

AN HONEST DOCTOR ADVISED PE-RU-NA.

M. SYLVESTER E. SMITH, Room 218, Granite Block, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "Peruna is the best friend a sick man can have."

"A few months ago I came here in a wretched condition. Exposure and dampness had ruined my once robust health. I had catarrhal affections of the bronchial tubes, and for a time there was a doubt as to my recovery."

"My good honest old doctor advised me to take Peruna, which I did and in a short time my health began to improve very rapidly. The bronchial trouble gradually disappeared, and in three months my health was fully restored."

"Accept a grateful man's thanks for his restoration to perfect health."

Pe-ru-na for His Patients. A. W. Perrin, M. D. S., 980 Halsey St., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I am using your Peruna myself, and am recommending it to my patients in all cases of catarrh, and find it to be more than you represent. Peruna can be had now of all druggists in this section. At the time I began using it, it was unknown."

Consumptive Snakes. Three of the more beautiful rattlesnakes in Turner County are dying of consumption. They nursed a tuberculous cow and got the disease. The milk had no chance to go to the pump, was never canned, and had not seen the inside of a bottle. I wonder what would have happened to the snakes had they fed out of a bottle, such as we receive in the morning, with 5,000,000 microbes to the cubic inch?—N. Y. Press.

Combs Made of Old Shoes. A mountain of old boots and shoes, indescribably ugly, indescribably filthy, lay in the factory yard.

"We'll make combs out of them," said the chemist, "combs that will pass through the perfumed and lustrous locks of the most beautiful girls. Seems strange, doesn't it?"

"Very."

"Yet it's a fact. That is what becomes of the world's old shoes; they are turned into combs. The leather is first cut into small pieces and immersed two days in a chloride of sulphur bath; then it is washed, dried and ground to powder; then it is mixed with glue or gum and pressed into comb molds."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

NEWS OF PENNSYLVANIA

ACCUSES HIS FELLOW PRISONER OF MURDER.

Franklin (Special).—If what James Frank Barnes, a prisoner in the Venango County jail, says is true, that institution shelters one of the murderers of City Treasurer John Jlevins, of New Castle, slain about one year ago.

Barnes and a man named Daniel Wilder, alias Forester, of Bradford, are being held for robbery. Barnes says Wilder planned the robbery of Jlevins's office, and he and the two others killed the old man. One of the others is in the penitentiary, and he does not know where the third party is.

Barnes asserts Wilder is guilty of three other murders. He helped kill Mrs. Eberhart and Mrs. Gillilan in Marion County in 1886, and was one of a gang who slew a hermit named Keiser in Clarion County about eight years ago. Barnes admits that he is a long criminal career himself and "squandling" on Wilder because Wilder has been responsible for sending him to the penitentiary. He says he can furnish the authorities with data that will result in fastening these crimes on Wilder.

Barnes's right name is said to be Addison Ruth, and he is a well-known thief and burglar. Shortly after the time of Jlevins's murder he was arrested and sentenced to the penitentiary for eight years on a charge of robbery. He was convicted of robbing the home of Rev. J. A. Thayer, pastor of the Christian Church at New Castle.

When the new confession was told to the New Castle authorities they at first refused to believe it, but finally decided that Barnes might have been telling the truth on the former occasion. They take this view of the matter because of his further confession, claiming that it would do him no good now to tell lies.

KILLS FELLOW PATIENT.

Pittsburg (Special).—Suddenly seized with a mania to kill, George Tusel, an inmate of the Insane Department of the Allegheny City Home, at Claremont, near here, killed Harry Speller, also an inmate, and injured two guards who fought a desperate battle with the lunatic before overpowering him.

Tusel was committed to the institution about eight months ago and was one of the most peaceful of the charges. He was given light tasks to perform about the department, and Thursday with a brush, weighing about 16 pounds, was put to work polishing a corridor.

Shortly after beginning the work Tusel encountered Speller, and without warning, he brought the brush down on the head of Speller, breaking the jaw bone and fracturing the skull.

Two guards immediately ran toward the crazed man and met with vicious violence. Before being overpowered Tusel inflicted painful injuries on both attendants.

KNIFE SWALLOWER DEAD.

Hazleton (Special).—Charles Henry, the young Polish miner of West Hazleton, who swallowed a large knife while giving an exhibition before a crowd of friends, and who had the article removed from his stomach at the State Hospital, died very suddenly at that institution.

The lining of his stomach had been cut by the knife, which was very sharp, and this caused his death.

