

KILL WITHOUT MERCY

Panic-Stricken People Flee From Lodz and Cossacks.

AN APPEAL FOR PROTECTION.

In One Instance the Brutal Soldiers Killed an Entire Family of Jews Who Were Out Driving—A Millionaire's Servant Robbed and Murdered—General Shustow Promises to Punish Offenders.

Lodz, Russian Poland (By Cable).—The most serious phase of the fighting between the military and strikers is at an end, but there are still isolated attacks in the suburbs. At Balty Cossacks attacked a Jewish family of five persons who were driving in a cab to the railway station and shot and killed all including the cabin.

At Paljanice, near Lodz, workmen attacked two policemen, shot and killed one and wounded the other.

There is a general exodus from Lodz. Twelve thousand persons have already left and all trains are crowded.

During the disturbances 35 government liquor stores were destroyed by the mobs, which appropriated all the cash and stamps found on the premises.

The cash and stamps were added to the funds of the Socialist party.

Some prominent citizens telegraphed General Shustow, commanding the troops here, asking for protection against the brutality of the soldiers, especially the Cossacks, who in one instance killed and robbed the servant of a millionaire named Rosenblatt, who was carrying $5,000 to the bank. The general promised to punish the offenders, but said he required witnesses of the occurrence to testify against the Cossacks.

Warsaw (By Cable).—The proclamation issued by the Social Democratic party of Poland and Lithuania calling out workmen as a protest against the Lodz massacres, declares that in order to show the solidarity of their brethren and to protest against "the new and incessant crimes of the Emperor's government" all Warsaw must stop work.

The proclamation orders that no single factory or workshop shall be operated, and that offices, shops, restaurants and coffee houses must close and all traffic must cease. It says that the red flag, the flag of the workmen, must float in the streets of Warsaw, and calls upon all workmen to help their brothers arrange a general strike.

The military is patrolling the streets in the factory and Jewish districts.

In the suburb of Praga workmen shot and wounded two policemen.

In Ogrodowa street there was an encounter between vandals and a crowd and shot were fired on both sides. Three civilians and one policeman were wounded. In other streets processions of workmen were dispersed.

Lodz is the capital of the district of the same name in the government of Piotrkow, Russian Poland. It is 87 miles southeast of Warsaw and stands on the banks of the Lodzka River, occupying an area of about 11 square miles. The city is a great manufacturing center, particularly in the line of textiles. There are some 400 establishments, employing more than 40,000 persons and having an annual output valued at $25,000,000. Cotton goods and woollens are the principal products, but silks, machinery and linen are also manufactured.

CHILDREN HELD AS PEONS.

Regular System of Slavery Believed to Exist in Chicago.

Chicago (Special).—A system of virtual child slavery, in which children under 14 years old are "farmed out" into households in an attempt to solve the "servant-girl problem," is a state of affairs that has been brought to the attention of the Department of Compulsory Education, following startling revelations in various justice courts of Chicago in the last few weeks.

That such a system exists to an alarming degree is the declaration of Superintendent W. L. Bodine, who has secured the conviction of Mrs. Otilie Kromnick on the charge of violating the Compulsory Education law.

"This is the tenth case of its kind that I have had in the last three weeks," said Mr. Bodine. "Judging from the testimony of various witnesses at the trials of these cases, it is estimated there are hundreds of children from institutions who are drugging as servants in many households of the city without being sent to school."

Mrs. Kromnick was fined $20 and costs, the limit in such cases. The two children under her charge were Adelaide Walley, 13 years old, and Edward Ritter, 10 years old. The woman said she had taken the girl from a sectarian orphan asylum in the city eight years ago.

Warrants have been secured for several persons, many of whom are said to have taken children from institutions and forced them to do work far beyond their strength.

Boy Kills Baby Brother.

