What the country needs the most just now is rain, and plenty of it. The streams and wells are extremely low and unless there is a good settled ram very short ly many hardships will be suffered from drought. While we have had but very little rain in this re gion for quite a while, yet conditions elsewhere are much worse. In some sections mines and in dustries have been compelled to shut down on account of not having enough water for their boilers, while farmers are experiencing much inconvenience in watering their stock.