Candidate Denies Treating Voters.

Stroudsburg (Special).—Eugene Kinney, Democratic candidate for the Legislature, took the stand and testified that his account filed in accordance with the election law was true; that he had given no money for campaign purposes and had authorized no one to spend money for him. He emphatically denied that he had spent money for treating voters.

Chester Man Missing.

Chester (Special).—David Wilson, owner of extensive lot houses in this city, is strangely missing from his home since Saturday. He is president of the Second Ward Republican Club, and has resided in Chester for many years. As far as can be ascertained his business affairs are in good shape.

Would-Be Boy Train Wrecker Caught.

Pottsville, Pa. (Special).—Another boy train wrecker was arrested. Joseph Sommers, of Port Carbon, was discovered in the act of piling stones on the tracks of the Eastern Railway Company. The boy is only 9 years old.

Boy Killed Hunting Woodchucks.

Oil City (Special).—Glenn Egbert, aged 15 years, was accidentally shot and killed while hunting woodchucks near his home at Sandy Lake.

Caught With Stolen Team.

West Chester (Special).—Robert Smith, a young Canadian, was caught trying to sell a stolen team here. He stole the team, composed of a horse and milk wagon, from Charles Kurtz, of Kimberton, and brought it here to sell, when he was caught by Chief of Police R. S. Jeffries. He was given a hearing and sent to jail.

MURDER MYSTERY STIRS RURAL BERKS.

Reading, (Special).—The mystery in the burning of the large fine Swiss barn of Henry Gaul, in Lower Heidelberg Township, between Sinking Spring and Wernersville, and the death, by shooting, of Mr. Gaul's hired man, Adam Faust, has not yet been cleared up, though the authorities are using every effort to apprehend the guilty parties.

To make matters worse Mr. Gaul found his wife dead in bed. Death was due to heart trouble brought on by the excitement of the night before.

The residents of the neighborhood are much wrought up over the tragedy, which was enacted with such spectacular setting. Shortly after 1 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Gaul were awakened by revolver shots, which came from the direction of the barn. Upon going to the window they saw a light, such as a lantern would make, moving around the barn yard. The couple hastily dressed and upon reaching the barn found it enveloped in flames. The live stock could not be saved and three horses, five cows, seventy-five tons of hay and a lot of farm implements and wagons were consumed.

Later the body of a man, almost burned to a crisp, was found in the smoking ruins, and some distance away a revolver was picked up. When Adam Faust, the hired man, could not be found, it was at once conjectured that it was his body in the ruins.

Coroner Strasser held an inquest. Mr. Gaul testified that Faust had been in his employ for 25 years. He lived in a tenant house a short distance from the barn. Mr. Gaul told how himself and wife were awakened by revolver shots about 1 o'clock in the morning and how, when they arrived at the barn found it in flames.

He also told of seeing some one walking about the premises with a light. He never knew Faust to carry or ever own a revolver.

In the revolver found on the premises there were five empty shells in the chambers, but only four of them had been fired, as the indentation on the caps in the shell revealed, while the other shell had been discharged by the heat of the fire.

Coroner Strasser and others are of the theory that Faust after returning from a visit to Sinking Spring, went to the barn to look at a sick horse, which he had been attending to nightly before going to bed. When he reached the barn he found the door open. Going inside he found the building aflame. The person who fired it was about to make his escape when confronted by Faust. Realizing that he was caught in the act, and hearing Faust's testimony would convict him, he drew a revolver and shot the hired man to death and then made his escape.

Mrs. Gaul was greatly excited at the coroner's inquest and retired immediately afterward. When her husband went to her room to call her in the morning he found her cold in bed.

The State Constabulary has taken up the case of the burning of the barn and the shooting of Faust. Gaul's loss by fire was $7,500.

STATE ITEMS.

At the meeting of the trustees of the new maternity ward to the Chester County Hospital, it was announced that Louise White Cox, of Malvern, had given $6,000 to endow a room in the new ward which was completed a few days ago.

The potato crop throughout Chester County is going to be very small owing to lack of rain. In many sections the vines are dying, and the farmers are digging their potatoes for fear they will rot.

Barricaded himself in a shanty, Louis Hager, wanted for robbing John M. Houck's store at Lyswen, Blair County, kept off the streets at bay for five hours by brandishing a revolver. His companion, Thomas Winslow, had been previously arrested. All the stolen goods were found on the men.

Albert Muterspaugh, aged 1 1/2 years, of York, ate nineteen atropine pills he thought were candy. The boy is in a critical condition.

