

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN AND JOHN WORTH KERN

The National Democratic Ticket Is Completed at Denver.

Bryan's Nomination Was Made on the First Ballot, and Was Accompanied By a Wild Demonstration.

Denver (Special).—At 3.40 o'clock Friday morning Col. William Jennings Bryan was for the third time nominated by a Democratic National Convention for president of the United States.

Before the vote was announced Mr. Hammond, of Minnesota, moved to make the vote unanimous, and the motion was carried with a shout.

The Vote.

The vote was:
Bryan, 894 1/2.
Gray, 46.
Kern, 60 1/2.

Denver (Special).—The Democratic National Convention has been all night long at the noisy work of nominating Bryan and making a Bryan platform at the same time.

In the long session of the committee on resolutions former United States Senator Dubois, of Idaho, made an effort to secure the insertion in the platform of an anti-polygamy plank. He read a telegram from Mr. Bryan to the latter's brother in response to a message on the Mormon question, in which Mr. Bryan said:

"I have not taken any part or expressed any opinion on the subject referred to in your telegram. There are several States especially interested in that subject, and I think they should all be permitted to present their views and that the committee on resolutions should then decide the question according to its judgment. It will not be influenced one way or another by me."

The convention was held up all day by the platform committee. The only thing accomplished at the session nominate no candidate and adopt no platform that would not receive the united and enthusiastic support of the New York Democracy, he was given still greater applause and returned to his seat amid cries of "Grady," "Hurray for Grady."

Following Senator Grady's Chairman Clayton introduced Judge N. J. Wade, of Iowa, "a representative of the great corn State."

Mr. Wade is the new national committeeman from Iowa.

It was in these words that Chairman Clayton introduced the next speaker, whose appearance on the platform was a signal for great cheering.

When quiet was restored the Chair recognized Representative Ollie James, of Kentucky, of the committee sent to ascertain the probability of an early report from the committee on resolutions. Mr. James reported that the committee would not be ready to report before midnight. He then made a motion that the rules be suspended and that the nominating speeches for Presidential candidates be made, with the understanding, however, that no ballot flags were tossed aloft and a roar of applause swept through the hall. While the cheering was at its height a white dove was let loose from the gallery, and it flew across the convention hall, while the delegates hailed it with great enthusiasm and cheered as long as it was in sight.

Mr. Dunn brought out the name of "William Jennings Bryan" with intense dramatic force and the response from the great throng was electric. The delegates sprang up, the galleries followed suit, and the demonstration was under way in a manner that for the time being at least promised to rival yesterday's exhibition of enthusiasm.

After 30 minutes of the demonstration the pounding of Chairman Clayton's immense gavel could be heard above the roar of the crowd.

At first, however, it seemed only to serve as an incentive to greater outpouring of what seemed to be an inexhaustible supply of Bryan cheers.

At 10.20 P. M., when the demonstration's last cry had died away, Chairman Clayton directed the secretary to continue calling the roll of States.

Arkansas passed and California yielded to Oregon. Senator Geary, of that State, then was introduced to second the nomination of Mr. Bryan.

Arkansas, which had passed early in the roll, gave way to North Carolina, and Governor Glenn, of that State, took the stand to second the nomination of Mr. Bryan.

The crowd grew very impatient as the speaker continued his address despite his declaration that he did not intend to make a speech. His perspiration and the name of Mr. Bryan was entirely lost in the chorus of cries that was hurled at him.

Fred J. Kern, of Illinois, made a motion after Governor Glenn had concluded that all succeeding speeches be limited to five minutes. The motion was carried with a wild yell of approval.

The next speaker who rose to second the nomination of Mr. Bryan was Governor Swanson, of Virginia.

By the time that Governor Johnson had been placed in nomination the gallery crowds had materially

PLANKS OF THE PLATFORM.

The platform redifiers at the increasing signs of a weakening of conscience throughout the country. "Shall the people rule?" is declared to be the overshadowing issue.

Contains a declaration that experience has proven the necessity of a modification of the present law relating to injunctions, and we reiterate the pledge of our national platforms of 1896 and 1904 in favor of the measure which passed the United States Senate in 1896, but which a Republican Congress has ever since refused to enact—relating to contempt in Federal courts and providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt.

Questions of judicial practice have arisen especially in connection with industrial disputes. We deem that the parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality and that injunctions should not be issued in any case in which injunctions would not issue if an industrial dispute were involved.

Condemns imperialism and declares for freedom of the Philippines as soon as possible.

Improvements of waterways declared for.

Immediate revision of the tariff; articles in competition with trust-made goods to be placed on the free list, and material reduction of the tariff on the necessities of life.

