

CONSTANT ACHING.

Back aches all the time. Spoils your appetite, wears the body, worries the mind. Kidneys cause it all and Donan's Kidney Pills relieve and cure it.

H. R. McCarver, of 201 Cherry St., Portland, Ore., inspector of freight for the Trans-Continental Co., says: "I used Donan's Kidney Pills for back ache and other symptoms of kidney trouble which had annoyed me for months. I think a cold was responsible for the whole trouble. It seemed to settle in my kidneys. Donan's Kidney Pills rooted it out. It is several months since I used them, and up to date there has been no recurrence of the trouble."

Donan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers price 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Frightened by Degrees.

In a small town of Kansas not long ago some individuals interested in sanitary measures engaged the services of a scientist from Chicago to lecture on bacteriology. In the audience were a man and his wife, the gardener and housekeeper of the leading citizen of the town. These worthy people, entirely ignorant of the subject of the lecturer's discourse, had been attracted to the hall by the announcement that magicians were to be exhibited.

The two took seats in the rear of the hall. In the course of the lecture they evinced no signs of approval or objection; but when the discourse was concluded the gardener was heard to ask his wife: "Maggie, did you pay attention to what that Chicago man had to say?"

"Yes, jes' as well as I could," was the reply.

"An' air ye scared?"

"Yes, I am scared, as much as I understand of it."—The Sunday Magazine.

Dangers to Traffic.

"When Prince Henry made his long journey through the country," said an old railroad official, talking of recent railroad accidents, the schedules were so arranged that his train never passed a moving train anywhere on the road. The deadly danger from that source is well known among railroad men, although they are not much given to talking about it. Accidents to these long merchandise trains are constantly occurring.

"Not a quarter of them get into the papers, yet hardly a day passes that the papers do not have an account of one—'trains late owing to a freight wreck'; both tracks blocked two hours by coal train smash; and so on." The public gives little heed to them, but they are the greatest danger in modern railroading."

Hard-Luck Story.

"I have just heard a real hard-luck story from one of my constituents," said Judge Bartlett of Georgia. "There has been considerable snow in Georgia, and my constituent who lives in a prohibition county, was going to a dance. He had to drive fifteen miles. He sent to an adjoining county for a quart of whisky. On the night of the dance he decided to save the whisky.

"Before he went into the house he looked around for a place to hide his treasure. He saw a pile of brush near by, and going over to it took the precious quart and pushed it under the brush. In about one second he heard a muffled splash. He had tried to hide, perhaps, the only quart of whisky in the county in an abandoned well."—Houston Chronicle.

Luminous Shrimps.

Luminous shrimps have been discovered by the Prince of Monaco in the course of his deep sea fishing in the Mediterranean. They live at a depth of 1,100 to 1,600 fathoms and are studded with small phosphorescent spots, which light their way through the gloomy depths.

A LOVELY COMPLEXION

New York Lady Proves That Every Woman May Have It by Using Cuticura Soap.

Mrs. R. Heinenberg, wife of the well-known jeweler, of 146 Fulton St., New York, says: "I had a friend who was justly proud of her complexion. When asked what gave her such a brilliant and lovely complexion, she replied: 'A healthy woman can be sure of a fine skin if she will use Cuticura Soap and Water.' She insisted that I follow her example, which I did with speedy conviction. I find that Cuticura Soap keeps the skin soft, white and clear, and prevents redness and roughness."

The Farm

The Grades of Cattle.

It is important that the feeder have a knowledge of the breeds of cattle, but more important that he have a knowledge of the market classes. The feeder ought to familiarize himself with the various grades of market cattle, so that he will be able to go into his own feed lot and know just what class of cattle he is raising. While it is essential that we know the routine of the feed lot, more men fall because of lack of business ability rather than of knowing how and what to feed. The man who makes money is the man who takes advantage of the opportunities presented. There is no cut and dried method in the feed lot.—Weekly Witness.

Profitable Crops For Sheep.

