

HOUSE WORK

Thousands of American women in our homes are daily sacrificing their lives to duty.

In order to keep the home neat and pretty, the children well dressed and tidy, women overdo. A female weakness or displacement is often brought on and they suffer in silence, drifting along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden. It is these faithful women that

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND comes as a boon and a blessing, as it did to Mrs. F. Ellsworth, of Mayville, N. Y., and to Mrs. W. P. Boyd, of Beaver Falls, Pa., who say:

"I was not able to do my own work, owing to the female trouble from which I suffered. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me wonderfully, and I am so well that I can do as big a day's work as I ever did. I wish every sick woman would try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

A Reinvestment.

A Missouri man tells of an Irishman named Coughlin, who lived in a shanty standing in a field near the main highway from Kansas City. The foundations of the shanty were lower than the road, through which ran a big water main. As the living floor of the place was raised on posts to make it level with the highway, it left a large cellar underneath, where Coughlin kept a dozen hens.

One day the water main burst, flooding the cellar and drowning the hens. Whereupon Coughlin took steps to enter a claim for damages against the city. After much delay influential friends succeeded in securing the sum of $25 in settlement of Coughlin's claim.

"I've got me money!" shouted the Irishman to a neighbor sitting on the steps of the next shanty.

"It's glad that I am hear that," was the reply. "And how much was it, Coughlin?"

"Twenty-fove dollars."

"And what are ye gon' to do with the twenty-fove, Coughlin?"

"I'm gon' to buy twenty-fove dollars' worth of ducks," said Coughlin. —Harper's Weekly.

CUBS' FOOD

They Thrive On Grape-Nuts.

Healthy babies don't cry, and the well-nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food, Grape-Nuts, and get well.

"My little baby was given up by three doctors, who said that the condensed milk on which I had fed her had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked 1 1/2 tablespoons in one pint of cold water for half an hour, then I strained off the liquid and mixed 12 teaspoonfuls of this strained Grape-Nuts juice with six teaspoonfuls of rich milk, put in a pinch of salt and a little sugar, warmed it and gave it to baby every two hours.

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong, healthy child, rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies on, and is also a delicious, healthful food for grown-ups, as we have discovered in our family."

Bristow, of Panama Railroad, Advises Pacific Coast Boats—Thinks It Would Be of Advantage in Transporting Supplies to the Canal—Criticizes Pacific Mail Co. For Attempting to Monopolize Railroad.

Washington, D. C.—J. L. Bristow, of Kansas, who was appointed a special commissioner of the Panama Railroad last August, with instructions to report whether it was advisable to establish a Government steamship line between Panama and Pacific Coast ports of the United States, has made a report to the Secretary of War, in which he says that "the weight of the argument is strongly in favor of establishing this service."

Mr. Bristow, who first came into the public eye as Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General at the time of the postal scandals which he investigated for President Roosevelt, had served under a previous appointment as a special commissioner of the Panama Railroad, with directions to investigate freight rates and trade existing between United States, South American, European and Panamanian ports. As a result of his inquiry at that time the Panama Railroad was continued as a commercial line under the United States Government, the Panama Railroad Steamship Line, between New York and Colon, was retained and operated by the Government, and contracts of an exclusive character with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company were annulled. Under his second commission Mr. Bristow was instructed to investigate specifically the service rendered by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company

Chief of the Repair Bureau Defends the Freeboard Style of the American Navy—He Recommends a Change in the Hoists—Greater Speed Gained in the Dreadnought Type.

Washington, D. C.—Rear-Admiral Washington Lee Capps, Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair of the Navy Department, made answer to the critics of the navy at a hearing before the House Committee on Naval Affairs. To the minds practically of all the members of the committee, Admiral Capps' statements were a complete refutation of the charges which have been made against certain features of the construction of American battleships.

Admiral Capps displayed no animosity or ill-feeling toward the chronic and scientific fault-finders, and discussed the subject of naval architecture in a dispassionate way. While he ridiculed the Reuterthal article in McClure's Magazine in its general features, still he gave credit to certain criticisms made. In particular he admitted the justice of the criticism of the ammunition hoists on battleships. He advocated a complete change of hoists, and asked for an appropriation of $175,000 to this end.

Commissioner Smith vs. The Standard Oil Co.

From the Railway World, January 3, 1908.

Mr. Herbert Knox Smith, whose zeal in the cause of economic reform has been in no wise abated by the panic which he and his kind did so much to bring on, is out with an answer to President Moffett, of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. The publication of this answer, it is officially given out, was delayed several weeks, "for business reasons," because it was not deemed advisable to further excite the public mind, which was profoundly disturbed by the crisis. Now that the storm clouds have rolled by, however, the Commissioner rushes again into the fray.

Our readers remember that the chief points in the defence of the Standard Oil Company, as presented by President Moffett, were: (1) that the rate of six cents on oil from Whiting to East St. Louis has been assigned to the Standard Oil Company as the lawful rate by employees of the Alton; (2) that the 18-cent rate on oil with the Interstate Commerce Commission was a class and not a commodity rate, never being intended to apply to oil; (3) that oil was shipped in large quantities between Whiting and East St. Louis over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois at six and one-fourth cents per hundred pounds, which has been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission as the lawful rate; and (4) that the 18-cent rate on oil was a secret rate because it read, not between these points under substantially the same conditions as governed the shipments of the Standard Oil Company.