Income tax declared for.

Enlargement of powers of Interstate Commerce Commission over railroads, with physical valuation, and prohibition of them from engaging in business bringing them into competition with their shippers, and providing for rate reduction.

Improvement of waterways.

Publicity of campaign contributions, and law to prohibit them.

Roosevelt's alleged use of high office to secure Taft's nomination condemned.

Increase in number of officeholders condemned.

Arbitrary power of Speaker of the House of Representatives denounced.

Adequate navy favored.

Asiatic immigration opposed.

Popular election of Senators advocated.

National bureau of health favored.

Condemns Republican financial system and provides for guarantee fund to protect depositors of failed banks, with an alternative of postal savings bank, so constituted as to keep the deposits invested in its own community.

Republican extravagance denounced and economy promised under Democratic administration.

State's rights declared for and centralization attacked.

Acting Chairman James directed the call of States to proceed.

Chairman Clayton, who now resumed the chair, recognized L. Irving Handy, of Delaware, who explained that the disqualification of Judge Gray to accept second place did not grow out of any feeling of resentment because another man had been nominated for President. Mr. Handy then read the following telegram:

"Do not under any circumstances allow my name to be presented for Vice Presidential nomination, as I would under no circumstances accept the same if nominated."

When Mr. Handy had concluded, Chairman Clayton created a surprise by announcing the recognition of Mr. Towne.

"It has become abundantly apparent what is the desire of this convention as to its Vice Presidential nominee," said Mr. Towne after a wave of greeting applause had subsided; "and I desire, while earnestly thanking my friends who have complimented me by placing my name before you, to release you from its further consideration and leave you free to vote for that splendid old Democratic war horse from Indiana—John W. Kern."

Mr. Towne concluded by pledging his loyal support to Bryan and Kern.

Nebraska, which had been proposed, had been forgotten by the speaker, and when it was called, and then seconded Kern.

"Gentlemen of the convention," said Mr. Kern, "I am glad to have my name in the chair. You have heard the motion. Are you ready for the question?"

"Question!" "Question!" came from all parts of the hall. Mr. Kern stated it, and at 4.05 P. M. the roll of States was called. Finally, Indiana, the nominee for Vice President of the Democratic party.

Another motion that was adopted with a cheer appointed Mr. Clayton chairman of the committee appointed to notify Mr. Bryan of his nomination, and Mr. Bell chairman of the committee selected to notify Mr. Kern.

Ollie James made the motion to adjourn sine die at 4.23 P. M., and it was adopted.

PERMANENT CHAIRMAN.

Denver (Special).—The permanent organization was effected, Congressman Henry D. Clayton, of Alabama, being elected chairman and delivered his address.

As chairman of the committee on permanent organization, Senator McCree, of Kentucky, presented the report of that body. It recommended Henry D. Clayton, of Alabama, for permanent chairman, Urey Woodson, of Kentucky, for secretary and John I. Martin, of Missouri, sergeant-at-arms. In all other respects the temporary organization was made permanent.

Mr. Clayton's speech in part was as follows:

"This is a Democratic year. Democratic ideas are everywhere. Doctrines always taught by our party and scoffed at by our opponents are now urged as a gospel of their own. Measures and policies of Democratic origin are now pretentively advocated by the leaders of the Republican party. It is no longer anarchistic to declare private monopoly to be indefensible or that the great transportation companies should be governed and controlled by public law. Former questioning of the decision of a bare majority of the Supreme Court in the income tax case cannot now be heard, because of the greater noise of the vehement and embroidered denunciation of judges and judicial acts that have shocked the country. A demand for revision of the tariff is no longer a threat to destroy our industrial system. Trusts are not to be tolerated even by the Republican party. We need not now enlarge on the list of Republican admissions and promises for election purposes only. The Republican party has made marked progress in its appeal to the people and much greater progress in aiding selfish interests and special privileges. This party, guided by expediency and campaign necessity, would camp this year on Democratic ground."

KEYNOTES OF CHAIRMAN BELL'S ADDRESS.

Among the great evils that affect the country is the abuse of corporate power.

Whenever the wrongs of today become the vested right of tomorrow the nation is in deadly peril.

The Democratic party is not an enemy of all corporations. It recognizes their great value in the industrial world.

The most palpable instance of the insincerity of the Chicago platform is found in its declaration respecting the issuance of injunctions.

There is a vast difference between the protection of American industries and the protection of criminal lionelopes.

The corrupt use of money in political campaigns is largely responsible for the subversion of the people's will at the polls.

The Democratic party believes that the first thing to do is to secure a physical valuation of the railroads.