All old sheep breeder and feeder in a recent letter to the Breeder's Gazette in speaking of the management of the flock says:

"The most profitable crop to raise for sheep is rape, which under favorable conditions will produce a large quantity of feed. It grows best on rich land with cool weather and a good share of moisture. It can be sown in the spring for summer feed and then the latter part of July for fall feeding. If not pastured too close it will grow up a second time, but if stock are allowed to eat it down it never amounts to anything afterward. Sheep or cattle should never be allowed to remain long on rape the first time, but gradually get them accustomed to it. If this rule is not observed they are liable to bloat and die unless relieved by the use of a trochar or medicine.

Winter rye makes excellent early spring feed, and if sown in August, will be ready to pasture soon after the snow is off.

I have fully demonstrated to my entire satisfaction that sheep fed this kind of feed can be put on the market in a finished condition, making sweet tender, juicy meat, without any grain except what they glean off the stubble fields, and if they are handled intelligently, using good pedigree rams and liberal feeding they will make their owners a nice profit. I prefer the Shropshire; they are of a smooth, compact form and make good feeders. Our May lambs were sold in November and weighed ninety-three pounds.

Sheep that are in good condition in the fall can be carried through the winter months in nice shape on corn fodder, millet and oat hay. They should have some wheat-straw, whole wheat, oats or barley about eight weeks previous to the time they are due to lamb.

Making a Handy Gate.

The average farm gate is hard to manage and is usually breaking down. The illustration shows a way of fastening such a gate in a simple manner. Take a horseshoe and fasten it to the gatepost, so that about one-third of it will project, as shown in the detail at lower left of cut. This provides the latch, and when the gate is to be closed simply raise so that the top bar will come over the horseshoe, as indicated in the upper portion of the cut. On the lower right of the cut is shown a way of fastening the boards by bending and nailing a long strip of strap iron over the ends of the boards, instead of using the upright boards.

The advantage is that the gate is not so heavy as when the upright board is used, which is a consideration with the average farm gate.

Horse Talk.

The greatest watchfulness and common sense should be in the care and feeding of the weanlings. They should have an abundance of nourishing food, plenty of sunshine and exercise.

C Colts suffer sometimes from teething, and at such times they may run down so much in condition that serious setback may result.

Crushed oats and barley steamed, also cooked roots mixed with ground grain and wheat bran, are very nourishing and should be fed.

A little ground flaxseed should always be added to the ration.

If the colts do not thrive as they should, skimmed milk should be given them daily.

A good allowance of bright clover hay should be given them, but not all they will eat.

An over-supply will stifle the digestive tract and cause dyspepsia.

Liberal feeding must be accompanied by plenty of exercise in the open air.

Every fair day should be spent in the paddock or field.

In cases where a weanling is weak and thin, whole cow's milk can be fed with profit.

Handle them quietly and carefully every day as you move around them, always offering a piece of apple or sugar.

It will pay to raise mules. I noticed a magnificent pair of mules. Upon inquiry I found that they were three years old and cost $800.

I should say they were from Percheron mares. They were jet black and well matched. Some of our folks could make a success in this industry.—Farm Journal.

PHONE AID TO MATRIMONY.

Girl with One in Her Home Always Popular with Young Men.

It is needless to say that the telephone is a great institution, says the Utica Press. It has long been an absolute essential in every place of business. Just now there is a great increase in the number of phones in private houses. It is possible to talk with pretty much everybody at his or her home. The companies are evidently endeavoring to boom that branch of their business, because they are advertising extensively. The other day a St. Louis paper had a big display ad at the top of which was a picture of an attractive young lady telephoning and represented as saying: "Is that you, Harry?" The text beneath it includes this statement: "It is a well-known fact that the girl who has a telephone is the girl who has the most friends and consequently the best time."

