Early Forecasts for Farmers.

A practical test of the plan to supply the farmers living on the rural free delivery mail routes with weather forecasts 12 hours earlier than those now sent out will be made by the postoffice department and the weather bureau.

The plan is to have the weather bureau telegraph the morning forecasts to the postmasters in the rural towns from which the mail is sent to the farmers.

THE FOURTH.

Big Day in McConnellsburg. Weather Fine and Large Crowd Present.

Program Carried Out.

SOMETHIN' DOIN' THE WHOLE DAY.

The Fourth in McConnellsburg, was all right, and those who had the management of the affair are to be congratulated. The weather man could not have planned more wisely. The clouds looked threatening enough in the morning to make many farmers believe that it would be a poor harvest day; and many of them took the day off, that would otherwise have staid at home. Toward noon the clouds disappeared, and with the exception of a little shower in the afternoon, the weather all day was ideal.

By eight o'clock the streets were lined with visitors, and by ten, there was a crowd here such as has not been here since the Centennial. The buildings were copiously decorated with bunting and flags, and arches were erected in several places on Water street, so that the old town presented a gala appearance.

About ten o'clock the parade, which was composed of the funniest looking fantasies, industrial and historical floats, led by five marshals and two bands—the McConnellsburg and the Mercersburg—made a display that was well worth taking a day off to see.

At one o'clock the bands led the lovers of the ball game to Wagner's field, just to the left of the Forks of the pike, where the Edensville team and the McConnellsburg team crossed bats. As the Edensville people had been invited to help entertain the crowd that day, our boys were good to them, and Nev tossed them nice balls, and our fielders were not particular about holding the ball when it dropped into their hands on a fly, and just let their visitors trot around the diamond until—to save them from becoming over heated—they were sent out into the field again to get some rest.

Of course our boys did not score any points,—didn't want to, you know.

At three o'clock the tournament took place on the Commons on the northeast of town. This attracted much attention. Nine Sir Knights rode for the honors. The riders were Dr. and Walter Sappington, Cam Patterson, and Frank Duffy, of Webster Mills; and Walter R. Sloan, Alex Patterson, Mark Dickson, and Dan and Hal Trout, of this place.

Frank Duffy won the honor of crowning the "Queen," and placed on the coveted wreath on the brow of his wife; D. F. Trout won second, and crowned Miss Maye Johnston, first maid of honor; Dr. Sappington won third and bestowed the honor on his wife; and Walter Sappington won the privilege of crowning Miss Jess Dickson third maid of honor.

Dan Trout, Dr. Sappington, and Cam Patterson entered for the running race. Mr. Patterson won and carried off the cash prize of five dollars.

This ended the formal program until evening, when there was a fine display of fireworks, balloon ascensions, rockets and cannon crackers galore. The band had erected tables on the public green west of the Court House, and a festival was held lasting until midnight.

The order during the day and evening was as good as one ever sees on occasions of this kind. There was little drunkenness seen on the streets, and but one arrest was made, and that was due to the fact that the man would not listen to the common sense advice of his friends.

I shall prescribe it in my practice for Rheumatism and kindred diseases." "S-DROPS" taken internally, rid the blood of the poisonous matter and acids which are the direct causes of these diseases.
