Whale Flesh or Beef? Whale most at from three to six cents a pound is to be the solution of the meat trust question, according to some Newfoundland speculators who are seeking to make a market for whale meat.

It is declared that the flesh is finer flavored than beef, more nearly suggesting venison, and is capable of being prepared in a variety of ways.

Whales are not to be found in this part of the globe in sufficient numbers to make a serious inroad into the sale of beef, but it is declared by the promoters that they have already built up a successful trade in whale meat with the West Indies, and that they shortly intend placing it upon the London market.

It is to be shipped in special steamers, and even at a price of six cents a pound will return a handsome profit. while the cheaper cuts may be retailed for half that sum.

There is a representative in tem-gress from the West whose special pride it is to recount the quaint observations of his 9-year-old daughter.

Not long ago, according to the proud father, little Ethel came to him one afternoon and informed him that she had just seen the President's wife walking with one of the ladies of the cabinet circle. "And, papa," said Ethel, "she isn't anything like as old as grandma!"

"Why, my dear!" exclaimed the congressman, "of course she isn't! Mrs. Roosevelt is a young woman! How in the world did you get any other idea?"

'Well, papa,' 'replied the youngster. "you yourself once told me that she was the first lady in the land!"-New York Times.

Why She Preferred Virginia. William Waugh Smith, Chancellor of the Randolph-Macon system of educational institutions through the Virginias, tells an amusing happening which befell him in earlies days when he was one of the engineering party which ran through the new State line between Virginia and South Carolina. They had reached a place where the division would evidently cross a little form presided over by a not unattractive widow, but when they took lunchnot yet decided whether the house which their hostess showed the keenest interest. But at supper time, when again the surveyors and their assistants were the lady's guests, Dr. Smith was able to say: Madame, very little of your place in in South Carelina. The home itself is well into Virginia." With a g ad cry she caught his hand, and as she shook it again and again, she exclaimed: "Oh, I'm so glad! I'm so glad! I've always hearn tell it was so onhealthy drown in Carolina."

Profile of the Packers.

There has been a great deal of dis-appointment because the Garfield report shows that the profits of the pack ing industry only amount to about two per cont, on the volume of business transacted. There is no doubt, how ever, that the report is correct.

The census reports compiled by the Government in 1900, before the agitation regarding the "boof trust" began, throw considerable light on this ques-tion. It appears from the census that the packing industry is conducted on a the packing industry is conducted on a smaller margin of gross profit than any other industry is America. The gross margin of profit of 871 flour and grist mills in 1000, in the census year, was nearly seven per cent, on the value of business. The gross that is a seven per cent, on the value of business. was nearly seven per cent. on the vol-time of business. The gross margin of fifty-one wholesale slaughtering and incut packing establishments in Illinois was only about one-third as large, or : little more than two per cent, on the volume of business.

The militrs have not been accused of being in a "trust," and combina-tions would seem impossible in a business where there are several thousand nills in the United States competing actively for the flour trade, but it ap pears that the gross profits of the mill-ers are larger than the gross profits of the packers. It may turn out that the ngitation regarding the packing indus-try will show the same result as the devil found in shearing the pig: "All squeal and no wood."

oyster shippers, cited by President Hadley of Yale University in his book on Railroad Transportation, is the case of the Aroostook potato growers brought by President Tuttle of the Boston & Maine Railroad before the Senate Committee on Interstate Com-incree. Nothing could better show how a railroad works for the interest of the localities which it serves. A main dependence of the farmers of the Aroostook region is the potato crop, aggregating annually eight to ten million hushels which find a market largely in Boston and the adjacent thickly settled regions of New England. The competition of cheap water transportation from Maine to all points along the New England coast keeps railroad freight rates on these polatoes always at a very low level.

Pointoes are also a considerable output of the truck farms of Michigan. their normal market being obtained in and through Detroit and Chicago and other communities of that region.

Not many years ago favoring sun and rains brought a tremendous yield of potatoes from the Michigan fields. At normal rates and prices there would have been a glut of the customary markets and the patatoos would have rotted on the farms. To help the pointo growers the railroads from Michigan made unprecedentedly low rates or polators to every reachable market, even carrying them in large quantities to a place so remote as Boston. The Aroostook growers had to reduce the price on their potatoes and even then could not dispose of them unless the Boston & Maine Bailroad reduced its already low rate, which it did. By means of these low rates, making possible low prices, the potato crops of both Michigan and Maine were finally marketed. Everybody cuts potators, and that year everybody had all the notatoes he wanted.

