Sufferings Were Protracted and Severe—Tried Every Known Remedy Without Relief—Severe Stomach Trouble Cured by Three Bottles of Peppermint.

Capt. W. W. Jackson, 705 G St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I am eighty-three years old, a veteran of the Black Hawk, Mexican and the Civil Wars. I am by profession a physician, but abandoned the same. 'Some years ago I was seriously affected with catarrh of the stomach. My sufferings were protracted and severe. I tried every known remedy without obtaining relief. In desperation I began the use of your Peppermint. I began to realize immediate though gradual improvement. After the use of three bottles every appearance of my complaint was removed, and I have no hesitation in recommending it as an infallible remedy for that disorder.'—W. W. Jackson. Address: Dr. S. R. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

An Englishman in Canada writes home in considerable excitement as follows: "The majority of Canadians never read an English paper of any kind whatever; all their literature is American. All the booksellers' shops are filled with American books, American reviews, American papers. And with what result? There can be only one result—Canadians will think 'Americanly.'"

Liberia's Quarter Bill Large.

In the first quarter of 1904 Liberia's bill for imported spirits and malt liquors was $14,815. That's more than Liberia paid out in the time for flour, biscuit, bacon, canned meats and fish—all put together. "The statistics," notes the chronicler, "do not include the rum made in local distilleries, nor the wines made from the palm and bamboo trees by the aborigines, which are drunk in large quantities."

A WOMAN'S MISERY.

Mrs. John LaRue, of 115 Paterson Avenue, Paterson, N. J., says: "I was troubled for about nine years, and what I suffered no one will ever know. I used about every known remedy that is said to be good for kidney complaint, but without deriving permanent relief. Often when alone in the house the back ache has been so bad that it brought tears to my eyes. The pain at times was so intense that I was compelled to give up my household duties and lie down. There were headaches, dizziness and blood rushing to my head to cause bleeding at the nose. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills benefited me so much that I continued the treatment. The stinging pain in the small of my back, the rushes of blood to the head and other symptoms disappeared."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers, 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Latest News of Pennsylvania Told in Short Order.

Picking up a corked cask bottle at dinner, Miss Retta Cessa, daughter of W. A. Cessa, landlord of the hotel at Rainburg, Bedford county, attempted to open it, when it exploded, scattering the glass and contents in all directions. A fragment struck her brother, Raymond, in the right eye, destroying the sight. Another fragment passed through her cheek, cutting a hole two inches in length, while a third piece laid bare the bones on the back of her left hand.

Jared Bortner, of near Greenville, York county, has just begun to read the Bible through for the nineteenth time. Recently he finished his eighteenth reading of the Holy Book. Bortner began his Bible reading thirty years ago, and in all that time has never failed to give a considerable part of each day to the work. On Sunday he spends many hours in reading. He uses an ancient Bible, printed in German, and as he sits on the porch of his home is a character familiar to many persons. Although nearly 90 years old, Bortner only lately retired from active work at his trade, shoemaking. He has selected the text for the sermon to be preached at his funeral.

A runaway car loaded with boards crashed into the engine of a passenger train on the Bloomsburg and Sullivan Railroad near Coles Creek. The car was traveling at a mile a minute rate and the engine was barely in time to reverse its engine when the crash came. When the car struck the lumber shed ahead and stripped the engine of smokestack, whistle, chime, bell, sand box and cab. The engineer and fireman stuck to their posts and escaped injury, although several of the passengers were cut and bruised by the collision. The engine was wrecked.

While watching companions swim, 10-year-old Eddie Miller, of Bethlehem, grew alarmed at the blowing off of steam by a passing locomotive, and, falling into the Lehigh Canal, was drowned.

Elias W. Gilmer, a contractor, of Easton, while at work on his "last job," building himself a home, fell headforemost from the second story to the ground. He fractured his right hip, received bad contusions on the back of his head and was injured internally. His condition is critical. Mr. Gilmer, who is 72 years old, fell off a house some years ago and fractured an arm. He was also seriously injured by falling off Pardee Hill.

Miss Catherine Snyder, 18 years old, was probably fatally burned at her home, in Lancaster. An accident happened to an oil stove, and her father was in the act of hurrying it into the yard, when he collided with his daughter. Her clothing caught fire, and she was so terribly burned that her condition is precarious.

A victim of heat prostration, Lewis R. Hartman, a son of ex-County Commissioner Jeremiah Hartman, died in a hay mow in the barn of John Seidel, in Alsace Township. He was 28 years old. Pottsville has begun suit against the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company for failure to pay tax on poles. The company will fight the case in court.

Louis Reuber, of Pottsville, lies in a critical condition from blood poisoning that resulted from his picking his gums with a brass pin. He will probably lose all his teeth.

The Berwyn White Coal and Coke Company, of Philadelphia, has taken an option on a tract of land in East Hollidaysburg, adjoining the new freight classification yard of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. It is said that a large pressed steel car plant will be erected on this land.

