

BOATED WITH DROPSY.

The Heart Was Badly Affected When the Patient Began Using Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Elizabeth Maxwell, of 415 West Fourth St., Olympia, Wash., writes: "For over three years I suffered from a dropsical condition without being aware that it was due to kidney trouble. The early stages were principally backache and bearing down pain, but I went along without worrying much until dropsy set in. My feet and ankles swelled up, my hands puffed and became so tense I could hardly close them. I had great difficulty in breathing, and my heart would flutter with the least exertion. I could not walk far without stopping again and again to rest. Since using four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills the bloating has gone down and the feelings of distress have disappeared."

He Knew A Secret.

The mother had taken her young-est child, aged but 3, with her when she went to do certain errands, never thinking that his bright eyes would discover nor his sharp ears hear what she said to the clerk.

That evening at the dinner table the boy's elder sister greeted her father with wide eyes. "Daddy," she said, "Santa Claus has my doll. He wanted to do something to it to make it prettier and he came and got it."

"Daddy didn't," responded the 3-year-old, blithely, "mamma tooked it to the dolls' hospital to have some turfs put on it. I know 'cause I went wid her."

ALMOST A SOLID SORE.

Skin Disease From Birth—Fortune Spent on Her Without Benefit—Doctor Cured Her With Cuticura.

"I have a cousin in Rockingham Co. who once had a skin disease from her birth until she was six years of age. Her father had spent a fortune to get her cured and none of the treatments did her any good. Old Dr. G. suggested that he try the Cuticura Remedies, which he did. When he commenced to use it the child was almost in a solid sore. He had used it about two months and the child was well. I was there when they commenced to use your Cuticura Remedies. I stayed that week and then returned home and stayed two weeks and then went back and stayed with them two weeks longer and when I went home I could hardly believe she was the same child. Her skin was as soft as a baby's without a scar on it. I have not seen her in seven years, but I have heard from her and the last time I heard from her she was well. Mrs. W. P. Ingle, Burlington, N. C., June 18, 1905."

Dr. Osler On Diet.

Comparing the human body and the steam engine in a lecture at the Workingmen's College, Prof. Osler said one differentiating feature was that while the engine had only one furnace, and a large one, the human body consisted of myriads of little furnaces—that is, cells. Milk was the original food of man. It contained the four things that were necessary as food—fat, curd, sugar and salt—all dissolved in water. Dr. Wm. Mitchell had showed him a robust-looking patient and he remarked, "He looks as if he had been living on the fat of the land."

"No," replied Mr. Mitchell, "on the fat of the cow."

"That patient had a five years' milk diet—except on Sundays, when his wife insisted on rice pudding. If vegetarians would eat their vegetables and say less about it they would do well. Many vegetarians were not as robust mentally as physically."

Alcohol was quite unnecessary. If all the beer and spirits could be dumped into the Irish Channel, the English Channel, and North Sea for a year, people in England would be infinitely better off. "If," he continued, "on the second day you dumped all the tobacco into the sea it would be good for you and hard on the fish."

What Balzac Said Of Women.

The man who can govern a woman can govern a nation.

A man who can love deeply is never utterly contemptible.

A woman full of faith in the one she loves is but a novelist's fancy.

When a woman pronounces the name of a man but twice a day, there may be some doubt as to the nature of her sentiment—but three times!—Houston Post.

NEVER TIRES

Of the Food That Restored Her to Health.

"My food was killing me and I didn't know the cause," writes a Colorado young lady. "For two years I was thin and sickly, suffering from indigestion and inflammatory rheumatism."

"I had tried different kinds of diet, plain living and many of the remedies recommended, but got no better. Finally, about five weeks ago, my mother suggested that I try Grape-Nuts, and I began at once, eating it with a little cream or milk. A change for the better began at once. To-day I am well and am gaining weight and strength all the time. I've gained 10 lbs. in the last five weeks, and do not suffer any more from indigestion and the rheumatism is all gone."

"I know it is to Grape-Nuts alone that I owe my restored health. I still eat the food twice a day and never tire of it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The flavor of Grape-Nuts is peculiar to itself. It is neutral, not too sweet and has an agreeable, healthful quality that never grows tiresome.

One of the sources of rheumatism is from overloading the system with acid material, the result of imperfect digestion and assimilation.

As soon as improper food is abandoned and Grape-Nuts is taken regularly, digestion is made strong, the organs do their work of building up good red blood cells and of carrying away the excess of disease-making material from the system.

The result is a certain and steady return to normal health and mental activity. "There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in page.

Salting the Horse.

