RESUME OF THE PANIC.

Tragedy and Comedy-How the Country-Wide Financial Squeeze Grew From a Small Fallure.

New York City.—The financial squeeze has now been on for a triffe more than four weeks, and the people all over the country, realizing that the worst is over, are gathering about the stoves in the corner stores, discussing what might be called the superficial developments of the panic. Some of these are mentioned, even yet, with the old shiver of alarm. In many of them, however, is found humor; in others tragedy.

For instance, back in Kankakee the experience of the old "tight wad" money lender who went to the city to collect a note, insisted on currency and had to charter a truck and a freight car to get it home is greeted with uproarious laughter. But the story of the little widow just around the corner is recalled in allence. Her small sum was in a city bank which closed. She stood before its doors a whole night and a day, and came home, when the suspension notice was posted, weakened in body and literally scared to death.

the whole trouble seemed to start from one apparently—at that time—insignificant failure. The failure, however, was followed by rumors involving the names of several prominent bankers. These were soon forced out of office, and runs started on their banks. The trouble spread in waves ever New York City. The community's spins was shaken with the cold chills of panic and the ague passed in waves from Wall Street to Hariem, the Broux, Brooklyn and Williamsburg. Bank officers who had been skating on thin ice scrambled for the shore, but their moves only shattered what support they had had, and they found themselves struggling in the cold black water of the law.

On this phase of the situation a Harlem bank president who has been active in the banking world for nearly two score years commented.

Banker on the Panic.

"There are many bankers, cashiers, bookkeepers and clerks included." he said, "who would live to old age without the blight of dishonor if there were no such thing as bank runs and panics. A man may have invested the were no such thing as bank runs and panics. A man may have invested the money he has 'borrowed'—quote that word, please—so safely that he will astually be able to return it if everything goes right. But the first thing has knows his bank is involved in trouble like that we have just passed through, and he fluds his books in the hands of the bank examiner. Before jumping on necks with hobnails in our boots, let's stop and think how many honest men to-day would have had the blight of State's prison on their pass had a financial flurry occurred at just the right, or, rather, the wrong time. The panic passed over the country like a wave, with its state's prison of the batten than a manifest over the country like a wave, with its state of the batten than a manifest over the country like a wave.

The panic passed over the country like a wave, with its start in Manhattan Island. This wave progress is reflected in the news dispatches. The day of the first trouble here, Hoston, Philadelphia and Pittsburg were gending in optimistic reports in an "I told you so" tone. The next day the dispatches from these cities told of precautionary measures. Then the precautions were taken up by cities a little further on, and those near by found themselves involved in runs and suspensions. And so it went until the wave broke itself, so to speak, on the Pacific Ocean and the Guif of Mexico.

Different Kinds of Runs.

There have been, bankers say, three kinds of runs—panic runs, silly runs and funs started by mistake. The panic runs were the general order resulting from the unsettled state of credit.

At least two runs were started by mistakes in newspaper stories about the general banking situation.

A run on a bank up the State was caused in this way: The cashier got a telephone message from home that some medicine was needed immediately for the bany. The cashier called an office boy, followed him to the door of the bank in telling him the errand, and sped him on his way with the admonition, "Now run." Unfortunately two or three panicky depositors were entering and heard only the word "run" coming from the cashier. They were influential men in the community, and when they immediately drew out all their deposits their example was followed by several others. Rumor took up the case there and handled it in its old thorough going manner.

The use of clearing house certificates and the premium on money have resulted in some curious incidents. In St. Louis the certificates were accepted on street cars. In one town in the Middle West where the lack of currency was peculiarly felt the merchants, nearly all of whom were manufacturers, paid their workmen in the old-fashioned "shin plasters," and the town is now in possession of a currency of its own, supplemented by that of Uncle Sam.

Lots of Silver Used.

Restaurant men down town, especially proprietors of the grab-and-run shops, say they have never in their lives seen so many silver dollars and so much small gold. One of the cheaper restaurants in closing business on Friday night had more than $290 in silver dollars. Most of these were bright and new, but dated from 1870 to 1880. The young woman cashler, who heretofore has done the banking for the ceneers, was unable to carry the deposit to the bank, and a waiter had to be ment with her.

In the mining communities and towns in which large railroad operations are going on the employers have been put to it to pay off their men and keep them cheerful. A check means about as much to an ordinary section hand as a Sanskrit handbill, and when the men found they were raceiving these unusual bits of paper instead of their wages they struck, and in many instances riot ensued. Many of the shut-downs and curtaliments shown in the accompanying table were due solely to the insolity of the employers to get money to pay off their men, and not to insolvency

And now the climax of the situation seems to be past. Factories are resuming work and paying their men in currency. Money has poured out of the banks of New York City and other large financial centres, and been replaced, at least in part, by gold from Europe. Stockings are once more giving up their heards, and the thin layers of new dust have been swept on the covers of the strong boxes and the lines of depositors are forming at the right windows to give confidence to the weak kneed. The thirty-day limit that many savings banks put upon withdrawals has expired, with few, indeed, to claim their money; the goose is hanging high.
