A Friend Indeed.

A party of Scotsmen had been having a little celebration in a Canadian township, and unsteady were the steps on the homegoing in the morning. One fell by the wayside, and called for help from another wayfarer. The would-be good Samaritan tried to steady himself as he looked down upon the fallen one, and then settled matters by saying: "I canna help ye up, but I'll lie doon aside ye."

Lighting and Thunder.

By counting the number of seconds in the interval between lightning and thunder it is possible to figure approximately how far from the observer is the scene of the storm. Sound travels 1,100 feet a second, so multiply the number of seconds by 1,100, which will give the distance in feet from the point where the lightning flashed. For example, if ten seconds have elapsed the distance away will be 11,000 feet, or a little over two miles. It might be added that, as lightning travel so much faster than sound, if one survives after hearing the crashing peal he can be sure he is safe. Remembrance of this will dissipate terror.

VALUED SAME AS GOLD.

B. G. Stewart, a merchant of Cedar View, Miss., says: "I tell my customers when they buy a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills they get the worth of that much gold in weight, if afflicted with constipation, malaria, or biliousness." Sold under guarantee at Trout's drug store. 25c.

The ills of children in summer are mostly those of the digestive tract. It is natural that this should be so, since the organs of digestion in a child are those which are foremost in development. Indeed at the time of birth they are the only ones prepared for work. Since the child must be nourished and grow, it is necessary that the part of its economy devoted to nourishment should take the lead of all others; and if anything occurs to upset the system it is quickly shown by the disturbances of nutrition. By far the greatest number of children lose their lives from the diarrhoeas and cholera infantum, which are more rife in summer than at any other time of the year. The first thing to impress upon those who have care of children in summer is that all disturbances of their stomach and bowels in hot weather, even if slight, need immediate attention and are threatening. I hesitate to advance any home medication for the summer diarrhoeas of children, lest the advice, which must be general at best, be depended upon and valuable time be lost before the doctor is summoned. Since most of the sickness of the nature which we are considering is brought about by improper diet, it will be seen that its regulation is of the utmost importance. The younger the baby the more liable he is to suffer from these attacks. With a child, every month since its birth successfully passed increases its chances of life. The baby, therefore, must be fed with the greatest care. Regularity of times of feeding is exceedingly important, but most essential of all is the cleanliness that should be pure, and all the utensils employed should be kept perfectly clean. Breast-fed infants should not be weaned in hot weather. Mother's milk will often mean the saving of the life of the child.—"The Care of Children," in "The Ladies' World" for July.

Pro Bono Publico.

For the benefit of my readers, especially such of them as have the misfortune to suffer from indigestion, the scourge of the indolent working man or woman, I gladly give a paragraph to the following, which is, at all events, considered of scientific value: "Meats are more easily digestible the less strong their cohesion and the less their hardness. We might thus establish between them the following order, beginning with the lightest: Sea and river fish, fowl, game, crustaceans, lamb, veal, beef, mutton, wild boar, and pork. In these categories are generally considered heavy and hard to digest salmon, eels, geese, ducks, and some other water birds, as well as strongly-smoked and salted meat."

TO DIGEST.

	takes	Hours
Roasted pork	...	5:15
Salt beef boiled	...	4:15
Veal (boiled)	...	4:00
Boiled fowls	...	4:00
Roasted mutton	...	3:15
Boiled beef	...	3:30
Roasted beef	...	3:00
Raw oysters	...	2:45
Roasted turkey	...	2:30
Boiled milk	...	2:00
Boiled codfish	...	2:00
Vealison steak	...	1:35
Trout (baked)	...	1:30
Tripes	...	1:00
Pig's feet	...	1:00
Eggs (hard boiled)	3:30 to	5:30
Eggs (soft boiled)	...	3:00

The above is taken from Beaumont's "Experiments on Digestion." Commenting on this, Dalton remarks: "these results would not always be precisely the same for different persons, since there are variations in this respect according to age and temperament. Thus, in most instances, mutton would probably be equally digestible with beef, or perhaps more so; and milk, which in some persons is easily digested, in others is disposed of with considerable difficulty. But, as a general rule, the comparative digestibility of different substances is no doubt correctly expressed in the above list."

Rev. I. W. Williams Testifies.

Rev. I. W. Williams, Huntington, W. Va., testifies as follows: "This is to certify that I used Foley's Kidney Remedy for nervous exhaustion and kidney trouble, and am free to say that Foley's Kidney Remedy will do all that you claim for it." Trout's drug store.

When Bathing is Dangerous.

Swimming is a good sport. It makes the blood tingle in the veins and the man or boy is benefited by a dip. But there are times and conditions when it is dangerous to take to the water. No tired, exhausted or overheated person should take to the river, for it is then that the muscles will demand. Cramp will develop, and a drowning is the result. One cannot be too careful when in the water.

A person should feel well and strong if he intends to swim. A man should under no conditions take to the water if he is exhausted from other exercises. Swimming makes a strong demand on the body and the power must be there. It is hoped that in the future people will think before they rush into the water. It is to their interest to know when it is safe to swim.

Weak Hearts
 Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart, and in the course of time that the heart, and in the course of time that the delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.