The theft of a score or more of horses recently in Lancaster county is regarded as evidence that an organized band of thieves is operating. The latest victim is George Wilmer, of New Providence, whose roan mare was stolen from his barn.

Under the will of the late Mrs. Elmira Kohrer, probated at Lancaster, the following charitable bequests are made: Strasburg Methodist Episcopal Church, $300; Strasburg Presbyterian Church, $500; Memorial Welsh Mountain Mission, $500.

Bloodhounds are being used in the efforts to trace robbers who broke into the store of Clothier Greenwood, at Luzerne, and carried away much clothing. Joseph Bianco had a hearing before Alderman Barrett at Pittston and his 7-year-old daughter Mary told how he had shot his wife last week. Mary was the only witness of the crime and on the basis of her story Bianco was committed on a charge of murder.

Frederick A. Sterling has been appointed postmaster at Aston Mills. Town Council has declared void the ordinance granted the Bloomsburg and Millville Trolley Company. The company did not begin operation within the time specified in the ordinance.

During her absence from her home, in Norristown, a thief stole $300 worth of jewelry from the bureau drawer of Mrs. Harry Benner. Among the article taken was a diamond-studded gold watch.

One life lost, four persons severely burned, two houses entirely demolished and two others partially destroyed, is the record of a gas explosion at 3834 Liberty Avenue, in Allentown. Mrs. Thos. Dillon, aged 59, is dead. Her husband, Thomas Dillon, aged 64, is not expected to live.

In a crash at a grade crossing at Dunmore, Mrs. Melvin Wheeler sustained a compound fracture of the skull and will die. Austin Wheeler, her 1-year-old son, was killed, and Harry, her 4-year-old son, badly injured. Mrs. Barbara Spangenberg, her sister, was injured, but will recover.

Knives of a mowing machine cut off a foot of a 7-year-old son of J. Milton Wine, of East Hopewell Township. The lad made no outcry, but climbed upon the reaper, saying: "See, father, I have lost my foot."

Buying Cottonseed Meal.
The first thing to look for is the guarantee tag, required by law, giving the name of the manufacturer and composition of the goods. A first-class cottonseed meal should contain over forty per cent. of protein and about nine per cent. of fat. It should be a light yellow color. If it is dark in color with many fine black specks, it indicates that ground hulls have been added. If it is a rusty brown color, it indicates that the meal is old or the material has at some time undergone fermentation. Such meals are not safe to use.

The texture of the meal should be about the same as finely ground corn free from cotton lint. The presence and amount of lint can be determined by sitting a portion in a flour or meal sieve. The lint and hulls are also quite easily detected by stirring the meal up with water. Put one teaspoonful in half a glass of water, mix thoroughly and allow the mixture to stand a few minutes to settle. The black hulls will be found on the bottom and can be seen through the glass. The good meal will be in the next layer and the lint on top. A first-class meal should show only a few black hulls and scarcely any lint.

An expert can judge very well of the quality of cottonseed meal by means of tasting. The best fresh meals have a very agreeable nutty flavor not found in inferior foods. The presence of much fibre is readily noted by the sense of touch in the mouth. The absence of a rancid taste indicates that the meal is old.—J. M. Bartlett, in Massachusetts Ploughman.

Smokehouse in a Barrel.
M. W. T.—Please publish a description of a small, cheap smokehouse, suitable for a farmer to smoke a few hams, etc.

A large cask or barrel may be used for smoking a small quantity of meat. To make this effective, a small pit should be dug, and a flat stone or a brick placed across it, upon which the edge of the cask will rest. Half the pit is beneath the barrel and half is outside. The head and bottom may be removed, or a hole larger than the portion of the pit beneath the cask. The head or cover is removed while the hams are being hung upon cross sticks, as shown in the illustration. The cross sticks rest upon two cross bars made to pass through holes bored in the sides of the cask. The head is then laid upon the cask and covered with moist sacks to confine the smoke. Live coals are put into the pit outside of the cask, and the fire is fed with brush. The pit is covered with a flat stone by which the fire may be regulated, and it is removed when necessary to add more fuel.—Montreal Herald.

Waterproofing For Farmers.
Farmers and gardeners from the nature of their work are often exposed to wet feet. Some object to greasing shoes for the purpose of keeping them soft, saying it causes the leather to rot and so makes it more pervious to dampness. My own experience has not confirmed this view and I give a formula used by an old New England fisherman in his trade for over seventy years: One pint of boiled linseed oil, one-half pound of mutton suet, "fresh" six ounces of yellow resin, "clean" four ounces of yellow wax; melt and mix well, apply with soft brush, warm but not so hot as to shrink the leather. You can stand in water for hours and your feet will not be damp.—R. M. Field, in The Epitome.

