The Chinese exhibit at the World's Fair is filled with pleasing surprises.

Models included in this interesting exhibit show the homes and home life of the Chinese, their weddings and funerals, Chinese tea house, restaurant and shop, Chinese weaving and some of the beautiful silks and wearing apparel of the Chinese and their methods of manufacturing them.

One feature of the exhibit is two magnificent Chinese beds, each of which has the appearance of being a small house of great beauty.

The first contains four chairs, a tea tray and a chest of drawers. This is the sitting apartment. The second is the dressing room, and the third is the sleeping apartment, or the couch itself. The furniture is of rosewood inlaid with ivory carving of birds, flowers and trees. The couch is covered with silks of the finest texture and in gaudy colors. The sleeping compartments are lighted with Chinese lanterns of silk hung at the outer entrance, while the light enters through gauze panels, hand painted and in forms of rosewood inlaid with ivory figures.

A table and dish made of highly polished ash, with exquisitely carved bamboo figures inlaid, are shown. The work is so artistically done that each article seems to have been made of one piece of wood.

There is also a large display of Chinese lanterns made of silk, gauze and other light material and some made of beads artistically arranged with glass centers. The silk and gauze are beautifully hand painted.

There are models of some of the great Chinese temples, theaters and arches, showing elaborate carving in wood and ivory and two large elephant tusks exquisitely carved.

Lincoln and the Rebel Washerwoman.

An ex-governor of Missouri appeared before the president near the close of the war. With the most solemn deliberation he began: "Mr. President, I want to call your attention to the case of Betsy Ann Dougherty, a good woman. She lived in—county, and did my washing for a long time. Her husband went off and joined the rebel army, and I wish you would give her a protection paper."

The two men looked at each other, the governor desperately in earnest, and the president masking his humor behind the gravest exterior. At last Mr. Lincoln asked, with inimitable gravity: "Was Betsy Ann a good washerwoman?"

"O, yes, sir; she was, indeed."

"Was your Betsy Ann an obliging woman?"

"Yes, she was certainly very kind," responded the governor soberly.

"Could she do other things than wash?" continued Mr. Lincoln with the same portentous gravity.

"O, yes; she was very kind—very."

"Where is Betsy Ann?"

"She is now in New York, and wants to come back to Missouri, but she is afraid of banishment."

"Is anybody meddling with her?"

"No; but she is afraid to come back unless you will give her a protection paper."

Thereupon Mr. Lincoln wrote on a visiting card the following: "Let Betsy Ann Dougherty alone as long as she behaves herself."

"A. LINCOLN."

He handed this card to her advocate, saying: "Give this to Betsy Ann."

"But, Mr. President, couldn't you write a few words to the officers that would insure her protection?"

"No," said Mr. Lincoln; "Officers have no time now to read letters. Tell Betsy Ann to put a string on this card, and hang it around her neck. When the officers see it they will keep their hands off Betsy Ann."

A critical observer of this ludicrous scene could not fail to see that Mr. Lincoln was seeking needed relaxation from overburdening cares, relief from the severe mental strain he was daily undergoing. By giving attention to mirth-provoking trifles, along with matters of serious concern, he found needed diversion. We will never know how the country profited by the humor-loving nature of this wonderful man.

Col. Ward H. Lamon, who describes this queer episode, further says it:

"After patiently hearing all the Missouri committee had to say and giving them the best assurance circumstances would allow, the room was cleared. He then enjoyed a hearty laugh and resumed his accustomed melancholy contemplative mood, as if looking for something else—looking for the end. He sat for a time at his desk thinking, than turning to me he said:

"This case of our old friend the governor and his Betsy Ann is a fair sample of the trifles I am constantly asked to give attention to. I wish I had no more serious questions to deal with. If there were more Betsy Anns and fewer fellows like her husband we would be better off. She seems to have laundried the governor to his full satisfaction, but I am sorry she didn't keep her husband washed cleaner."—Exchange.

A Sweet Breath

is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

Mrs. Mary S. Crick of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years; tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet.

THE New York World

THIRICE-A-WEEK EDITION. Read wherever the English Language is Spoken. The Thrice-a-Week World long ago established itself in public favor, and it is now recognized as the strongest publication of its kind in the United States. Advertisers and publishers seeking clubbing combinations—and they know best—universally testify to this. It is widely circulated in every State and Territory of the Union, and even in remote South Africa and on the gold fields in the deserts of Australia. These are the things that tell. This year we have the Presidential campaign, in which all Americans are deeply interested. Already the issues are being discussed and the two great parties are preparing for the first moves. You will not want to miss any details, and if you subscribe now your year's subscription will cover the campaign from beginning to end. The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fair in political news. Partisan bias is never allowed to effect its news columns, and Democrat and Republican alike can obtain in its pages truthful accounts of all the great political contests. In addition to all the news, the Thrice-a-Week World furnishes the best serial fiction, elaborate market reports and other features of interest. The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Fulton County News together one year for $1.75. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.
