Disturbances of strikers are not nearly as grave as an individual disorder of the system. Overwork, loss of sleep, nervous tension will be followed by utter collapse, unless a reliable remedy is immediately employed. ALL THE STATES AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Many Beautiful Pavilions and Preten tious Buildings Show Forth the Enterprise of American Commonwealths.

A beautiful city has grown up among at St. Louis. It has nothing to do with the immense exhibit palaces, but is a thing apart. The houses in this new city are of various styles of architecture. Some are palatial in size and appearance, while others look merely cozy and inviting. Never before have so from the ground, many notable and historic buildings been constructed in one group. This new city might be called the City of the States, for the houses included in it are the state buildings at the Fair. The city is not compact, but some what straggling, as befits the picturesqueness of the view. Yet there is nothing suggestive of a Stringtownon-the-Pike about this city, for the grounds surrounding each of the houses are beautified with gardens typical of the state represented. All the states are to be represented at the World's Fair. This means a great deal, a shining triumph for the Louislana Purchase Exposition, and furnishes another illustration of the fact that this Exposition's completeness is the marvel of the age. Fifty-one states, territories and possessions of the United States have taken the steps necessary to participate in the World's Fair on an impor tant scale. But two states were still outside the fold at the last report, and in each of these was a well defined movement in favor of being represented at the Fair with buildings and exhibits. New Hampshire, the old home state, and Delaware are the states re ferred to. In New Hampshire a fund for participation is being raised privately by patriotic citizens, so that in the event of legislative inaction this commonwealth may be represented.

The states and territories are expending over $7,000,000 in their efforts to show off to best advantage at the Exposition. This is a million and a third more than was expended at the Chiengo exposition by the states. In addition to this, large cities in many states will have municipal exhibits, the funds for which are not included in these figures. The municipal exhibit idea is entirely novel. From a number of the states there will be prominent county exhibits provided by special appropriation of county funds. This City of the States presents a pleture of surpassing beauty. Nature has done much to aid in the creation of the picture. Never before has any exposition been able to grant such advantageous sites for state buildings. The buildings are situated on a plateau about seventy-five feet higher than the level ground to the north upon which stand the main exhibit palaces. There are hills and ravines here and there, enabling the landscapists to lay out a most delightful pattern of roads and terraces and lawns. The smallest of the state buildings is that of Arizona, which stands near the southeastern entrance to the grounds. One of the largest is that of Missouri, perhaps the very finest view of the Exposition may be enjoyed. This building is a palace in the Italian renaissance architecture, built at a cost of $105,000. Near by is the reproduction of the Cabildo at New Orleans, in which the Louislana Purchase transfer ceremonies took place -- Louislana's state building. Ohio has a clubhouse httle boy was saved" writes Mrs. of highly ornate design, in the architec ture of the French renaissance. Illinois is prominent with a most pretentious structure, with wide verandas and a commanding cupola. A description of each of the state buildings, with any detail, would more than fill a newspaper page. It is only possible here to hint at some of the interesting structures. California, for instance, has reproduced in exact size the famous old La Rabida Mission. Connecticut presents a replica of the Sigourney residence at Hartford, home of the poetess Lydia Huntley Sigourney in her time. This building is said to be the finest specimen of purely colonial architecture now standing. The New Kentucky Home, from the Blue Grass State, is a handsome clubhouse that would make some of the mansions along Fifth avenue, New York city, look insignificant. Beauvoir, the quaint old house which Jefferson Davis owned and occupied for many years, is reproduced by Missis-Its wide verandas or galleries give it a most inviting appearance. Washington's headquarters at Morris town, N. J., are reproduced by New Jersey. Virginia contributes Monti-

Samuel Rupp, a resident of cello, the home of Thomas Jefferson. The state of Washington contributes a structure of unique design. It is called the Wigwam, five stories high, built of wood from Washington forests. The building is octagonal, with gigantic diagonal timbers rising in his usual good health at 6 from the ground and meeting in an o'clock that evening. After eat apex ninety feet in the air, above which is built an observatory, from which a splendid view of the Exposition may be had. An elevator will

> New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Arkansas, Colorado, West Virginia, Indiana, Wisconsin, Texas and many other states are represented by build ings which cannot fall to arouse admiration. The Texas building is in the shape of a five pointed star, an appropriate idea for the big Lone Star State. Iowa has a magnificent mansion, with classic porticoes and a central tower containing an observa tory chamber. Kansas, Indian Territory and Oklahoma each uphold the growing reputation of the southwest

JACK CRAIG DEAD.

He Fell Fromia Wagon Last Evening and Fractured His Skull.

Tannery, mer with an accident Monday, October 3, 1904. last evening which cost him his lite. He and his grandson, Ettis, the trees on the World's Fair grounds a boy of thirteen, perhaps, were returning from Mercersburg station with a load of dry goods, the boy walking by the near horse, and Mr. Craig sittine on top of a store box on the wagon eight feet | Garland.

How it happened may never be known, but about a mile and a quarter east of Webster Mills on the Hunter road, the boy missed his grandfather, and going back about a hundred yards found him Covait. lying in the road, he having fallen from the wagon.

The boy ran to Webster Mills, and as soon as possible returned ith Dr. Sappington and others. They found Mr. Craig badly inured but conscious. They con- Kirk, James Kendall, eyed him to Dr. Sappington's office, but he died in a few minutes after reaching there.

Mr. Craig was born in Ayr ownship in 1829. His parents, William and Sarah Craig moved into Thompson township, this county in 1820, but soon thereafter bought a property in Ayr township, where they spent the remainder of their lives.

A. J. Craig was a wagonmaker by trade, and in his younger manhood taught school. He served as county auditor, and several terms as justice of the perce. The latter part of his life he spent farming. He was married twice -first to Catharine Harr, who died in 1862, and later to Anna Carbaugh, who died in 1882.

The cause of the fall from the wagon was probably due to an atack of vertigo, and his death was due to a fracture at the base of the brain.

At the time of going to press this morning, we are not informed as to the funeral arrangements.
