Shoes to Last a Lifetime.

Say, Mr. Shoemaker, would you rather have your customers speak of your shoes as wearing well, as not running down at the heel, as turning water, and taking a shine; or wag their heads and say nothing?

We'd rather have ours, at long intervals, say: "We want some more paint, and we want Devoc." We know it isn't in human nature to paint very often: we don't expect them to come very often; don't want 'em to. All we want is to paint what they have to paint, whenever they paint it; the longer the time, the surer they are to come back.

If we were a shoemaker, we'd make shoes to last half a lifetime, and shoe the whole town.

PLUM RUN.

The Sunday school held in William Stone's grove under the supervision of Captain Dotterman of the Salvation Army, observed their Rally Day on Sunday evening the 13th inst.; and, although it threatened rain, the grove was crowded with people.

The tent and grove were well lighted and beautifully trimmed with American and Sunday school flags and with flowers.

The crowd, in general, gave good attention and the program was well rendered. It consisted in part of vocal and instrumental music interspersed with some really fine recitations, among which was one given by Mrs. William Stone, entitled "The Stylish Church."

There was also addresses by the "Captain," M. L. Truax, and Blair Truax on the object, work, and worth of Sunday schools.

Also, an address by Mrs. John H. Gordon, who is teacher of the Bible class, and who gave the history of the organization and work of the Sunday school.

All the addresses were good, full of vim, to the point, and held the attention of a large crowd.

The flag drills and enthusiastic recitations by the small children were much enjoyed.

Captain Dotterman has proven himself to be a very proficient and resourceful Sunday school leader—he having recently conducted a very successful Children's Day service in the same grove.

Although the field from which this Sunday school is gathered is small—lying between the churches of Zion and Damascus—its work has been quite a success.

Destroy Them.

Often old letters containing family secrets are kept, and fall into hands of unscrupulous persons. Every old letter, unless it is an important business one, should be consigned to the flames. Don't trust them to some one else to be burned, but see yourself that they are destroyed. Again and again death has revealed secrets that never should have been revealed, because old letters have come to light. There are dead and gone facts in the history of every family that never should be dragged to the light, and never would be, if some ladies did not have the foolish habit of putting away old letters to keep.

But the worst thing of all to hoard is old medicine. Every family should have its medicine shelf or chest or closet with camphor, arnica, vaseline, and such remedies, ever at hand, but the foolish habit of saving bottles of medicine used in special cases, is a dangerous one. As soon as the patient is well, empty out every bottle and clean it for use if the medicine is harmless and the bottle is really needed, but otherwise destroy it at once.

The best way to save the pieces in barrels until you get a quantity is obtained. Then dig a deep hole in the garden and pound them down well in the bottom. Cover again with the earth, and you have a well drained bed for anything you wish to plant.

It Can't Be Beat.

The best of all teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For stomach, liver and kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back, and all run down conditions. Best too, for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at Trout's drug store. 50c.

Suggested by a Lady.

"Let me have five two-cent stamps, please," said a lady to the polite young man behind the counter in the postoffice.

"Yessum," he said, handing them out.

"Can't you let me have them in one piece?" she added.

"Certainly, ma'am," said the young man. "Can I send them home for you?"

"Oh, no; I don't live far away, and I am going straight home. I wouldn't put you to the trouble."

"No trouble at all," said the polite official. "I haven't very much to do today, and I could easily spare an hour."

"Very much obliged," said the lady, smiling sweetly. "Dear me," she added, putting on a stamp, "what a bother it is to stamp letters! Why can't we send letters and let the postoffice send in their bill once a month?"

"They might just as well," said the obliging young man sympathizingly. "I'll mention the fact in my next report to Washington."

"Will you? How nice? But you musn't mention my name. Say the idea was suggested by a lady."

Joseph Ranck spent the latter part of last week in Huntington, with friends.

Mrs. M. G. Kirk spent a few days recently with her sister, Anna, at Three Springs.

Last Saturday the Wells Tannery baseball team came here to play the locals. The boys from across the mountain had their team "stuffed" to the brim, having secured, at a high price, three of the best ball players which Coaldale could send out, and one of the best from the End team.

The pitcher, catcher, and short stop for the Tannery formed the larger part of Coaldale's fast team, which defeated Orbisona, and Huntington, and played Everett to a standstill, so the locals were not defeated badly by such a team. The game was a nice quiet one, and very close from start to finish, and finally ended in a victory for the "combination" by a score of 8 to 11, which was caused by a bad overthrow by one of the Hustontown players. Umpires, Detwiler and Stunkard.
