SOME TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS.

A Queer Mistake in a Poem by Mrs. Wilcox. How reporters sometimes make absurd mistakes in gathering news, was humorously illustrated not long ago, when Helicon Hall, Upton Sinclair's Utopian Colony, burned down. Among those injured was Mrs. Grace MacGowan Cooke, the well known author. A youthful reporter on one of the big New York dailies, eager to get his story in the first edition, wrote hurriedly that "Grace MacGowan, the cook, suffered from serious burns."

And this reminds one of a typographical error in one of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poems. The author had written for a newspaper a sonnet containing this line: "My soul is a highhouse keeper."

To her amazement, the verse read in print: "My soul is a light housekeeper."

Patrick, lately over, was working in the yards of a railroad. One day he happened to be in the yard office when the force was out. The telephone bell rang excitedly for some time before Pat came to the conclusion that it ought to be answered. He approached the instrument very cautiously, and slowly put the receiver to his ear, as he had often seen the boss do.

"Hello, there!" he called. "Hello!" answered some one at some distant place. "Is this eight-six-eight-four-eight?" "A w'g'wan! That d'ye think O'man, a box-car?" sarcastically replied Patrick.—Judge's Library.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, pushing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Mr. D. Knoble, of Nevada, O., writes: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me."

Kodol Digests What You Eat and relieves the stomach of all nervous strain and the heart of all pressure. Bottles only $1.00 Size holding 2 1/2 times the trial size, which sells for 50c.