Port Jervis, N. Y. (Special).—William Smith, 9 years old, shot and killed his brother Harry, 18 months old, while they were playing alone in the parlor. The gun belonged to an older brother and stood in a corner of the room. It was supposed not to be loaded. Coroner Case decided that the shooting was accidental. The mother said Willie had diphtheria a few months ago, and his mind had been affected since.

Marooned on Wedgong Eve.

Clayton, N. Y. (Special).—George Cooper, of Syracuse, who is to be married to Miss Jeanette Williams, also of Syracuse, was marooned by joking friends on a barren island in the middle of St. Lawrence River. In order to reach Syracuse in time for the ceremony he swam a mile to Grindstone Island, where he secured a boat and arrived at Clayton in time to catch his train.

1,000 Years For Negro.

Waco, Texas (Special).—A sentence of 100 years, or 1,000 years, in State's prison was pronounced upon Lee Robertson, a negro laborer, who attempted to assault Mrs. Alona Robinson, wife of his employer. Mrs. Robinson's husband was absent at the time, and in resisting the attack her scalp was badly torn and one hand was bitten to the bone. The jury could not assess the death penalty, as the deed was not accomplished, but, there being no limit as to the term he might be given in the penitentiary, the court made it to cover the term and one day over.

NEWS IN SHORT ORDER.

The Latest Happenings Condensed for Rapid Reading.

Domestic.

Paul Morton returned from Washington to New York and resumed his work as chairman of the Equitable Society.

The Houston and Texas Central Railroad will sell its lands in Northwest Texas south of the Oklahoma line.

The village of Vicksburg, Mich., is bankrupt as the result of the closing of the Vicksburg Exchange Bank.

The officials of the Lake Shore Railroad are still investigating the wreck of the "Titanic" century flier.

Assistant Secretary of State Loomis has sailed for Europe on a secret mission for President Roosevelt.

Rev. Augustus Rohrbach resigned as secretary of the Evangelical Lutheran General Synod of Missouri.

Mrs. Aggie Myers, who was found guilty of murdering her husband, was sentenced to be hanged.

The installation of Modern Woodmen at Milwaukee ended with the installation of officers.

The Seaboard Air Line will extend its road to the sources of the Big Sandy River.

An effort is to be made for the preservation of the home of Paul Revere in Boston.

Naval officers witnessed the test of the new gun turret at Bethlehem.

A fatal case of bubonic plague occurred at La Bocat.

Consul General Wymne sailed for England.

Another warrant was issued for the arrest of John W. Hill, formerly chief of the Filtration Bureau of Philadelphia, on charges of forgery. Mr. Hill is now under $5,000 bail for trial on similar charges.

A condition bordering on slavery has been found to exist in Chicago in several cases of children who were transferred from institutions to families who did not raise them properly.

The Modern Woodmen, in session at Milwaukee, have endorsed a plan to hold a congress to urge fraternal insurance over old-line insurance.

Miss Lillian Moore, of Pomphreysville, was fatally injured in a trolley collision at Fishkill, Lond.

Illinois coal miners have offered to submit their differences with operators to arbitration.

The Vicksburg (Mich.) Bank, a private institution has closed its doors.

Governor Carter, of Honolulu, has resigned.

Westbound passenger train No. 5, on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, was wrecked at Finno, a small station, three miles west of Grand Junction, Col. No fatalities resulted.

The report of Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks, of New York, was submitted to District Attorney Jerome for his use, should he think criminal action is justifiable.

W. H. Grenell, of Pierrepont Manor, N. Y., was elected president of the American Sewing Association at the annual convention at Alexandria Bay, N. Y.

A boiler at the sawmill of the Curtis Atalla (Ala.) lumber plant exploded, killing James Watts, Will Rossen, Gus Cash and Marion Maddox.

The last refining building at the packing plant of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, at Armourdale, Kan., was destroyed by fire, loss, $200,000.

Mrs. Loretta Sanson, of Danversport, Ia., refused a bequest of $30,000 that was made on condition that she become a Catholic.

The Supreme Court of Illinois granted a new trial to Joseph Briggs, convicted in Chicago of the murder of Hans Peterson.

