Truths that Strike Home

Your grocer is honest and—if he cares to do so—can tell you that he knows very little about the bulk coffee he sells you. How can he know, where it originally came from, how it was blended—or with what—or when roasted! If you buy your coffee loose by the pound, how can you expect purity and uniform quality?

LION COFFEE, the LEADER OF ALL PACKAGE COFFEES, is of necessity uniform in quality, strength and flavor. For 6VER A QUARTER OF A CENTURY, LION COFFEE has been the standard coffee in millions of homes.

LION COFFEE is carefully packed your home, has no chance of being adulterated, or of coming incontact with dust, dirt, germs, or unclean hands.

Easy Washing.
While water is heating in the boiler. shave good laundry soap, and put to melt on the stove in half a gallon of water. Then take off, let cool a few minutes outdoors and stir in a cupful of gasoline. Pour this into the tub. put in the whitest clothes, let soak for fifteen minutes, wring out, rinse in hot water, and hang to dry. Treat the rest of the clothes in the same way, and the morning work and the wash can thus be done at the same time.

Bedspreads. Bedspreads are ornate or simple as taste and the pocketbook dictate. Brocaded satins to match the coloring of the room, and covering not only the bed but the French rell bolsters as well are fashionable, as also quaint old-fashioned chintzes gorgeously flowered, plain or trimused with a wide insertion of heavy white linen lace let in all around the edges above a deep hem. A beautiful texture for bed covers and hangings is also found in the Japanese fabrics. These come in pure white with a knotted fringe in tan color with lace of the same shade. For the majority of folk, however, the old-time favorite Marsellles still find favor and are indeed fashionable. Similar to the Marseilles are the "satins," which are said to wear even better. Honeycomb spreads are light and easy to do up. For the country house there is nothing better than what is known as "hospital cloth." This is crinkly and has only to be washed and shaken out to be as good as new .- Washington Times.

The House Reautiful, in its unique series of articles on the bathtub of the rich, describes several bathrooms. some good and others very bad in design. The worst of all is in the home of a multi-millionaire. It is described as, "properly speaking, not a bathroom, but an overdecorated, over furuished room in which a bathtub has been placed." The bathtub is sunk in the floor, which is not in the least objectionable, but the rest of the com is filled with stuffed furniture, easy chairs, footstools, carved tea tables, draped tables, lamps, screens, palms and actually a small bookease. It does not seem as if bad taste could go farther. Few people of moderate means would tolerate, even if they could afford, such a bathroom, yet too many people suffer their bathrooms to be clustered up with useless furni-Nothing superfluous should be tolerated.

Sewing Aprons.

There is really something new in aprons. This time it is one which is not only to be worn when one is doing fancy work, crocheting or fine needle work, but which forms a receptacle for the work in question when it is to be put away.

The apron is rounded at the bottom, does not reach below the knees, and is made double. Linen lawn is the material usually employed, but any sufficiently thin white goods can, of course, be substituted. Dotted muslin is preity. Take one width of the goods. leave it straight across the top, but round off the lower corners so that the apron itself shall have a decidedly round appearance when gathered into the band. Cut front and back alike. Then in the front piece cut two oval openings, one on each side, large enough for the band to slip into easily. Bind each opening with white or col-ored ribbon. Next make a ruffle to extend all around the apron, and edge the ruffle with ribbon of the same color as that used for binding the pocket openings. Some cheaper material than the ribbon may be used in both cases if preferred. Set the ruffle in between the front and back portions of the apron and stitch in place. The apron is now ready to be gathered and set into a band, which may be of ribbon or of the goods. The completed apron forms a large pocket, or flat bag, into which the work may be thrust through the openings at the top. For knitting or crochet the bag serves to hold the balls of wool; for sewing it keeps together all the small sewing utensils, except the scissors, and even these may be slipped in if they are small and have rounded ends, -Newark Advertiser.

A vender with a patent manicuring tool, clippers, file and pick, three in one, and one for three cents, took up his stand on the surb. He demon strated the ease with which the tool could be handled on the first newsboy who came along. The boy marched down the row, showing off his hands proudly.

"I've been manicured," he declared. "Did it hurt?" "Was she a blond beaut?" "How much, Snickers?" were some of the quations.

Man Who Did Too Well. "A man may sell too much of the article which he is displaying to his customers, and I know of a case in point which happened to a friend of mine," said Hite Bowman.

"My friend had a fine place offered him with an organ factory, and he accepted it, the salary being up in the four figures. He went out, and to his first customer sold the entire output of the plant. The customer agreed to take all that the factory could make. Having nothing more to sell, my friend returned to the house well pleased with his success, and for several days sat around smoking good cigars, while the firm patted him on the back. One day he came in and the boss called him over, saying in this fashion:

"'I will have to give you the usual thirty days' notice. You have done so well that we have no further use for you or any traveling man. We are sorry to lose you, but you sold too much at the first crack."-Louisville Conrier-Journal.
