Does a Vacation Pay?

Does it pay to regain your cheerful personality?

Does it pay to sip power from its very fountain head?

Does it pay to increase your creative power and originality?

Does it pay to get a firmer grip on your business or profession?

Does it pay to regain your lost confidence by upholding your health?

Do you want to get rid of the scars and stains of the year's campaign?

Will a fresh, vigorous brain serve you better than a fagged, jaded one?

Does it pay to exchange flaccid, stiffened muscles for strong elastic ones?

Does it pay to get a new grip on life and to double your power to do good work?

Does it pay to put iron into the blood and to absorb granite strength from the everlasting hills?

Does it pay to renew the buoyancy and lightheartedness, the spontaneity and enthusiasm of youth?

Does it pay to get in tune with the infinite by drinking in the medicinal tonic from the everlasting hills?

Does it pay to get rid of your nagging, rasping disposition so that you can attract people instead of repelling them?

Does it pay to get rid of some of our narrow prejudices, hatred and jealousies that are encouraged by the strenuous city life?

Does it pay to add to the comfort and happiness of ourselves and others about us by being brighter and more cheerful ourselves?—Orison Swett Marden, in Success.

A Legacy Worthwhile.

Solicitous for the welfare of his son, the late George O. B. Angle, Kassiesville, Franklin county, shortly before his death, placed a letter in possession of his wife, to be read to their boy when he should be old enough to understand.

"You were too little to understand me when I was living, and I take this method of speaking to you when I am dead and gone. I would have been glad could I have lived to see you grow to manhood but it was not God's will. I ask you to be a good boy and always do what is right, never go in bad company; work and save your money that you may not come in need; don't spend one cent for anything you don't need; don't go in debt and keep a sharp lookout for those who try to deceive you. Be a good Christian; praise God and never do anything but what is right, and my boy will prosper: Take the best care of your health and remember that you will not know what it is worth till you lose it. Be good to your mother; do everything that is in your power for her; never cause her trouble. Don't run around at night; never take anything not your own. Hoping you will never forget me, I am your father."

Mrs. Jennie Miller and Charlie Heeter spent a few hours in town yesterday.

Miss Nora Conrad, a stenographer in the employ of the Standard Supply and Equipment Company, Pittsburg, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Conrad.
