Good Stories.

I was told a good story a few days ago by a well known lawyer in regard to an equally well known lawyer, says a writer in The Bus "Blank Blank's mind," says my informant, "is so well stored with amusing tales and experiences that nearly every time he rises to argue a point at issue between himself and opposing counsel he makes use of them. To the vast amusement of the spectators and jury.

"Once he and I were together in a case, and he got in a strong answer to a point a lawyer on the other side had made.

"The gentlemen of the jury," he said, "must not place too much faith in what my friend on the other side says. If they knew him as well as I do they would see as well as I do that when his mouth opens his brain ceases to work. I can only compare him to a little steamboat that used to run in the river Clyde. It had a five inch boiler and a seven-inch whistle. The effect of this was that when the whistle blew the steamboat stopped."

"Blank won his case."

I was considerably amused on the train one day watching a jolly old man who was very bald. In a short time I was aware, as was everyone else in the car, that he was furnishing interest. If not amusement, to the little girl sitting just back of him, who remarked in distinctly audible tones, "Mamma, that man has enough room on the back of his head for another face, hasn't he?"

A certain professor who was noted for an excellent mathematician stopped at a small town in Missouri, where a large crowd of doctors were holding a convention. That evening at the hotel, the M. D.'s thinking to have some fun, told the professor that they had made up their minds to take out his brains to find out why it was he understood figures so well, and asked what he was going to do about it, whereupon he coolly answered:

"Why, I shall simply go on living without them, just as you doctors are doing."

A good country parson preached a series of sermons on practical morality and very interesting and instructive they were. A lad in the village who had heard only one of them was coming out of an orchard one day, his pockets bulging out with stolen fruit. He met the parson, who noticed his efforts to conceal the evidences of his guilt. "Have you been stealing apples?" asked the minister. "Yes," answered the boy, sheepishly. "And you are trying to hide them from me?" continued the good man. "Yes, sir," said the culprit brightening up, "You said last Sunday that we must avoid the appearance of evil."

They never gripe or sicken, but cleanse and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels. This is the universal verdict of the many thousands who use DeWitt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills relieve headache, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, torpid liver, sallow complexion, etc. Try little Early Risers. Sold by Stouteagle Bros.

Dan Cromer, of Fort Ligonier, was a town visitor last Saturday.
