Gumption on the Farm.

A farm is worth twice as much as it is worth in dollars and cents. Slowly and steadily all day long accomplishes more than to hurry and worry for a short time and then quit.

If there are any vacancies in the cornfield, fill them with beans or something that can be turned to account. Keep every foot of your farm growing something that will help.

Now don't find fault with your wife because she doesn't keep pie baked all the time. Anyway, too much pie is not healthful.

Stir the earth. Remember that as agitation is the death of all political wrongs, so is it death to weeds. Man never devised a more useful implement than the hoe in its various forms.

Your greatest aid in the harvest is your faithful team. See to it that your horses are not pestered by flies, and that they are properly fed and watered.

Don't be afraid of overdoing the cultivation of the corn crop. When there is a lull in other work, if the stalks are not so high that there is danger of knocking them over, run the cultivator through the field once more.

If you want nice bright hay that the cattle will eat up clean, and that will do them the most good, don't wait till the blossoms have dropped off and the stalk is dry and hard; cut your grass when it is crisp and juicy.

You are not done with your summer's work unless you have cut out the brush and stuff from the corners of the fences. Perhaps you have some that will cut a little grass. Save it all, you will need it before next spring.

We have usually succeeded best in having our hay baled up as soon as the stacks are out of the sweat; then we sell at once. After this time the hay shrinks a good deal, and more waste must be cut from the outside of the stacks.

When the day is particularly hot and trying, and things seem to go at cross purposes, think of something pleasant. Just draw a mental picture of the after-harvest outing that you and your good wife and your boys and girls are going to have.

If a farmer is not better than other men, it is his own fault, for he lives closer to the heart of Nature. He hears the voice of God every day, in sweet communion with the trees, the brooks, the sky.

"It is an ill wind that blows nobody good," and the hard times have eased the demand on the labor market, so that it is now possible to get workers, and the farmer and his wife may be able to find some one to help, if it is only long enough to tide over the extra work that harvest makes in field and house.

Those whose work afield requires their early rising, enjoy the most beautiful part of the day. The picture of daybreak illumining the eastern sky, and the sun breaking through the mists of dawn, is one never to be forgotten, and it is one so allusive that painters have tried in vain adequately to put it on canvas.

A tub or a barrel often drops down for want of a hoop. If everybody knew how easy it is to make a hoop from a wire—perhaps a piece of waste telegraph wire often seen by the roadside—the work would not wait. Simply bend the wire around the tub to measure it, remove it and twist it fast. Then drive it on like a hoop; drive it fast. It will not break, and being galvanized will last indefinitely.

Rev. I. W. Williams testifies. Rev. I. W. Williams, Huntington, W. Va., testifies as follows: "This is to certify that I used Foley's Kidney Remedy for nervous exhaustion and kidney trouble and am free to say that Foley's Kidney Remedy will do all that you claim for it."

Writes of Farm Conditions in Kansas. Thinks It Would Be Good Place for More Eastern People.

Abilene, Kan., June 28, 1908. DEAR EDITOR:— Hoping that you and some of my friends may be glad to hear from me, and to know where I am, I will write a few lines about "Sunny Kansas." I left home June 27, 1907, and arrived in Bloomington, Ill., on the 28th. Visited friends and relatives 25 days. The country there is very nice. They raise nothing there but corn and oats. I left the 23rd of July for Kansas. Landed in Abilene the 24th. Abilene is the county seat of Dickinson county. It has a population of 3,658, 12 churches, 4 schools, and employs 24 school teachers—besides a business college and a Catholic academy. It is a very quiet business town—has 3 railroads, 2 mills, and several elevators.

I am making my home on a farm 8 miles northwest of Abilene. The country here is good for both stock and crop raising. They raise mostly corn, wheat, oats and alfalfa. One man can farm 50 acres of corn here as easily as one man can 10 acres in Fulton county. Where corn was last year, all they need to do is to cut the stalks and then go in with a lister, on which there is attachments by which the corn is planted at the same time. When the corn is about 2 to 3 inches high, they go over it with a 2-rowed weeder. They cultivate from 18 to 20 acres a day. This work is all done by riding. There is no walking machinery here. If a man who was in this country 15 years ago would come here now, he would not know how to farm.

The land is farmed continually here. When they want to give it a rest, they change it from corn to wheat—or wheat to corn. My boss told me that he knows of one field of 35 acres on his father's farm, that has been in corn for the last 15 years, and last year it averaged about 40 bushels (shelled) to the acre. It is in corn now but will be put in wheat this fall. The wheat is put in here the same as back there, only in larger areas. The fields here average all the way from 40 to 100 acres. The wheat and oats here are all in the shock now.

My boss had out 90 acres in wheat and oats, and we cut and shocked it in six days. I shocked more wheat this year than any one year in my life. One man that helped shock was from Pittsburg, Pa. Shocking wheat and corn is the hardest job here, hands are scarce and wages good. They pay all the way from $2.00 to $2.50 a day, and month hauls from $20.00 to $25.00.

My boss and I broke 75 acres of prairie and put 50 acres of it in corn, and have out 110 acres in all—doing all the work ourselves, we run 12 head of work horses, and 20 head with the colts. It was very wet here the latter part of May and first of June. They are having terrible floods along the rivers. 1,000 acres of corn and wheat destroyed. One man who lives south of Abilene went out over his corn field in a boat and the water was ten feet deep.

Many of the small bridges through the country were washed out. There was no freight came into Abilene for over two weeks.

I think that if some of the Fulton county people that are battling the wolf away from the door were out here, they could do better.

The country here is laid out in sections of one mile square and this is mostly divided into four farms, and the buildings are all close to the road. There is mostly four sets of buildings to a section.

We have rural mail service. Consolidated schools and telephones. I have been very busy since I have been here. I have only been without work 3 weeks. One week I spent in Pan Handle, Texas, and two weeks in Oklahoma City, Okla., visiting Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cooper. Climate is very healthy here. I have only been sick once since I left home. Had a light attack of appendicitis.

Enclosed find $1 for which you will renew my subscription for another year. I will close, hoping this will not find the waste basket, I remain your friend, wishing you all a prosperous year.

Weak Hearts. Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased. Mr. D. Kaubler, of Nevada, O., says: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me." Kodol Digests What You Eat and relieves the stomach of all nervous strain and the heart of all pressure. Bottles only $1.00. Size including 24c. Union the bird size, which sells for 20c.