Secretary Loeb says he never heard President Roosevelt say he thought war with Japan was imminent, as Richmond Hobson is reported to have said.

Richmond, Va. (Special).—Frank Perry, a seven-year man at the state penitentiary, committed suicide by leaping to his death from a 40-foot wall. Perry had engaged in a fight with another prisoner in the cell occupied by the latter, one of the guards being called in to quell the disturbance. Perry was ordered out of the cell. He complied readily enough, but instead of joining the other prisoners in the ground floor, he walked out upon the wall and deliberately leaped off.

Mexican Rebels Attack. Durango, Mexico (Special).—A band of 50 revolutionists made an attack upon Piedras Blancas, a small town near Velasco, according to advices received here. A force of Federal troops, who were in the neighborhood, arrived on the scene in time to drive off the raiders, and succeeded in capturing several of them.

FOUR PEOPLE KILLED AND TWO RESCUED

Wealthy Bostonians in Accident on Buzzards Bay.

EXPLOSION ON 45-FOOT LAUNCH

Roland Worthington, Joseph S. Deal, John T. Trull and George Savory are the Victims, While A. P. Tarbell and Edward E. Pecker Were Saved After Being in Water Twelve Hours.

Marion, Mass. (Special).—Four prominent summer residents of this town and Falmouth met death through an explosion on board a 45-foot launch off here. Two survivors were picked up after having been in the water for 12 hours.

The dead:
ROLAND WORTHINGTON, Boston.
JOHN T. TRULL, Woburn.
JOSEPH S. DEAL, Milton.
GEORGE SAVORY, Marblehead, captain of the launch.

The saved:
A. P. TARBELL, Marblehead.
EDWARD E. PECKER, Boston.

Pecker, who was clinging to an oar, and Tarbell, who was supported by a life preserver, were able to swim, and they remained together until picked up by a lobster fisherman out in the early morning to haul his pots. His boat was seen by the two struggling men in the water long before the fisherman himself could make them out. Finally he applied the nearly exhausted swimmers and rescued them.

Neither of the survivors was able to give the cause of the explosion. Mr. Tarbell, who owned the Dolphin, as the launch was called, said that the boat started out from Marion on a short pleasure cruise, and was well out in the middle of Buzzards Bay when the explosion occurred. Savory, the engineer, was suddenly blown into the air and was probably dead when he struck the water.

The boat caught fire immediately, and Tarbell called to his comrades to leap overboard. He stripped a life preserver about himself before he leaped, and Mr. Pecker, who is connected with the Boston banking firm of Rollins & Son, seized an oar and followed. So far as they knew, none of the others in the party jumped.

Either they could not swim and preferred to cling to the disabled launch until help came, or else they were stunned by the explosion.

Both Tarbell and Pecker remained near the launch for several moments, urging their comrades to jump into the water with a cushion, oar, life preserver or something, for the launch was burning rapidly. One man, believed to be Roland Worthington, was seen clinging to the side of the boat, but he could not swim, apparently, and the men in the water could not reach him. Gradually the launch drifted further out to sea, and Mr. Pecker and Mr. Tarbell were forced to give up hope of aiding their comrades.

They turned landward and swam slowly so as to husband their strength as much as possible. It was 12 hours before their rescue came.

As soon as news of the disaster reached here nearly every summer resident and fisherman who owned a yacht or launch at once went out to the bay to search for some trace of the boat or its occupants, but the search proved fruitless. The launch undoubtedly sank with all on board.

BURGLARS GET $25,000 LOOT.

They Drill Through Wall Into Pen Company's Office.

New York (Special).—Loot valued at $25,000 was secured by safe-blowers, who drilled through a twenty-inch brick wall into the offices of the Diamond Point Pen Company, in Beekman Street, and then shattered two safes with dynamite.

After the burglars had gotten into the place from an adjoining building, the workroom was torn down and the two safes were struck for some time, where they were blown open, probably while the sound was deafened by the passing of an elevated train.

The stolen property consisted of manufactured goods, safe with most of the company's cash was kept in another building, because the Diamond Point Pen Company already had been robbed five times in the last three years.

WANTS TO SELL BODY.

John Barrett Offers to Sell Himself For Fifty Dollars.

Washington (Special).—John Barrett, aged 70 years, who originally lived at Middletown, Ct., but who has been in Washington for sometime past, has made an offer to the officials of the Walter Reed Hospital to sell his body when life shall have passed out of it to the hospital, naming the sum of $50 as the price to be paid at once.

Barrett, despite his age, is apparently hale and hearty, but he fears that his days are numbered, and rather than live in want he is willing to sell his body, so that he may have a small fund to live on during the rest of his life. For the last three months he has lived in a third-story room on D Street. The offer was refused.

