This is the bell of the frigate Lutine, wrecked long ago off the Dutch coast. After being under water for years the bell was salved and now, strangely enough, is employed to inform underwriters that something has been heard of one of those ships which by their protracted passages are causing uneasiness.

Not every ship that is on the overdue market is announced in this manner. It is only when an underwriter has expressed to the committee his desire for immediate in formation in respect to this or that overdue vessel that the note of the old black bell rings through the At the present time there are elev-

This is the largest collection he has taken there in eight years and with two exceptions the largest amount he ever raised at Old Orchard in the 18 years he has held summer camp meetings.

The solicitation of jewelery, which made the old-time Simpson collectlons spectacular, but was abandoned some years ago because of public criticism, was resumed in a mild form. A diamond ring, a gold necklace, two plain gold rings, a gold watch and chain and two small boxes of other jewelry were contributed.

Growing Power of Electric Lights.

A comparison has recently been made of the power of the lights in French lighthouses at various periods in the past 35 years. In 1874, when only oil lights were used, the highest power was equal to 54,000 candles. In 1882, when the electric light was introduced, the power rose to a maximum of $20,000 candles. Since then frequent improvements have been made in the electric lights until, at pregent, the most powerful lighthouses project an illumination nearly equal to 3,000,000 candles.

Cotton vs. Gold. There is much actual gold still to be discovered in the South, but the cotton grown annually by that section is worth far more than all the gold and sliver produced in the world in the same time. Between 1901 and 1906, for instance, the total value of the world's gold and silver output was $2,606,686,400, and the total value of the cotton crop of the South $3,669,000,000 a difference in favor of cotton in the six years of $1,062,313,600.

On a Siberian Railway.

A St. Petersburg correspondent states that matters are going from bad to worse in connection with the East-Siberian Railway. This is due mainly to the lack of money; the chief officials receive their salaries very irregularly; thus they are driven to commit various kinds of embezzlement in order to get their wages. To make matters worse the Sungarl River teems with junks, so that the rallway cannot compete with them in carrying freight,