Worth Thinking About.
I am fully persuaded that eight or ten reasonably good sows will pay any man well who will give them reasonable care and feed. They will often make it profitable to employ a man throughout the year, more than paying for his wages, and getting work done that is left undone. They will bring in a regular monthly income. The feed on the farm sold to the cows at the market price will return from $1.50 to $2 worth of butter fat at the creamery price for each dollar's worth of feed consumed. The skillful man with the best cows may even do better than this. In other words, it costs $25 to $30 to feed and pasture; good cows should return from $40 to $65 worth of butter fat, leaving the manure, skim milk and calf to offset the interest, depreciation and labor.—H. E. Van Norman, in Indiana Farmer.

Breed Carefully.
The old saying, "the sire is half the herd," does not always express the whole truth, said Professor Fraser, of Illinois University, in a recent address. In a sire whose ancestors have been bred for dairy purposes only these characteristics have become firmly fixed and when crossed on cows of no special breeding will produce calves more like the sire than the dam. In this case the sire counts for more than half. A dairyman may start with nothing but the most ordinary cows, and by simple breeding he will, in a few years, have a fine working herd. Do not misunderstand me, I am advocating grading but not crossing breeds. Good harn has been done and is still being done by the dairy cattle of the country by crossing.—Weekly Witness.

Worth More Than She Thought.

Two stamps were once put into an envelope, box by a lady in Georgetown. They were 2-cent stamps, issued in British Guiana in 1850. The lady had come across an envelope among her papers bearing two of these stamps. The incumbent, Canon Josa, sold the envelope with the two stamps on it by auction and it realized $205. The following year the same two stamps changed hands at $650, the first purchaser making $445 profit on the deal. The new purchaser sold them for $780 to a German dealer, who sold them to a Russian nobleman for $1,000.—London Tit-Bits.

Letting Cows Show.
One sign of a cow's health is the color of her feet. A cow's feet should be a healthy pink color. If they are a yellowish or brownish color, it is a sign of disease. A cow's feet should be kept clean and dry. If they are dirty and wet, they will become sore and painful. A cow's feet should be examined regularly. If they are found to be sore or painful, the cow should be treated with a good foot powder. A cow's feet should be kept in good condition at all times.

GIFTS IN PROPER SPIRIT.
Significance of Recent Benefactions to Colleges.
After all, the principal use of the college is as a place where the next generation is to get right ideas of what is worth while in life itself. The mere facts which, to the ignorant, seem the advantages of education, are of minor importance. We hear much in the periods of college commencement of the necessities of the modern university in the way of enlarged endowments and increased equipment. Some of this talk is, of course, reasonable enough. It is addressed mainly to the rich as a demand for the recognition by them of a duty of generosity, one which in our days has had a most remarkable response. But apparatus is an impossible substitute for ideals, and the best endowment of a college is the character of its graduates. The $2,000 bequest, for example, to his Alma Mater, which the will of the late William H. Baldwin contained, was small if considered as a mere matter of money, but his character and the ideals of public service which his life expressed form part of that permanent endowment which alone makes a university great. The memory of a railroad president ready to sacrifice, if need be, his position, rather than lose an opportunity for usefulness on an unpaid committee of citizens banded together for important civic service, is a rarer and more precious contribution to the fiber of university life than any mere material bounty from ravenous fingers unclutched by hypocrisy or the fear of death.—George W. Alger in the Atlantic Monthly.

When Coffee Shows What It Has Been Doing.
"Of late years coffee has disagreed with me," writes a matron from Rome, N. Y. "It's lightest punishment was to make me 'loxy' and dizzy, and it seemed to thicken up my blood. The heaviest was when it upset my stomach completely, destroying my appetite and making me nervous and irritable, and sent me to my bed. After one of these attacks, in which I nearly lost my life, I concluded to quit and try Postum Food Coffee."
"It went right to the spot! I found it not only a most palatable and refreshing beverage, but a food as well. All my ailments, the 'loginess' and dizziness, the unsatisfactory condition of my blood, my nervousness and irritability disappeared in short order and my sorely afflicted stomach began quickly to recover. I began to rebuild and have steadily continued until now. Have a good appetite and am rejoicing in sound health, which I owe to the use of Postum Food Coffee." COMES A TIME
"Of late years coffee has disagreed with me," writes a matron from Rome, N. Y. "It's lightest punishment was to make me 'loxy' and dizzy, and it seemed to thicken up my blood. The heaviest was when it upset my stomach completely, destroying my appetite and making me nervous and irritable, and sent me to my bed. After one of these attacks, in which I nearly lost my life, I concluded to quit and try Postum Food Coffee."
"It went right to the spot! I found it not only a most palatable and refreshing beverage, but a food as well. All my ailments, the 'loginess' and dizziness, the unsatisfactory condition of my blood, my nervousness and irritability disappeared in short order and my sorely afflicted stomach began quickly to recover. I began to rebuild and have steadily continued until now. Have a good appetite and am rejoicing in sound health, which I owe to the use of Postum Food Coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Es'le Creek, Mich.
There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellbeing," found in each pkg.
