An exchange says that a new and clever swindle is being operated by a man who is going about the country representing himself as a repairer of sewing machines. He asks to examine the machine, and while doing so takes out good pieces and inserts broken parts and calls the lady's attention to it, then he slyly replaces the good piece he has removed and charges exorbitant prices for his work. Look out for him. He is one of the smoothest swindlers that ever came down the pike.

The attention of the proper officers of this Borough is directed to those boys and young men who congregate on our streets during the evening and engage in conduct that would land every one of them in jail, if they lived in any other town in the United States than in McConnellsburg. The ears of passers-by are shocked by the most reckless expressions of profanity and vulgarity, and when a young lady chances to pass, she becomes the subject of such remarks that betrays a depravity most deplorable. Parents that have any care for the future welfare of their boys want to see to it that they are kept off the street after nightfall; for it is impossible that they should escape being influenced by such characters.

Robbed the Urave.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed at Trout's drug store.

FROG RAISING INDUSTRY.

To Be Encouraged by the Pennsylvania Fishing Commission.

"Frogs!" said the marketman. "I could sell a thousand of them this minute if I had them. While the clubs and big hotels are crying for them we can't get a baker's dozen in a week."

Recognizing the growing demand for frogs as an article of epicurean diet, the Fishing Commission of the State of Pennsylvania has decided to encourage the raising of frogs by distributing free millions of tadpoles to farmers and others who are in a position to take up frog raising as an industry. Heretofore there has been little systematic attempt to supply the market with frogs. In vacation days bands of boys have hunted the marshlands in search of the croakers, knowing that they were sure of a little pocket money for the trouble of taking a basketful of "bulls" to market.

The method of catching the frogs has been to fish for them with a hook and line, the bait being a piece of red flannel. The game will jump for this delusive temptation and find itself caught on the hook. Another way the boys have of obtaining a supply of frogs for the market is to shoot them with small shot from an air rifle. The regular fishermen, those who seek out a living by catching frogs when fish are scarce, and who ply their trade in the swamplands of Jersey and elsewhere, depend upon the quickness of their hand to capture the elusive quarry.

Without these irregular sources of supply the marketmen have been unable to furnish their customers with a steady quantity of frogs, and at times the caterers have been compelled to withdraw the item from their menus. The law governing supply and demand has put the price of frogs in these times to a figure that makes it actually profitable to raise them for market purposes, and the State of Pennsylvania intends to assist all who wish to take up the industry by supplying the nucleus for a frogery.

Epicures say that fried frog is a dainty fit for a king. Some eat only the legs. In the markets, however, frogs are exhibited in their entirety, minus the skin. It is said that all parts of the frog are edible, but some limit their desires to the hind legs. The appearance of the frog, both before and after he has been prepared for sale in the market, is not appetizing, but those who are able to close their eyes to this drawback, say that as between fried frog and fried chicken their preferences are decidedly with the former.—N. Y. Tribune.

Spent More than $1000.

W. W. Baker, of Plainview, Neb., writes: "My wife suffered from lung trouble for fifteen years. She tried a number of doctors and spent over $1000 without relief. She became very low and lost all hope. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and thanks to this great remedy it saved her life. She enjoys better health than she has known in ten years." Refuse substitutes. Sold at Trout's drug store.

GRACE AND BEAUTY

is highly exemplified in the New Colonial cut glass. In this style of cutting the very best crystal glass, entirely free from imperfection is necessary. Purchases made recently while in New York City are now arriving. Improvement on this style of cutting is manifestly impossible, the graceful, curved flutings ending in plain rounded edges entirely satisfies the longing after soft subdued elegance. Candlesticks, Berry Bowls, Creams and Sugar, Salt and Pepper Shakers, Mayonaise Bowls, Tankards, Etc. You are invited, come whether shopping bound or pleasure bent. All visitors welcome.