While the flichigan failroads made rates that would have been ruinous to the railroads, had they been applied to the movement of all pointoes at al times, to all places, they helped their patrons to find markets for them. The Boston & Maine Railroad suffered a decrease in its revenue from polatces. but it cumbled the Aroostook farmers to market their crop and thereby to obtain money which they spent for the varied supplies which the railroads brought to them. If the making of rates were subject to Governmental adjustment such radical and prompt action could never have been taken. because it is well established that if a rate he once reduced by a railroad company it cannot be restored through the red tape of Governmental procedure. If the Michigan railroads and the Boston & Maine Railroad had been subjected to Governmental limitation they would have felt obliged to keep up their rates as do the railroads of France and England and Germany under Governmental dimitation and ict the potatoes rot .-- Exchange.

Fools All the Doctors.

"There is a hale and hearty looking old chap walking about town," remarked a New York physician lately, "who for years has had a complication of diseases which make him most interesting to the profession. The allments of which he shows undeniable symptoms are rarely seen in combination and the state of his inner workings is a matter for speculation among the doctors who have examined him.

"The old fellow himself loves to tell that when he first asked medical advice, some twenty years ago, the physician, a famous practitioner in those days, wrote across the diagnosis he had put down on paper: "This man cannot live thirty days. I should like to be present at the autopsy.' That great doctor has been dead these many years and the dying patient still smiles cheerfully and seeks a cure for his malady. Queer, isn't it?

more experience in treating female ills than any living person. Over one hundred thousand cases of female diseases come before Mrs. Pinkham every year, some personally, others by mail, and this has been going on for twenty years, day after day. Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman of such experience, especially when it is absolutely free. Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence of women, and every testimo-nial letter published is done so with the written consent or request of the writer, in order that other sick women may be benefited as they have been.

Mrs. Fred Seydel, of 412 North 54th Street, West Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

Street, West Philadelphia, Pa., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:--"Over a year ago I wrote you a letter asking advice, as I had female ills and could not carry a child to maturity. I received your kind letter of instructions and followed your advice. I am not only a well woman in con-sequence, but have a beautiful baby girl. I wish every suffering woman in the land would write you for advice, as you have done so much for me."

Just as surely as Mrs. Seydel was cured, will Lydin E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman suffering from any form of female ills.

No other medicine in all the world No other medicine in all the world has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Therefore no prudent woman will accept any substi-tute which a druggist may offer. If you are sick, write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass, for special advice. It is free and always helpful.

Why ?

Why, when buying a book, are we in-fluenced by the author's name? Why by an artist's if we purchase a picture? Why do wise buyers misst upon having a reliable name on hearly everything they purchase? It is because the name attached is the safeguard of the bayer — a protection against the paiming off of inferior articles. This "name guarantes" we all look for in the most important things we buy, and what can be more important than our food?

Food? Everybody knows that all intelligent housekeepers are very particular about the buying of things to eat and drink, and no-body realizes it more than the up-to-date grocer, who caters to the wants of his cus-tomers.

Fritz Wanted to Know.

Fritz was the meekest looking office boy that ever put glue on a bookkeep per's stool. He worked for a lawyer, and one day the lawyer had a woman client, whose brute of a husband had beaten her and for whom he filed suit for divorce.

A week later the husband, 6 feet tall and broad in proportion, came into the office drunk, announcing his intention of whipping every one there. Every one was too busy, to see him and he was left to Fritz.

Fritz held conversation with the man and listened to his troubles. Finally the man declared loudly: "I've buried three wives, two of them in this county.

"What county buried the other one." inquired Fritz.

From the home of the famous "Keyhnel Keeyartah, of Cartersville," away down South, comes an enthusiastic letter about Postum,

"I was in very delicate health, sufforing from indigestion and a nervous trouble so severe that I could hardly sleep. The doctor ordered me to discontinue the use of the old kind of coffee, which was like poison to me, producing such extreme disturbance that I could not control myself. But such was my love for it that I could not get my own consent to give it up for some time, and continued to suffer till my father one day brought home a package of Postum Food Coffee. "I had the new food drink carefully prepared according to directions, and gave it a fair trial. It proved to have a rich flavor and made a healthy, wholesome and delightful drink. To my taste the addition of cream greatly improves it.

"My health began to improve as soon as the drug effect of the old coffee was removed and the Postum Coffee had time to make its influence felt. My nervous troubles were speedily relieved and the sleep which the old coffee drove from my pillow always came to soothe and strengthen me after I had drunk Postum-in a very short time I begau to sleep better than I had for years before. I have now used Postum Coffee for several years and like it better and find it more beneficial than when I first began. It is an unspeakable joy to be relieved of the old dis-tress and sickness."
