Unfalling Indications of What Can Be Found on the Inside of the Individual.

"Making Faces" was the subject of sermon delivered at the First Methodist Church, Cleveland, Ohio, by Rev. Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell; who took his text from Ecclesiastes "A man's wisdom maketh his face to shine, and the boldness of his face shall be changed," and from Jeremiah v. 3, "They have made their faces harder than a rock."

"These statements plainly teach that the human face is the bandlwork of the soul," said Dr. Mitchell. "There are two widely recognized facts-first, the soul is the temporary tenant of the body, and second, the soul and body react powerfully or

The first fact is, the teaching of Scripture is taught by the new psychology and is recognized in all modern philosophy.,

As to the second fact, it is universally known that the body is powerfully affected by the mind. Fear, anger, shame, hope, love, all mightily affect the human body. The face is that part of the body where the fleshy covering is the thinnest. There the vell is almost transparent.

You can study the soul by looking at the face. Physiognomy is more character reading than phrenology The face is the most interesting part of the body. The greatest paintings, Ruskin insists, are those of the human face. The human face is the most beautiful thing God has made, and this is because man co-operates with God in its making.

There is a universal longing to have a pleasing and beautiful coun-Hence, men and women grow rich selling paints, powders, washes and such like, to the multitudes who want to improve the looks of their faces. This is nothing new, Writers tell us that from the days of ancient Egypt down to the modern face artist, women and some men will go to any length to be pretty.

"Another interesting fact connected with the making of the face is the way in which the ancient gladiator, or modern soldier, will dull his face by stoic methods to give no sign of pain when enduring flercest agonles. All these things are but surface views of this subject. It is strange that the many who are so much interested in the subject do not go deeper. A closer study will show that the true artists at work on the face are not working from without, but from within. Charles Kingsley said, "The soul secretes the body like the oyster its shell." This is not true, of course, but the truth lies in that direction.

The face of Stephen, of Moses, and of the transfigured Christ tells how the inner light breaks through the face and makes it shine. The inner -life is the true master-architect of the face. Solomon says, 'A wicked man hardeneth his face;' and Jeremiah says, 'They have their faces harder than a rock.

"Nearly every virtue and every vice is pictured in the face.
"The face of the old is a better index of character than that of the young. Hence a saintly old woman is more beautiful than youthful beauty. Youth may have the advantage in form and color, but age in the beauty of character. The face registers the kind of life we are living. A hundred inner artists are at work on the face, taking their orders from us.

"All of this would be of mere relative value if only the face of flesh was involved. But if the face reflects then now important that the soul shall be pure and holy! The end of holiness is not a holy face, but a holy life. It is the soul which outlasts the face. The artist lives when the statue is forgotten.

- "The highest ambition of the true Christian is attained when he shall awake in Christ's likeness. We are glad to say, 'We know that when He shall appear we shall be like Him."

Uses of Paraffine.

Paraffine was at first a valueless by-product of the oil refineries, but has now a thousand uses. Besides the use of paraffine for candles 2,000,-000 blocks of paraffine are sold every year for a great variety of purposes. Paper made watertight by paraffine has been utilized to protect crackers from the effect of damp weather and moist climates. It is even said that a cargo of biscuit so preserved has been taken unharmed from a sunken vessel. Paraffine was applied to Cleopatra's needle in Central Park, and stopped the scaling off

Stone fronts of houses are protected in the same way. Paraffine is made into colored crayons, which will stick on glass as well as on paper. It is employed in laundries to whiten the clothes and in polishing the surtace of starched pieces. It is turned to account in the scaling of canned fruits, or anything put up in bottles by manufacturers, druggists or chemists, and is used generally as a substitute for beeswax, tallow and sealing wax, and for insulating wires .-Zion's Herald.

The Pittsburg blue book was the The Pittsburg blue book was the medium through which the assessors of Pittsburg hung one of the most monumental bluffs ever worked off on unsuspecting women. The crying need of more taxable property appealed to the assessors, and they decided to call on the rich women of Pittsburg, who have long been suspected of having much taxable paper which has never been turned in.

Thousands of letters were sent out to Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. William to get their long held stock placed on the books and pay their taxes. Some of the women almost fainted when told that their maiden names came from the blue book. The assessors sent out 4000 of these letters and have been forced to put on extra clerks to handle the business that is coming in.
