Mortality Among War Veterans.

The report of United States Commissioner Warner for the fiscal year ending June 30, is completed, and will be issued in September. The report will show that during the year more than 36,000 pensioners died, and that for the first time since the Civil War, the decrease in the pension roll outbalanced the increase. The experts of the pension office express the belief that from now on, the mortality among the Civil War veterans will show a decided increase. The average age of the veteran pensioner according to the records, is now 65 years. In five years the average will have exceeded the three score and ten which is allotted to man. It is also shown that only 74 per cent. of the old soldiers who die leave children eligible for pensions.

Cure for Intemperance.

A southern doctor in attendance at a recent medical convention at a dinner at which the question of intoxication and its cure was discussed made a statement which was regarded by some of the physicians and laymen who were listening to him as remarkable.

He said that he had given a good deal of attention to the question of inebriety and its prevention or cure, and stated that he had found that the creating of an appetite for fruit was the best, and in fact the only remedy for the disease. Fruit he said will destroy entirely the taste for liquor, and in his experience he had never found a man that was fond of fruit; who at the same time had an appetite for drink. On the contrary he said, nobody ever saw a drunkard who cared for fruit.

The remedy is so simple, that it is worth considering, and experimentation is within reach of everyone.