Shot Man And Fired Bed. Charlotte, N. C. (Special).—Lying on his bed with a gunshot wound in his side and the bedclothes in flames, John Morris, a wealthy farmer of Union County, was found by his wife, at their home near Woodlawn. Two white men escaped from the house just as Mrs. Morris was awakened by the report of the gun. The wife snatched up the burning bedding and extinguished the flames reaching her husband just as he expired. The fatal shot was fired with Morris' own gun, and $10 was missing from his bedroom.

AUDITORIUM AT DENVER WHERE THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION MET.

At midnight the platform had been made and Bryan had been placed in nomination, and, in fact, had been twice nominated in the two sessions of the convention, with the exception of the formality of recording the vote.

There has been a red-hot fight in the committee on resolutions against the Bryan plank providing for the creation of a Government fund to guarantee deposits in solvent national banks, with a rider providing that depositors in State banks may participate.

While the committee was wrestling with the platform the convention, which held one joyously riotous session during the day, met again at night and filled in the time while waiting for the committee by placing the candidates for nomination.

In almost every way Bryan has been supreme and he has consented to a statement in the platform that the Democratic party never did attack the courts, thus adopting the Republican subterfuge at Chicago to junction plank to the conservatives.

Without objection the selection of Mr. Kern will be considered as ratified," said the Chairman and a moment later added:

"The Chair hears none, and the selection of Mr. Kern is ratified."

Cheering and a few hisses greeted the announcement.

Ollie James, of Kentucky, moved that a committee of three be appointed again to wait on the platform committee and ascertain when it would be ready. The motion prevailed and Mr. James, J. Thomas Hedlin, of Alabama, and F. P. Lynch, of Minnesota, were named. Mr. Lynch's appointment was the first recognition the adherents of Governor Johnson had received in the choice of convention committees.

Pending the report of the committee of inquiry, Thomas P. Hall, of Texas, was invited to address the convention.

"In November next," said Chairman Clayton, "we will witness in New York the Tammany Tiger drowning the Republican elephant. Therefore, I invite to the stand for a speech from a Democrat to a Democratic convention, Senator Thomas F. Grady, of New York."

Senator Grady was given a most enthusiastic welcome as he appeared on the rostrum. When he declared that the convention could tion was to perfect the permanent organization and listen to the speech of the permanent chairman. It is understood that the anti-Mormon resolution was what caused the greatest delay, Mr. Bryan having to be consulted on the plank proposed from Idaho, about which he was in doubt.

It was just 7.50 o'clock when Chairman Clayton began to rap for order, which he secured within the minute. Mr. Clayton recognized Mr. McQuilton, of Pennsylvania, who announced the selection of James Kerr as member of the national committee from that State in place of James M. Guffey, who was selected before the Pennsylvania contests were settled.

"Without objection the selection of Mr. Kerr will be considered as ratified," said the Chairman and a moment later added:

Nominating Speeches Begin.

"The Secretary will now proceed to call the roll of States for nominations for the office of President of the United States," shouted Chairman Clayton.

"Alabama," called the clerk.

The chairman of that delegation arose and was recognized.

"Knowing that Nebraska will make no mistake in nominating the right man," he said, "Alabama yields to Nebraska."

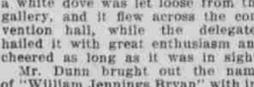

"I, J. Dunn, of Omaha, will speak for the Nebraska delegation," announced the chairman of that State, while the cheering which followed the first statement from Alabama continued unabated.

JOHN WORTH KERN, Indiana Man Named For Second Place on Ticket.

Convention Hall, Denver (Special).—At 1 o'clock, the hour for reassembling, Friday not one-fourth of the delegates were in their seats and they were coming slowly into the convention hall.

The long, hard session of the night, before, conducted as it was in great heat, and the fatigue caused by the physical work of the great demonstrations in honor of Mr. Bryan, combined to make ample excuse for late arrivals.

It was 1.40 P. M. before Chairman Clayton rapped for order. Vice-Presidential conferences were in progress over in West Wall, N. Y., who delivered the invocation. The minister's mention of the name of "that God-fearing man, W. J. Bryan," called out a ripple of applause, which was renewed when he had concluded.

Ollie James, of Kentucky, took the gavel and Governor Farquhar, of Mississippi, was recognized to move that the convention proceed to the nomination of a Vice Presidential candidate.

Chairman Clayton, putting the motion did not state that part of it limiting the succeeding speeches to two and the motion as adopted was in accordance with his statement and