All horses need salt and often suffer for the want of it. A lump of mineral salt or a salt brick may be put in one corner of the stall where the horse can take it when he likes; but do not put the salt where it will mix with the grain, for in that case the horse will get more salt than he wants. This method of having salt always before him will prevent him from eating too much at one time. The next best plan is to give the horse all the salt he wants once a week, say Saturday night or Sunday morning. Have some regular time for this, or else you may forget it.

White Holland Turkeys.

The fattening of hogs. The cheapest method of fattening hogs is to feed a variety of food. On the majority of farms the hogs are pushed forward after the fall is nearly over, but they are not always penned in a condition in which to facilitate the fattening operation. One method of using corn is to "finish off" with it, thereby hardening the fat. To really fatten a hog it should be fed in such a manner previous to being penned as to force growth. First build up the frame for the reception of the meat that may be laid upon it, feeding such foods as should not only forward growth, but also keep the animal in a condition that will entail but little expense when the time arrives for getting it fat. To do this in the most economical manner pumpkins, beets, turnips, carrots, water squash and parsnips, together with finely cut clover hay, may be fed with good results. It will not do, however, to feed such substances in a wasteful manner. A cauldron or steamer may be used for cooking a large quantity of roots, and a warm feed should be given early in the morning, the mass thickened with ground grain or some of the well-known mill products rich in protein. At noon a feed composed of chopped roots, fed raw, but not too cold, will be sufficient. At night they may be given a liberal supply of corn. Such foods will not only keep the hogs in good health, but will be the cheapest diet at this season that can be allowed, as the varied articles will rapidly push them forward while the weather is not severe. Do not crowd the hogs, and feed in a manner so as to permit them to eat without competition. The farmer should utilize anything on the farm that will serve to assist in making growth, or fat, and should not overlook the fact that the market prefers hogs which contain a fair proportion of lean meat as well as fat.

A Home For Pekin Ducks.

A yard fifty feet long and ten wide will be sufficiently large to provide exercise for a small breeding flock; and the wire netting need only be eighteen inches high, which will not cost more than $1.50. Though the fence need not be high, it must be very securely fastened to prevent the ducks from coming to creep under anything.

A trio of good ordinary market stock should be purchased for about $7. Ducks are not like hens—they do not lay all the year round; but when they start they are attentive to the business of egg production daily, so that a couple of mature Pekins will provide you with a sitting in six days. As you will want to keep some of the young ones for next year's stock, ask the breeder you buy from to ship you birds two years old, as their progeny is stronger.

Pekins never want to sit; so hens' nest is used for hatching until your stock is large enough to fill an incubator in a few days. Artificial duck-raising is without doubt the best. There is one farm in Massachusetts that markets fifty-five thousand young ducks annually, sells two tons of feathers and keeps twelve hundred breeders. Would such an immense business be possible in the old way?

Though Pekins don't need water to swim in, they must have quantities to drink, always fresh and clean; which means that drinking-pans must be refilled three times a day, and be so constructed as to enable the birds to submerge the whole bill in the water. Why? Because there are two small holes in the base of the bill which become clogged with feed or mud, and unless they can rinse these out when drinking the poor things smother.

A man who has a broiler farm near our place three years ago bought a hundred ducks' eggs, hatched out a fine lot of youngsters, and lost every one within two weeks through using a water fountain in the brooder that was too shallow. As I had lots of ducks at the time, he brought some over for me to see.

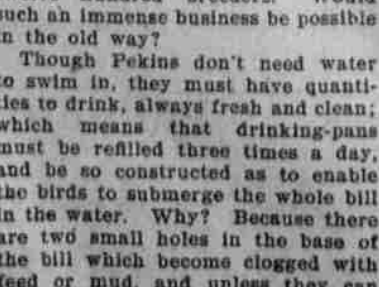

Farm Notes.

Sunflower seed adds lustre to the plumage. Pullets rarely make good mothers; old hens are the best. All fowls require a variety of food, and get excessively tired of using one kind. A wet season is not a good one for sheep. High dry land yields the most mutton to the acre. A bunch of hogs alike in color, alike in size and alike in condition, will always strain the market up a notch or two. The two-year-old ought to be as gentle as a dog by this time, and it is well to be handling the weanlings and the yearlings. The clover plant is the cheapest and most effective subsoil plow that can be used on soils where it will work; in passing deeper, is self-propelling, and in raising leaves more fertility than it takes.

Movable Poultry House.

My best all round poultry house is a movable one, and if I were to build more houses I should copy this one. It holds a dozen fowls.

It is 42x35 feet high in the middle. Three feet at one end is lattice or netting. Three feet from the end near the door is a partition, giving a Movable House.