August Belmont has tendered his resignation as director of the Equitable Society to former President Grover Cleveland.

Carl Schurz, of New York, delivered the address at the commencement exercises at the University of Wisconsin.

The train dispatchers in convention in Denver, Col., reiterated its stand in favor of the block system.

The festival of the North American Gymnastic Union began in Indianapolis yesterday.

Foreign.

Thirty persons were drowned recently through the capsizing of a bark which had arrived in the Minks River, in Spain, from Portugal.

The French public is said to have the war fever, and military men are making a comparison of the armies of the two countries.

Stephen Grzejka, who threw a bomb into a police station in Warsaw, killing six policemen, was sentenced to death.

Mrs. James Brown Potter's household effects were sold at auction in London under a bill of sale.

Miss Beatrice Winans was married in Paris to Prince Henry Galard de Buerq de Cesaldis.

Emperor William was entertained on the American yacht at Kiel.

The Sultan of Turkey is reported to be ill.

At a meeting of 63 policyholders in the Equitable Assurance Society in Berlin it was decided to form a committee of three policyholders and three members of the German Fire Insurance Union, which suggested the meeting.

The German representative of the Equitable to the meeting read a telegram from Paul Morton, the new chairman, couched in reassuring terms.

A banquet was given by the Pictoria Club in London in honor of Mr. Whitlaw Reid, the American ambassador to Great Britain. Speeches were made by Mr. Reid, Lord Roberts (who presided), Premier Balfour and others.

The French note to Germany on the Moroccan situation has not alleviated the delicacy of the situation, and there is uneasiness in both capitals.

The House of Commons authorized the raising of a loan of $10,000,000 for the construction of railroads in India.

A man carrying a bomb was arrested in front of a police station in Warsaw.

Twenty-two persons were killed in the firing by Cossacks on a procession of workmen in Lodz. Two women were crushed to death. Ten of the wounded will die.

A Russian countess was suspected of robbing American guests at a hotel in St. Petersburg.

Emperor William raced his yacht Meteor III, against the Hamburg and won by a minute.

King Alfonso approved the new Spanish Cabinet, of which General Montero Rios is premier.

Fifty persons are reported to have been killed in a collision between the strikers and the troops in Lodz, Poland.

The new ministry formed in Greece after the recent assassination of Premier Delagmas has resigned and the crisis is serious.

TWO STEAMERS CRASH

Collision in St. Clair River, Near Detroit.

STEERING GEAR GOT OUT OF ORDER.

Wooden Vessels City of Rome and Linden Run into Each Other—Two Members of the Crew of the Linden Were Drowned—There Were Passengers on Both of the City of Rome and the Linden.

Detroit, Mich. (Special).—The wooden steamer City of Rome and Linden collided in the St. Clair River, opposite Tashmoo Park, and both were sunk. Two members of the crew of the Linden—the cook and his wife—were drowned. The other members of both crews escaped in safety from the sinking boats. The City of Rome was bound down, with a cargo of iron ore, and the Linden was upbound. Off Tashmoo Park the Linden, it is said, suddenly sheered and rammed the City of Rome, damaging her so that the steamer sank almost immediately, to feet off the Tashmoo dock.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

The Linden, although badly damaged, limped along until off the head of Russel Island, where she sank in the channel. All the members of the crew excepting the cook and his wife escaped from the sinking boat. The Linden's cabin and other works broke away from the hull as the steamer went down, and, with the captain on it, drifted some distance down stream, where it grounded on a shoal.

The City of Rome was built at Cleveland in 1887, and belonged to the J. C. Gilchrist fleet. The Linden was built in 1895 at Port Huron, and is owned by the Sandusky Box and Lumber Company, of Sandusky, O.

