D. F. Trout, Owner, McConnellsburg, Pa. May 9, 1907.

One of those wisecracks, who turn up when everything looks blue, says that May, 1882, was exactly like the one we have just passed through, and that was a year of good crops too.

What is Wrong?

Surely the weather man has gotten twisted in his calculations this spring. Stoves and overcoats have been the rule of the day for some time past when we should have been enjoying the balmy days of Spring.

Are you like the weather man? Have you been doing the opposite of what you should have done, that is, have you been buying elsewhere? We all, as well as the weather man, are liable to get things twisted around once in awhile.

We all hope the weather man will get his bearings and give us good seasonable weather from now on; and we are just as hopeful that you will get your bearings too and trade with us if you haven't been.

May was the best month we have ever had in spite of the fact that it was too cool for Spring goods to sell well. June, with your help, will be even better.

Have you bought that summer dress yet? We are in a better position now than at any time last season to show you a complete line of Lawns, White Linen, Irish Linen, Dimities, Organzies, Wash Silks, and other summer dress fabrics.

Such lovely creations of the weaver's art are seldom found in such large variety, and at such reasonable prices as we are offering.

We miss our guess if we cannot please you when it comes to anything in summer dress goods. Try us. Samples forwarded by mail.

Yours for more business.