Little room 2x4 feet, which is for roosts. Nests are here also, fastened to the wall by a large wire nail and easily pulled down for cleaning or moving. The roosting room has a floor, the larger room has none. When moving to a fresh spot the fowls are shut into the roost room, or the house can be moved in the evening, a couple of boards and some small rollers being used. In winter the house is set on a little raised bed of gravel, is floored with litter and banked outside with leaves. In summer the door and windows are of netting, making a cool house.—I. A. L. ANTELOPE HERDS IN COLORADO.

So Pentiful That There is Agitation For an Annual Open Season. Railroad men running into Denver on the prairie lines from the East say that antelope are becoming so plentiful in the vicinity of Fort Morgan, Wray Brush and Akron that herds of from thirty to fifty are no uncommon sight, and many of them have become so tame that they race along the railroad tracks for miles.

The law against the killing of antelope contains a clause allowing their being hunted from October 15 to October 25 in 1907, for the first time in several years. During the past few years the antelopes have been increasing rapidly. They frequent the neighborhood of the smaller towns, and many families in Fort Morgan have captured young antelope and raised them as pets. They have also increased in the South, Middle and North parks, although they frequent the prairies more than the mountains.

It is said that the cactus covered plains in the counties in the eastern part of Colorado furnish the best adapted place in the country for the rearing of the young of the antelope. The young are usually born in a hollow scooped out of the sand by the mother, in the midst of a thicket of cactus. In this way the baby antelope are safe from the depredations of prairie wolves and coyotes, who are not able to penetrate the cactus thicket, while the mother can jump over the hedge without injuring herself. The coyotes are only feared by the young antelope, the older animals being able to protect themselves.

An agitation is now spreading among sportsmen to have the short open season for antelope provided for next year permanent for a week each year. They claim the animals have increased so in the last few years that no injury will be done in the short open season. The season for quail, however, which will also open in 1907, will probably be abolished by the coming Legislature.—Denver Republican.

The Compass Boxed.

Hotel proprietors have absolutely no right to stick their labels on one's luggage. The fact that you have stayed at this or that hotel does not entitle the owner to use your property for advertising purposes. When one has been abroad for any length of time, one's trunk is so covered with parti-colored scraps of paper that it is impossible to find space for an ordinary railway label. You want to inform all porters, whom your movements ought to concern, as to your destination. You don't want to announce to all and sundry (including your wife) that you have stayed at this hotel at Rome—or that at Monte Carlo—or the other in Paris. If you have actually put up at these hotels, the chances are that you will wish to economize at the next hotel where you stay. Certainly you will be opposed to spending any large sums of money on toques for your wife. Let us not allow hotel managers to treat our trunks as hoardings. If I buy somebody's brain pills I don't permit their vendor to clap an advertisement of their merits on my silk hat.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Simple Solution.

A Scottish lawyer, with a liking for billiards, had occasion recently to visit a small town in the west of Scotland. While there, seeking to pass the time, he found a new and excellent billiard table.

Upon inquiring if there was anybody who could play, the landlowner referred him to one of the natives. They played several games, but the result was against the lawyer. Try as he might, the countryman won every time.

"Mr. —," the lawyer remarked, "I've quite a reputation at home. They consider me a good billiard player, but I'm not in your class. May I inquire how long you have played?"

"Oh, for a while back," replied the native. "But, I say, I dinna want to hurt yer feelins, but yer're the first fellow I ever beat."

Ireland Grows Good Tobacco.

Five years' extension of the facilities granted by the late Government to Ireland for the purpose of tobacco growing ought to convince the most skeptical of what experts already know—viz., that good tobacco can come out of the sister isle. If we had been more mindful of our neighbors and less of the Virginia planters, that fact would have been demonstrated long ago. Less than 100 years ago more than 1000 acres was under cultivation in Ireland. The average profit was £50 per acre, but in some cases as much as £100 per acre was obtained. Moreover, during the distressful period, Wexford, where the weed was in greatest cultivation, suffered less than any other part of the island.—Pall Mall Gazette.

American Medals in Paris.

A special showcase has been placed in the museum of the Paris Mint in which is displayed a collection of historical American medals and kindred articles. Among the exhibits is a gold plaque sent by President Roosevelt to the French Government commemorating the 200th anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birth. A new collection just added to the museum contains the seals of Charles I. and VII, Louis XII, Francis II and Mary, Queen of Scots. Then there are medals of the Order of the Holy Ghost, of Marie Antoinette and one which once belonged to Count d'Artois, the only part of the island.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Scoop.