Earl Spangler, Harry Nichols and Harry Swartz, three York boys, were dangerously hurt while playing with a signal cap. The boys exploded the cap with a brick.

Judge McClure, of Snyder County, refused the Pennsylvania Railroad Company a permanent injunction restraining the Sunbury and Selinsgrove Trolley Company from trespassing upon three miles of the former's land in Snyder County.

John Shurep, of Conditale, was so badly injured that he died shortly after being kicked in the temple by a mule at the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company's No. 8 Colliery.

Francis Swayer, of Towanda, former president of the Pittsburgh, Blighton & Eastern Railroad Company, was awarded $181,945 in a suit for breach of contract against E. H. Gay & Co., Boston bankers.

COMMERCIAL COLUMN.

Weekly Review of Trade and Latest Market Reports.

Bradstreet's says: Midsummer quiet still reigns in general trade and industry, but the advance of the season and the promise of good average crops have accentuated the feeling of confidence as to the ultimate outcome of future fall business. Filling in orders from jobbers are numerous, but small, probably indicating widely broken retail stocks, and retailers have rather earlier than usual put in force reductions as a means of stimulating consumption. At the West preparations are making for buyers' excursions, and a more thoroughly organized effort to stimulate buying is looked for this fall than ever before.

The industry is possibly a trifle more active following last week's holidays, but shut down for inventory, repairs or to limit production have apparently more than counterbalanced resumption that have taken place. The iron and steel industries still report quietness, and capacity operation in both furnaces and finishing mills, shows only a trifling enlargement, as compared with a month ago. Pig iron production in June was the smallest since February and the output for six months was 62 per cent. below 1907.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending July number 246, which compares with 236 last week, 185 in the like week of 1907, 143 in 1906, 166 in 1905 and 203 in 1904.

RED-BOUND FOR MONTHS.

Hope Abandoned After Physicians' Consultation.

Mrs. Enos Shearer, Yew and Washington Sts., Centralia, Wash., says: "For years I was weak and run down, could not sleep, my limbs swelled and the secretions were troublesome; pains were intense. I was laid in bed for four months. Three doctors said there was no cure for me and I was given up to die. Being urged, I used Donnan's Kidney Pills. Soon I was better and in a few weeks was about the house, well and strong again."

Scents Used By Royalty. Apropos of recent unfavorable comments by a London magistrate on the use of perfumes, it may be pointed out that very exalted personages are habitual users of scents. Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has daily a pint of eau de cologne in her morning bath; Queen Victoria of Spain affects a mixture of iris and lavender on her handkerchiefs; Queen Helena of Italy prefers iris and heliotrope; the Dowager Queen of Italy and Queen Amelia of Portugal are devotees of sweet violets; but the Empress of Russia leads the way, as she spends no less than 45,000 a year on perfumery in Paris alone. In respect of violets, she requires that they shall be plucked just as sunset. And when the boxes of violets reach St. Petersburg they are first sent to be examined lest they might conceal a bomb or some deadly poison.—Tit-Bits.

Noiseless Room. For many physical researchers a perfectly noiseless room is a desideratum. If such could be devised it would open up new possibilities of research. At the University of Utrecht the problem has been apparently successfully solved by the room designed by Zwaardemaker. The walls and ceiling of the room are eleven inches thick, and are formed of six separate layers. The first consists of a felt-like material of horse-hair, known as triebenteuse, this is followed by a layer of porous stone isolated from the floor by sheet lead. An air space of about an inch is followed by wood, and then a course of ground cork and sand. The final layer is of specially prepared ground cork, known as korkstein.

For The Fat. Fat hens, being wretched layers, are always sold off by farmers. The curly Romans banished all useless persons, including the fat in this category.

Ovid, in his "Art of Love," says, "Keep ever slender and supple, for the fat have no success with women." The Gentoos tribe enter their houses by a hole in the roof of a certain prescribed size, and they who grow too bulky to enter by this hole are slain as useless and lazy.

In England it was once the law to put the fat to death. "All drunkards, fat gluttons, and consumers of vitals more nor was necessary to the sustentation of men, were tane, and first commandid to swellly their fouth of gubal drink they pleast, and incontinent thair after was drounit in ane froache river."—Minneapolis Journal.

DROPPED COFFEE.

Doctor Gains 20 Pounds on Postum. A physician of Wash., D. C., says of his coffee experiences: "For years I suffered with periodic headaches which grew more frequent until they became almost constant. So severe were they that sometimes I was almost frantic. I was salivary, constipated, irritable, sleepless; my memory was poor, I trembled and my thoughts were often confused."

