from The Everett Republican On Wednesday, at noon, a pecular accident occurred at the Rainsburg Hotel, of which Mr. W. A. Cessna is proprietor, that may result in the loss of an eye by Raymond Cessna, a sixteenvear-old son of the proprietor.

While seated at the dinner table a daughter of Mr. Cessna picked up a bottle of tomato catsup that was very tightly corked, to open it, when there was a loud explosion and pieces of glass and the contents of the bottle scattered in every direction. One fragment of glass struck Miss Cessna on the cheek cutting a gash about an inch and a half long. She was also cut across all the tingers of one hand. Both wounds bled freely, but were not

HOW TO GET RID OF FLEAS.

The Shrewd Fox Has a Plan Which Drives Them Away at Once.

An old hunter and naturalist confirms as ab olutely true and trustworthy the published account, which has had few believers until now, of how foxes rid themselves of fleas. The fox, according to the book narrative, simply backs slowly into a stream of water with a portion of the pelt of a rabbit in his mouth, after the fox has made a meal of the rabbit. The water drives the fleas first up the fox's legs and then toward his head, and finally out on the piece of rabbit fur and the fox drops the fur and his Falling-Top Buggies pests are done for. The local hunter and naturalist referred to, strange to say, had never heard or read this story when he told of the actions of a fox which he observed the other day in the waters of the Patapsco River. The little animal he stated, backed into the river slowly with so much deliberation that he wondered what he meant. It carried something, he did no know what, in its mouth, and dropped the something when out in deep water. The object left floated near to the observer, and he hauled it ashore with a stick, Fleas literally swarmed through the object, which was found to be a bit of rabbit-fur. The observer had a puzzling mystery explained to him. He says his admiration for the shrewdness of the fox grows more and more as or money refunded. Contains he grows older and learns his ways. - Ellicott, Md , Correspond ence Baltimore Sun
