IN BIG STORM AT SEA.

Mrs. Lillian Bernhardt Has Thrilling Experience on Her Trip to Jamaica.

Mrs. Lillian Bernhart who sailed from New York for Jamaica on Saturday afternoon the 9th inst., and reached Kingston, Jamaica, on the following Friday, had an experience that she will not soon forget. The Kingston Daily Telegraph of the 15th has the following:

"The Hamburg-American str. Sibiria, Captain Brambeer, arrived here on Friday night from New York.

"The vessel encountered one of the worst storms of the year—a storm which raged with unceasing fury for nearly thirty-six hours. The Sibiria left New York at two p. m. on Saturday last and everyone on board was prepared for what was ahead, for shortly before leaving her pier, the Captain had notification from the New York Weather Bureau that a storm was brewing in the Atlantic. So with her storm signals hoisted, the Hamburg-American liner put to sea.

"The forecast of the Weather Bureau proved correct, as exactly six hours after leaving her pier and was passing Sandy Hook the storm burst over the vessel. Every thing on deck had been lashed down, but when the storm was in progress for six or seven hours the ropes attached to six big tanks of sulphuric acid weighing nearly one ton each, gave way and were washed overboard. Over one hundred packages of cargo which were on deck were swept away by the huge waves which kept the deck continually flooded. In such a hurricane, the vessel made small progress and was consequently delayed. The ship, ably manned, behaved splendidly. The wind blew at the rate of over seventy miles an hour and raised enormous waves. It came from the south-east and consequently the seas struck the bows of the ship. A portion of the rail on the forepart of the vessel was swept away, while two of the winches were partially wrecked. On Tuesday morning the wind abated somewhat, but it still blew with great force and did not cease until Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sipe, of Allegheny, Pa., were also passengers on the steamer.

Dying of Fame

is, in its torments, like dying of consumption. The progress of consumption, from the beginning to the very end, is a long torture, both to victim and friends. "When I had consumption in its first stage," writes Wm. Myers, of Cearfoss, Md., "after trying different medicines and a good doctor, in vain, I at last took Dr. King's New Discovery, which quickly and perfectly cured me." Prompt relief and sure cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, etc. Positively prevents pneumonia. Guaranteed at every drug store, price 50c and $1.00 a bottle. Trial bottle free.

LOS VEGAS, NEW MEXICO.

Letter from Mr. L. V. Palmer, Formerly of Belfast Township.

December 21, 1905—While my time is not taken up I will pen you a few lines for the benefit of yourself and readers.

Last summer I spent in Kansas, and, on the 16th of August I started with eight other fellows to northwest Oklahoma, for a flock of 7,000 sheep. We traveled overland in two covered wagons, and it took us two weeks to make the trip down, passing through most of the principal towns, one of which was Garden City, and that is the garden of the South west. It is situated in the Arkansas valley, an irrigated valley, on the Arkansas river. Just across the river south is the Sand Hills which are about ten miles wide. We passed one ranch which is thirty miles square. The land is fit for nothing but pasture, and poor at that; and the southwest part of Kansas is fit for nothing but pasture, as they don't get enough rain to keep crops from burning up. From Garden City, we drove south west and our next town was Ulysses, Grant county. We arrived there about noon. While there we saw some sights which I did not expect to see in a civilized country.

We met the County Judge who smoked a Meerschaum pipe and was barefooted. He looked as though he always went that way. He filled up his pipe, took a match, scratched it on the sole of his foot and lit his pipe and puffed away as though he was dressed in broadcloth. He is said to be worth $50,000 in cold cash. From there we went to Richfield, a town of about fifty people. They said that town was a large one in the early days when that country was first settling up, but that whole county has now not more than 150 of a population.

We then went on southwest into Colorado, pitched our tent out on the prairie, and was there two days and a half. Then we started southeast to Oklahoma, stayed there two days, received our sheep and started back north on trail. The country is full of sage brush, soap weed and rattlesnakes. The last named you can find almost any place. At night you could hear the coyotes barking, and occasionally they would attack our sheep. Then there was trouble, for the sheep would make a stampede for the tent, on which we had a lantern hanging out to keep the coyotes away, for they will not come close to a light. We saw some antelopes, one badger, and thousands of prairie dogs. When we would find a lake—which we would find occasionally—we would find plenty of ducks.

We landed back at Stockton, Kansas, on the 31st of October. After staying there two days, I went to New Mexico, and have been as far south as Albuquerque, which is principally kept up by a moving population, or health seekers. It is one of the largest towns in New Mexico. From there I went to Santa Fe, the capital of the territory, and an old town which is largely made up of Mexican dodies. There is but very little land in the territory that I have seen that one could farm to any advantage, but it is a great place for fruit.

While in Santa Fe, which was the latter part of November, I saw peaches, plums, and apples on the trees, and they looked very tempting. From Santa Fe I went to Los Vegas which is a busy little town, and there are people here from almost all parts of the globe, for their health, as well as for work. It is snowing here to-day, and is the third or fourth snow this winter. The elevation of this town is something over six thousand feet above sea level. The Hot Springs of New Mexico is six miles northwest of here.

My advice to people in the East who want to come West to work, would be to not come to New Mexico unless they have plenty of money with them, but Kansas and Colorado are both good states for work of almost all kinds and pretty good wages and good accommodations at fair prices.

The West is all right in most places for all classes of people. L. V. PALMER. [The writer of the above is a son of Joseph Palmer.—Ed.]