"Did you see that chorus girl's brother's wife's uncle's forty-second cousin?" asked the managing editor.

"I did," the reporter replied.

"Well? Well?"

"She refuses to discuss the murder."

"Is it possible? We'll have that featured in two colors. Hurrah! What a sensation it will make!"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Andy And The Divile.

Mr. Carnegie's various liberalities have evoked many eulogies, but none more severe than one now laid upon him of being in league with Satan. This has become a tradition in some of the remotest parts of the Highlands and in the Hebrides.

"Andy," as Mr. Carnegie is universally called, has, according to this tradition, entered into a pact with the evil one to destroy Scottish religion by spreading the use of musical instruments and man-made hymns.

It is said that before returning to his native country he asked Satan how he could best aid him—whether he should make folks dance, build theatres in every parish or teach them to play cards.

"Na, na, 'Andy,'" replied Satan, "take a kilt of whistles to Ilka kirk (put an organ in every church). Then my work will gang weel aenoch."

The fact that Mr. Carnegie has presented organs to many churches in all parts of Scotland, introducing instrumental music and modern hymns where formerly only psalms were vocally rendered, is taken as proof of the fulfillment of the compact.—London Dispatch.

A Lucky Cabman.

Paddy O'Connor, go-as-you-please cabbie, who gets a fare at the Waldorf-Astoria when the other cabs are too busy to get it, got a fare last night. He was elected to drive Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stanton, guests at the hotel, to the Princess Theatre, which he did with zest, and then drove up Broadway as far as Fourth Street, dropped his wagon pole, and went to sleep.

The cabbie was slumbering peacefully when he was aroused an hour later by two men frantically crying: "Here it is, here it is!" They emerged from the inside of his cab, held up a gold mesh purse studded with diamonds, and astonished Paddy.

"Drive us to the Tenderloin Station," they cried, and Paddy whipped up. When they got to the station they found Mr. and Mrs. Stanton. The gold mesh purse belonged to Mrs. Stanton, and the purse, being worth $750, not counting the cash inside. Mr. Stanton figured that $25 was not too much reward for Paddy, seeing he hadn't discovered it. Paddy pocketed the reward gratefully, and was followed forth by the two men who woke him up. Paddy was liberal with them, and all three made re-posing.—N. Y. World.

The Blood is The Life.

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also affected, the mind and judgement are clouded, and many an evil deed or impure thought has been directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Pure, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

What is Pe-ru-na?

Is it a Catarrh Remedy, or a Tonic, or is it Both?

Some people call Peruna a great tonic. Others refer to Peruna as a great catarrh remedy.

Which of these people are right? Is it more proper to call Peruna a catarrh remedy than to call it a tonic?

Our reply is, that Peruna is both a tonic and a catarrh remedy. Indeed, there can be no effectual catarrh remedy that is not also a tonic.

In order to thoroughly relieve any case of catarrh, a remedy must not only have a specific action on the mucous membranes affected by the catarrh, but it must have a general tonic action on the nervous system.

Catarrh, even in persons who are otherwise strong, is a weakened condition of some mucous membrane. There must be something to strengthen the circulation, to give tone to the arteries, and to raise the vital forces.

Perhaps no vegetable remedy in the world has attracted so much attention from medical writers as HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS. The wonderful efficacy of this herb has been recognized many years, and is growing in its hold upon the medical profession. When joined with CUBEBAS and COPAIBA a trio of medical agents is formed in Peruna which constitutes a specific remedy for catarrh that in the present state of medical progress cannot be improved upon. This action, reinforced by such renowned tonics as COLLISONIA CANADENSIS, CORYDALIS FORMOSA and CEDRON SEED, ought to make this compound an ideal remedy for catarrh in all its stages and locations in the body.

From a theoretical standpoint, therefore, Peruna is beyond criticism. The use of Peruna confirms this opinion. Numerous testimonials from every quarter of the earth furnish ample evidence that this judgment is not over enthusiastic. When practical experience confirms a well-grounded theory the result is a truth that cannot be shaken.

Safe, Sure and Speedy.

No external remedy ever yet devised has so fully and unquestionably met these three prime conditions so successfully as Alcock's Plaster. They are safe because they contain no deleterious drugs and are manufactured upon scientific principles of medicine. They are sure because nothing goes into them except ingredients which are exactly adapted to the purposes for which a plaster is required. They are speedy in their action because their medicinal qualities go right to their work of relieving pain and restoring the natural and healthy performance of the functions of muscles, nerves and skin.

Alcock's Plaster are the original and genuine porous plasters and like most meritorious articles have been extensively imitated, therefore always make sure and get the genuine Alcock's.