Captain Holmes, of the City of Rome, says that the collision occurred a quarter of a mile above Tashmoo Park. He says that something evidently went wrong with the Linden's steering gear when the steamers were but a short distance apart, for she suddenly sheered into the City of Rome, which struck the Linden just abaft the bow, tearing a tremendous hole, through which the water rushed with such force that it swept the upper works off the Linden, and the steamer sank immediately. Leaking badly and steadily settling, the City of Rome floated down a quarter of a mile until off the dock at Tashmoo Park, when she sank. Cooks Harly and his wife were in the after deckhouse of the Linden and were drowned when the steamer sank.

LONG-RANGE WEATHER FORECASTS.

The Weather Bureau Trying to Counteract Mischievous Statements of Astrologers.

Baltimore, Md. (Special).—The United States Weather Bureau has just issued the following letter to counteract as far as possible the mischievous effects of the work of astrologers, who pretend to foretell the character of coming seasons or the progress of storms and ordinary weather conditions for a month or a year in advance, and whose unfounded and unreliable forecasts are too often given undue circulation.

"The ceaseless change in the midst of essential stability and permanence that is apparent among the heavenly bodies every day are governed by the laws of astronomy and the destinies of men and of nations as well as weather sequences. So obvious is this analogy that it is not strange that in the childhood of the race it was exalted into an absolute casual connection. There is no more interesting page of history than that which traces the growth of astrology through its various phases, the art of divination, the taking of the horoscopes and auspices, and the gradual development of the sciences of astronomy and meteorology. The first crude theories and conceptions of the Chaldean priests and the Magi were honest efforts to interpret natural phenomena. In later and less simple ages, however, when the priestly class were still the repositories of wisdom, they sought to perpetuate their influence by exalting their knowledge, from practical or by confounding it in mystery, and finally they wielded it not to enlighten but to enslave. And so persistent is mental slavery, and so deep seated in the heart of the race are these early teachings and beliefs that there is even yet a predisposition to accept the supernatural rather than to seek the natural causes of things.

The Weather Bureau, in its efforts to counteract the mischievous effects of the work of astrologers, who pretend to foretell the character of coming seasons or the progress of storms and ordinary weather conditions for a month or a year in advance, and whose unfounded and unreliable forecasts are too often given undue circulation.

"The ceaseless change in the midst of essential stability and permanence that is apparent among the heavenly bodies every day are governed by the laws of astronomy and the destinies of men and of nations as well as weather sequences. So obvious is this analogy that it is not strange that in the childhood of the race it was exalted into an absolute casual connection. There is no more interesting page of history than that which traces the growth of astrology through its various phases, the art of divination, the taking of the horoscopes and auspices, and the gradual development of the sciences of astronomy and meteorology. The first crude theories and conceptions of the Chaldean priests and the Magi were honest efforts to interpret natural phenomena. In later and less simple ages, however, when the priestly class were still the repositories of wisdom, they sought to perpetuate their influence by exalting their knowledge, from practical or by confounding it in mystery, and finally they wielded it not to enlighten but to enslave. And so persistent is mental slavery, and so deep seated in the heart of the race are these early teachings and beliefs that there is even yet a predisposition to accept the supernatural rather than to seek the natural causes of things.

The Weather Bureau, in its efforts to counteract the mischievous effects of the work of astrologers, who pretend to foretell the character of coming seasons or the progress of storms and ordinary weather conditions for a month or a year in advance, and whose unfounded and unreliable forecasts are too often given undue circulation.

"The ceaseless change in the midst of essential stability and permanence that is apparent among the heavenly bodies every day are governed by the laws of astronomy and the destinies of men and of nations as well as weather sequences. So obvious is this analogy that it is not strange that in the childhood of the race it was exalted into an absolute casual connection. There is no more interesting page of history than that which traces the growth of astrology through its various phases, the art of divination, the taking of the horoscopes and auspices, and the gradual development of the sciences of astronomy and meteorology. The first crude theories and conceptions of the Chaldean priests and the Magi were honest efforts to interpret natural phenomena. In later and less simple ages, however, when the priestly class were still the repositories of wisdom, they sought to perpetuate their influence by exalting their