A Missouri woman is very angry with her home paper, because in writing up her husband's death, the editor said: "He has gone to a happier home." This creates doubt as to where she thinks the deceased really went. Either place might be happier.

Courtship is a serious affair in Italy and Spain, and in consequence they don't have any breach of promise cases there. The young man is not allowed to "just drop in" until the marriage contract is signed. It's a great saving of blighted affections and lawyer's fees.

Rest is the great restorer. We tire our muscles by exercise and then rest to restore them; yet a great many of us do not stop to think how little rest we give to our stomachs. As a usual thing no part of our bodies is so generally overworked as our digestive organs. A tired and overworked stomach will give signs of distress to which we pay no heed until at last Dyspepsia takes hold. Indigestion is just a warning, and if we heed the warning we can easily avoid further consequences. Kodol is a most thorough stomach relief. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach the needed rest and greatly assists in restoring it to its normal activity and usefulness. Kodol is sold on a guarantee relief plan. It is sold here by Trout's drug store.

How To Save Labor.

The following from a farmer's wife to the Tribune Farmer is good enough for the Fulton County News:

"Sir: May I be allowed a little space in your valuable paper for a few lines pertaining to house cleaning, not as to how it is to be done, but how to lessen the work in that trying time? Spring is here, and to us busy housewives it means more than soft winds, flowers and birds. There are the windows and pictures to be washed, the moving and rubbing of furniture, the airing and brushing and putting away of garments and bedding and the removal and shaking of heavy, dusty carpets, and what, may I ask, shall we do with the carpets? "Why," I hear some of you say, "we will remove the tacks, and after dinner the men will do all the lifting and shaking for us very willingly." Yes, they will, because they know you cannot, but how they would have liked to spend that time in an easy chair with book or paper, for our "men folks" must be considered, too. With the same lack of help on the farm as indoors, they appreciate the short noon rests. Now, when it is almost impossible to obtain help "for love or money," why not economize in time and strength and do away with this heavy work. A few years ago I discarded all carpets from rooms much used. The kitchen floor is painted, which I prefer to a hardwood floor, as it does not show grease and other spots so readily. My dining room, which is living room as well, has its floor finished in oak stain. It was applied over an ordinary painted floor. It can be renewed as often as every spring, as one likes. There is positively no dust from such a floor, and where one has plants in the room it is a great advantage. What might look like bareness to some can be relieved by homemade rugs, and do not think, you young housekeepers, as my daughters used to think, that they must be taken up and shaken every day. That means a great deal of hard work, which we are trying to avoid. Just brush them lightly when you sweep, and some day, when the north wind blows, pin them securely on the clothes line, and let every bit of dust blow away. You will find when you take them down, they will look and feel almost like new; and just here let me add that a tight wire line attached to strong painted posts is what every woman is entitled to who has any washing done at home. (May none of you wait as long for yours as I did for mine.)

"And, speaking of rugs, let me suggest, when making them, that you save your different colors for different rugs, so they will correspond with the predominating color of the room for which you intend them. In my own room, which is papered with buff, and a green and buff border, I have rugs of buff and brown, with a touch of green in the body of the rugs, and green the principal color in the border. These, over an oak stained floor, look very pretty, indeed.

"I hope these suggestions will help some one who, perhaps, has not had my many years of experience, and lighten, if ever so little, some woman's work, and so add to the comfort and happiness of the whole household, for no woman tired out can do justice to herself or her family."

A Corn Contest for Pennsylvania Boys.

The Pennsylvania Live Stock Breeders' Association announces a list of cash prizes for a corn-growing contest, open to any boy or girl whose age will not exceed eighteen years on December 1, 1907. The contest plot must be rectangular in form and contain forty square rods, or one-fourth of an acre. Selection of land, seed, fertilizers and manner of cultivation are left to the contestant, but he must report on these and other matters, so that his methods may be useful to others. The prizes in the Corn-Growing Contest range from thirty to five dollars, and successful contestants may receive double these amounts by winning in the show also. The Contest is under the supervision of the Pennsylvania Live Stock Breeders' Association and a committee of the Pennsylvania Agricultural College. Every boy in Pennsylvania who can grow corn or wants to learn how should enter this contest. Awards will be based chiefly on yield, though the report made and the sample exhibited also count.
