New Enterprise.

While rambling on the Hill Monday looking and listening for news for the News, our attention was attracted by an unusual popping sound, and we started in the direction with a full determination of making an investigation (!) Following along East Walnut street, we were not a little surprised to find that a new building—say about 30 feet front and sixty in depth—had been erected by our enterprising townsman, P. Fred Black, and that he had equipped it with a new 10 H. P. Charter gasoline engine, a big Champion double surfacer or planer, circular saws, and other machinery, and had it all running at once. Yes! There were about half a dozen hands at work, and the lumber was passing from the pile of rough stuff through hands and machinery until it was dropped out on the other side clean worked siding of a quality that was pleasing to see.

We commend Mr. Black's enterprise, and if improvements do not take a turn up there soon, there will be a pull for the Court House up in that part of the town.

Clouser—Shaw.

Exactly at 10 o'clock a. m., on Tuesday, September 5, 1905, at the M. E. parsonage, McConnellsburg, by Rev. J. V. Adams, Mr. Geo. E. Clouser and Miss Daisy A. Shaw, both of Ayr township, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony in presence of Mrs. Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Clouser, uncle and aunt of the groom.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride where a large number of invited guests assembled. After congratulations the party entered the dining room where a sumptuous feast awaited all.

The groom is well known among Fulton county's successful school teachers. A member of McConnellsburg Lodge No. 744 I. O. O. F., and has taught in Ayr and Bethel townships.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shaw of Ayr township, and a most estimable young lady.

Among the guests present were Amos Clouser and wife, of Knobsville; Joseph Amsley, wife, and daughter Helen, of Foltz; Mrs. Bivens, Wm Paylor and wife, of McConnellsburg; Mrs. E. Houck, of the Co.; Ellsworth Hender-shat and wife and so on James and George, Jos. B. Mellott and wife, Peter Kirk, wife and daughters Dorothy and Mary; B. F. Shives and wife, Witoert Maon, Mrs. Tolbert, Mary, Alice, Flora and Raymond Shives, besides the entire family of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Clouser began housekeeping at once on the farm owned by the groom in Ayr.

The best wishes of a large circle of friends go with them. One who was there.

Another Fulton County Boy.

The MaComb, Illinois, Daily Journal of a recent date, devotes almost three columns of space on its first page in giving a description of the Illinois College and Business Institute of that city, and of giving pictures of the members of the faculty, and a sketch of their respective qualifications. It is a great school with a capacity of 1,000 students, and now filled almost to its limit. Just why the mention of this is of local interest, is the fact that Prof. Jas. E. Mumma, a native of Fulton county, is the president, and the moving spirit. It has not been many years since Jim was teaching in the public schools of this county; but he took Horace Greeley's advice and went west. Not being satisfied with the education he had acquired in his native county, he pushed forward with determined energy until he is now in position to make people listen when he talks.

We congratulate our friend on his success and wish him all kinds of good luck.

Mrs. Susan Bishop, who had been spending a few weeks with her daughter Mrs. Kelley, returned to her home on Timber Ridge, last Wednesday.
