President Diaz of Mexico.

Fresident Diaz of Mexico, who is past 77, lit rally takes upon himself a very extensive portion of the administrative work of his Government. He is an early ris er, and his day is systematically arranged. Few public men are more kindly and agreeable in private life than the Pre adent of Mexico, and he has behind an habitual gravity of manner a very keen sense f humor. He never frets or worries over petty mat ters, and is always calm and in perfect mental poise in times of crisis and emergency.

Laughter and Digestion. That a normal mind is really a basis of good digestion is shown by the remarkable sensitivenesof the digestive processes to men Light on the Mysterious De tal conditions. Sudden sorrow, bad news, disaster, great losses of property or friends, great disappointments, not only arrestall HAVE RIGID DISCIPLINE the digestive processes but even suspend the formation of the gastric juices.

It has been shown that when the gastric follicles are distended and the gastric juicos flowing freely from them, when one is hungry and cating with great rel ish, the sudden receipt of bad news completely reverses the di gestive processes. The gastric glands immediately become parched, dry, feverish, and ford will remain in the stomach for many hours with the digestive processes absolutely suspended.

The digestion seems to be dependent upon the condition of the mind. Often our passing moods hasten or retard digestion. We often hear people, especial ly delicate women who have nervous dyspensia, say that they do not understand how it is that they can go out to late suppers or banquets and eat heartily all sorts of incongruous foods without feel ing any inconvenience afterwards.

They do not realize that it's due to the change in the mental attitude. They have had a good your business to keep out of all time; they have enjoyed them selves. Anything which will divert the dyspeptic's mind from his ailments, will 1m prove his digestion. When they were at home worrying over their health, swallowing a little dyspep sia with every mouthful of food, of course these women could not assimilate their food. But when they were having a jolly good time they forgot their ailments and were surprised afterwards to find that they had enjoyed their food. The whole process is men People who go to health resorts

A German Officer's Discoveries in a Famous Monastery-Kumbum Really a Small City-Duties and Instruction of Priests -- May Enter at 15 Years of Age

More than 4,000 men make their home in the Tibetan monastery of Kumbum. From early life till middle age they are in a religious prison, walled in from the rest of the world. They may be sent far away on missions, they may climb the hills outside when religious fetea are celebrated, but they are tied to the great ciclater. Licut. W. Filchner of the German army went to Kumbum some time ago, equipped, with a pass from the uninese resident minister in Tibet, which enabled his wife and himself to remnta there long enough to make a careful study of one of the most celcbrated of Tibetan lamaseries and its Inmates most of these lamas do not like foreigners and they gave Filchner a curious specimen of their logic. They said that the Japanese, after thrashing the Chinese, had given the Russlans a still worse thrashing. This was sufficient proof, they said, that foreign devils are no match for the Chinese and undoubtedly the Chinese will some day wipe them out. Among the numerous ceremoales which occupy much of the time of the lamas perhaps the most childish is that occurring on the 25th of each month and dedicated to "travellers of the whole world." Hundreds of the pr'asts go to the top of a mountain th.ee hours walk from Kumbum, where they offer prayers and strew to the wind many little packages containing the figures of galloping horses cut out of paper. The supposition is that through the power of Buddha these paper horses will be transformed into living animals that will be sent to the succor of suffering pllgrims wherever they may be.

Of the thousands of priests threefourths are Tibetans, and nearly all the others are Mongols, with just a sprinkling of Chinese. Most of the lamas are between 15 and 40 years of age. The oldest sciong them often have snow white hair and are held in much respect. Nearly all of them shave their heads preserving only the scalp lock, and wear no heards. Their coarne yellow underskirts are covered by a red robe coming down to their feet, but leaving one arm and shoulder bare, so that they have a If the of the effect of the Roman toga, though they are belted around the waist. No hose are permitted, furs are strictly forbidden and the priests have to inure themselves to the rigors of winter with clothing that is really inadequate. But they are permitted to wear stockings when sent on whiter journeys across the plains of Mongolia.

The lower priests are always bareheaded, but the higher lamas have a head covering. One would think there was no water in Knmhum for wesh-

Pigs' Talls as Barometers.

The secret of "Uncle Billy" Waring's ability to forecast the weather has leaked out. Recently he has been able with an exactitude not equalled by the best barometers to tell his neighbors twenty-four and sometimes thirty-six hours ahead what weather to expect. His predictions have been of great benefit to farmers. Now it is learned that he gets his tips from his two pigs. In dry weather the tails of the pigs have one curl, in wet weather two curls, and just before a rain their strongly with the prevailing whiteness of the walls and houses. Kumbum is really a small city covering a large area with many temples, private chapels, halls of instruction, depositories of sacred literature and dwellings. The poorest lamas are herded together in living rooms provided by the monastery, but they must pay a small fee for their accommodations.

Filchner says that the general air of the priests is that of indolence, that not a few of them look like outinws and criminals and that others have the bearing of dudes. But an enormous amount of labor must be performed by these 4,000 priests. They are dirty in their persons, but It is their charge that the streets and butter in which the floating wicks are ever blazing must never run short. There is almost no end of the rules of religion and conduct that are enjoined upon all. A priest is not ordained until he is 15, but he enters the monastery when a mere child and the chief rules imposed upon him in the preparatory stage are that he must not lie or steal, drink any...ing intoxicating or kill anything that has life. Lincoln on Law Observance,

There is even now something of ill omen among us; I mean the disregard of law. There, then, is one point at which danger may be expected. The question seems: shall we fortify against it?