"My wife, in her wisdom, believed coffee was responsible for these ills and urged me to drop it. I tried many times to do so, but was its slave."

"Finally wife bought a package of Postum and persuaded me to try it, but she made it same as ordinary coffee and I was disgusted with the taste. (I made this emphatic because I fear many others have had the same experience.) She was distressed at her failure and we carefully read the directions, made it right, boiled it full 15 minutes after boiling commenced, and with good cream and sugar, I liked it—it invigorated and seemed to nourish me."

"That was about a year ago. Now I have no headaches, am not salivary, sleeplessness and irritability are gone, my brain clear and my hand steady. I have gained 20 lbs. and feel I am a new man."

"I do not hesitate to give Postum due credit. Of course dropping coffee was the main thing, but I had dropped it before, using chocolate, cocoa and other things to no purpose."

"Postum not only seemed to act as an invigorant, but as an article of nourishment, giving me the needed phosphates and albumens. This is no imaginary tale. It can be substantiated by my wife and her sister, who both changed to Postum and are hearty women of about 70."

"I write this for the information and encouragement of others, and with a feeling of gratitude to the inventor of Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkg. "There's a Reason."

It Reads Like a Fairy Tale.

An Atchison girl had always heard of the impoliteness of women in failing to thank men for giving up a seat in the street car, and decided that she would be an exception. A man gave her a seat Saturday night in a crowded car, affording her the opportunity for which she had been looking. "Oh, thank you a thousand times," she said. "It is just what I wanted, and how did you ever guess it?" It is so thoughtful of you, and I do appreciate it so much." Then, as she sank into the seat: "And such a comfortable seat. It is the most comfortable seat I ever sat in. Oh, thank you again so much!"—Atchison Globe.

A Death Record.

In "La Dame aux Camellias" the other day at the Kennington Theatre, London, the divine Sarah "died" for the fifteen thousandth time. Her stage suicides by poison total up, roughly, to 10,000. She has jumped into the scenic artist's Seine over 5,000 bullets into her head from a revolver, and plunged the same number of daggers into her bodice. At the reception a lady asked her if she really kept a coffin at her house in Paris. "Certainly," said Sarah, with a smile; "and so would you, if you were the morgue's most constant customer."

ITCHING HUMOR ON ROY.

His Hands were a Solid Mass, and Disease Spread All Over Body—Cured in 4 Days by Cuticura.

"One day we noticed that our little boy was all broken out with itching sores. We first noticed it on his little hands. His hands were not as had then, and we didn't think anything serious would result. But the next day we heard of the Cuticura Remedies being so good for itching sores. By this time the disease had spread all over his body, and his hands were nothing but a solid mass of itching disease. I purchased a box of Cuticura Soap and one tin of Cuticura Ointment, and that night I took the Cuticura Soap and lukewarm water and washed him well. Then I dried him and took the Cuticura Ointment and anointed him with it. I did this every evening and in four nights he was entirely cured. Mrs. F. J. Danaher, 108 Vermont St., Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 10, 1907."

Fasted Seventy-five Days.

Mrs. J. F. Manning, of Mecca, a small town on the desert, has just broken the world's record for fasting. Mrs. Manning, who weighed 300 pounds, undertook the task for the reduction of her weight. Today she took a handful of strawberries, the first food she has taken, aside from a sip now and then of tea or coffee, for 75 days.

She reduced her weight 55 pounds and intends to keep on a light fresh fruit diet until she has reduced her weight to 100 pounds. This is very desirable, for the thermometer at this season of the year at Mecca hovers around the 120-degree mark. This record is second to Dr. Tanner's. The doctor fasted for 40 days and nights with no stimulant except water, but Mrs. Manning's record is twice the length of time with but little tea and coffee.—San Francisco Call.

Recruiting Italian Army in America.

I was surprised the other day when I dropped into the office of G. P. Baccelli, the Italian consul, to learn that he was receiving applications from young Italians who desire to join the army of their native land. When I spoke of it he laughed and said that was nothing new with him, as he had been doing it for years, often visiting Syracuse and other near-by cities to secure recruits. In Italy, as in other European countries, all young men must serve in the army a certain length of time, and although Italians living in this country cannot be compelled to do military service, many of them do enlist. Consul Baccelli tells me that he received about 50 applications at Syracuse this week, and also a few in this city. These young men will be sent to Italy, where they will remain in the army for three years.—Albany Journal.