This appeal to the young people is adroit and doubtless will serve to make the St. Louis exchange bigger and busier. The parents who have marriageable daughters will do well to consider this ingenious contrivance and modern aid to matrimony. It is something of a bother for a young man to call or even to write a note asking the young lady to go to the store, or to go for a walk or drive or a ride to the park, but if he can transmit the message by telephone it is an easy way of making an appointment. Many a delicious message is telephoned these days and there is reason to believe the statement made by the St. Louis company. It applies, of course, with equal force in every American city. The young ladies for whom a life of single blessedness has no charms are not exactly buying a lottery when they hire a phone. They can get much pleasure and comfort out of it as they go along, for it is a constant contributor to convenience. It is worth the price, with the enhanced matrimonial possibility thrown in as an extra inducement.

Free Certificate for Himself.

The following story is told of the late Dr. James C. Swan, a physician of the old school, who practised his profession for a great many years in Bridgewater, Mass., and the surrounding towns.

This generous if not aluring offer was made by him to the pernicious father of an insane young man:

The old man wished to secure his son's admission to the insane asylum, but seemed unwilling to pay for the necessary certificate. After hearing his plea of poverty, which the doctor knew to be false, and hearing him also tell of the many expenses to which he had put by his ungrateful children, the physician waved his hand to end the recital.

"Now, see here," he said, sharply; "you just pay me for this one, and I'll give you a certificate for yourself, whenever you wish it, for nothing."

Brute in Officer's Uniform.

A German non-commissioned naval officer named Hummel had been sentenced by court martial at Kiel to three months' imprisonment for cruelty to recruits. He wrapped a thick woollen cloth around the neck of a recruit named Froeh and compelled him to perform military exercises close to the door of a glowing stove until he fainted. Another time Froeh was obliged to hold out a rifle at arms' length and when his arms dropped from weakness Hummel dropped them with scissoring. A medical examination disclosed ten wounds on each arm.

Back for His Umbrella.

Joseph M. Stoddart, whose acquaintance among authors and artists extends over two hemispheres and half a century of activity, tells this story of a meeting with Edgar Saltus, novelist and wit in London a few months ago. "I had just arrived in London from Liverpool, and was hurrying down Fleet street, when I came face to face with Saltus," said Mr. Stoddart. "He drew an inquiry as to where I was hurrying from, and I remarked that I was just going back." "And I—I'm just going back," rejoined Saltus. "I forgot my umbrella."—New York Times.

Wanted Fishballs of Live Fish.

At a boarding house where I was staying the landlady was noted for her excellent fishballs, which she made every Sunday morning, says a writer in the Boston Herald. The guests on one special morning were praising them profusely, especially an elderly lady. Sitting next to her was a young man who remarked:

"The only trouble with fishballs is they are made of dead fish."

"Dead fish?" cried the horrified elderly lady; "I shall never eat another as long as I live."

WANTED TO SLEEP.

Curious That a Tired Preacher Should Have Such Desire.

A minister speaks of the curious effect of Grape-Nuts food on him and how it has relieved him.

"You will doubtless understand how the suffering with indigestion with which I used to be troubled made my work an almost unendurable burden, and why it was that after my Sabbath duties had been performed, sleep was a stranger to my pillow till nearly daylight.

"I had to be very careful as to what I ate, and even with all my care I experienced poignant physical distress after meals, and my food never satisfied me.

"Six months have elapsed since I began to use Grape-Nuts food, and the benefits I have derived from it are very definite. I no longer suffer from indigestion, and I began to improve from the time Grape-Nuts appeared on our table. I find that by eating a dish of it after my Sabbath work is done (and I always do so now) my nerves are quieted and rest and refreshing sleep are insured me. I feel that I could not possibly do without Grape-Nuts food, now that I know its value. It is invariably on our table—we feel that we need it to complete the meal—and our children will eat Grape-Nuts when they cannot be persuaded to touch anything else." Four Facts For Sick Women To Consider

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has an Unequalled Record of Cures—Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Is Confidential, Free, and Always Helpful

FIRST.—That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, displacements of the uterus, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

SECOND.—The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can.

For thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, all uterine and ovarian inflammation, weakness and displacements, regulating menstruation perfectly and overcoming its pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life.

THIRD.—The great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., and which come from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

FOURTH.—Every ailing woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women.—Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, your trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of the vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.