This defence of the Standard Oil Company was widely quoted and has undoubtedly exerted a powerful influence upon the public mind. Naturally the Administration, which had stated the success of its campaign against the "trusts" upon the result of its attack upon this company, endeavors to offset this influence, and hence the new deliverance of Commissioner Smith.

We need hardly to point out that his rebuttal argument is extremely weak, although as strong, no doubt, as the circumstances would permit. He answers the points made by President Moffett substantially as follows: (1) The Standard Oil Company had a traffic department, and should have known that the six-cent rate had not been filed; (2) no answer; (3) the Chicago and Eastern Illinois rate was secret because it read, not from Whiting, but from Dolton, which is described as "a village of about 1,500 population just outside of Chicago. Its only claim to note is that it has been for many years the point of origin for this and similar secret rates." The Commissioner admits in describing this rate that there was a note attached stating that the rate could also be used from Whiting.

The press has quite generally hailed this statement of the Commissioner of Corporations as a conclusive refutation of what is generally regarded as the strongest rebuttal argument advanced by the Standard.

In fact, it is as weak and inconclusive as the remainder of his argument. The lines of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois do not run into Chicago. They terminate at Dolton, from which point entrance is made over the Belt Line. Whiting, where the oil freight originates, is not on the lines of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, which receives its Whiting freight from the Belt Line at Dolton. The former practice, now discontinued, in filing tariffs was to make them read from a point on the line of the filing road, and it was also general to state on the same sheet, that the tariff would apply to other points, not, of course, except the invitation of the grand jury although he might have been pardoned if he had referred (then to various official investigations by the Interstate Commerce Commission and other departments of the Government.

We come back, therefore, to the conclusion of the whole matter, which is that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana was fined an amount equal to seven or eight times the value of its entire property, because its traffic department did not verify the statement of the Alton rate clerk, that the six-cent commodity rate on oil had been properly filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission. There is no evidence, and none was introduced at the trial, that any shipper of oil from Chicago territory had been interfered with by the eighteen-cent rate nor that the failure of the Alton to file its six-cent rate had resulted in any discrimination against any independent shipper.—we must take this on the word of the Commissioner of Corporations and of Judge Landis. Neither is it denied even by Mr. Smith that the "independent" shipper of oil, whom he pictures as being driven out of business by this discrimination of the Alton, could have shipped all the oil he desired to ship from Whiting via Dolton over the lines of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois to East St. Louis. In short, President Moffett's defence is still good, and we predict will be declared so by the higher court.

The Standard Oil Company has been charged with all manner of crimes and misdemeanors. Beginning with the famous Rice of Marietta, passing down to that apocryphal name, Henry Demarest Lloyd, with his Wealth Against Corruption, and descending by easy stages to Miss Tarbell's offensive personalities, we finally reach the nether depths of unfair and baseless misrepresentation in the report of the Commissioner of Corporations. The Standard has been charged with every form of commercial piracy and with most of the crimes on the corporation calendar. After long years of strenuous attack, under the leadership of the President of the United States, the corporation is at last dragged to the bar of justice to answer for its misdoings. The whole strength of the Government is directed against it, and at last, we are told, the Standard Oil Company is to pay the penalty of its crimes, and it is finally convicted of having failed to verify the statement of a rate clerk and is forced to pay a prodigious sum, measured by the car. Under the old criminal law, the theft of property worth more than a shilling was punishable by death. Under the interpretation of the Interstate Commerce law by Theodore Roosevelt and Judge Kenesaw Landis, a technical error of a traffic official would result in the confiscation of a vast amount of property.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally, and reaches the seat of the disease directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Few Enter The Ministry.

One of the Yale professors has been making a study of the occupations of Yale graduates by classes. He finds, among other things, that a constantly increasing number are entering the ministry and a steadily increasing number are studying law. The law now claims more than twice as many as any other profession. Next to it comes finance. Fewer than one-twelfth of the graduates enter the ministry in spite of the fact that the purposes for which Yale was founded was "to train goodly young men for the Christian ministry."

tory had been guilty. Considering the fact that these shippers included the packers and elevator men of Chicago the action of the grand jury in calling upon President Moffett to furnish evidence of their wrong-doing may be interpreted as a demand for an elaboration of the obvious; but the fact that a rate-book containing these freight rates for other shippers was offered in evidence during the trial and ruled out by Judge Landis, was kept out of sight. President Moffett would not, of course, accept the invitation of the grand jury although he might have been pardoned if he had referred (then to various official investigations by the Interstate Commerce Commission and other departments of the Government.

In 1903 the wife got a divorce, but in 18 months the two met by chance and married again. The wedding breakfast, however, ended in a fight, but the couple stayed together in the old way, sometimes the husband and sometimes the wife winning the day's fight.
