidential balare always dangerous, even to the most hardy, and much more so to him with the "neglected cold."

TI e prevention of the initiative catarrh is the most important consideration of all. Most people cast in 1900, McKinley received do not know how to keep warm in 292, and Bryan 155, a majority the proper way. It is a question for McKinley of 137 electoral of suitable clothing adapted to changes of weather and of properly heated houses. The main did in 1900 the Republican candithing is to be comfortable and not date would receive 311 electoral overheated-the lighter overcoat votes and the Democratic candifor walking and the heavier one date 165. In order to secure a for ariving.

There should be no difficulty in votes will be necessary, therefore selecting the proper material for the Democrats will need 74 votes garments. Those which are of in addition to what they had bewool and which are considered as fore. affording most protection against cold are always at hand.

SOME POLITICAL POINTS.

The Presidential Electoral Colge this year will contain twentyine more votes than did the colege of 1900. This is the result of the new apportionment followng the census year of 1900. The id college contained 447 votes; he new one will contain 476. On chances of escape.
