A taut wire stretched along the pantry wall is a good holder for all tin lids. Slip them back of it and the knobs will hold them in place.

If milk is heated until luke warm and then quickly chilled, there will be much more cream. Curtains are easily run on brass rods if a thimble is first placed on the end of the rod.

When milk has burned pour it at once into a pitcher and stand it in a basin of cold water until it is cool, when it will be found to be quite free from the burned smell and taste. Also when anything has burned in the double boiler, instead of replenishing the steamer part with hot water, use cold for the same effect.

If your soup is found to be salty add a few slices of raw potatoes and cook a little longer. The potato will absorb the surplus salt. To keep the coffee pot free from a strong odor put a pinch of bicarbonate of soda in it once a week, fill it up with water and boil slowly or simmer for a quarter of an hour.

A woman who makes delectable lemon pie sometimes adds the pulp of a banana to the custard before turning into the paste-lined tin. She covers the pie with a meringue when it comes from the oven.

After naphtha-cleaning gloves, laces, ribbons, etc., at home, they may be placed directly upon a steam radiator, and will be found to be dry in half the time ordinarily required, and the odor will entirely disappear in less than an hour's time.

When roasting meat in an open pan wet a clean white muslin cloth and lay over the top of the meat. It will keep from getting hard and does not require basting so often, and the meat is much nicer.

A flat brass button sewed on the corner of a dishcloth will be a great help in washing dishes. It can be used as a "scratcher," and will not injure the finest china.

A Valuable Tip.

The Outside Parties.

Without being in possession of all the official details of the election, it is evident enough that the outside parties of Socialists, Prohibitionists, Populists, and Independence Leaguers have exercised but small influence upon the result. If the votes of all these factions were united together they would constitute an exceedingly small proportion of the people when compared with the millions of votes the Republicans and Democrats have brought into the political field. Hence there is little sign of an approach of the hour when either of the two great parties will be melted into a new political organization, as was the history of the Federalists and the Whigs.

Of all those special factions the Socialists have the most significance. If they have not realized their expectations they have a little more than held their own, and are thus encouraged to renew their efforts. The faction that has fared the worst is the so-called Independence League, which is nothing more than the creation of a man who had not enough political or personal significance to gather or retain a considerable body of adherents. His League was but a "spite fence" erected to annoy his neighbors, and now the fence is irretrievably broken down. The Populist party, too, which a few years ago assumed a rather formidable aspect, has run to seed. In this election the party has mustered only a few handfuls of votes, where formerly it counted them by thousands. So also with the Prohibitionists, who appear to have lost ground since the last election for President. An explanation of this is in the fact that in States that have adopted Prohibition it has ceased with them to be an issue.

Yet although not one of these factions has elected a representative in the Sixty first Congress, politicians here and there will not cease to reckon with them as long as they make a show of political existence. By skillful combinations with or against either of the great political parties the Populists or Prohibitionists in some States may still have strength enough to decide the result of an election. But the Socialists, who believe that the triumph of their doctrines in this country as well as throughout the world is only a question of more or less time, will not deal with any party. They will continue to propagate their plausible but most pernicious doctrines of human regeneration and to recruit increasing numbers of adherents from both the great parties unless they are combated with the same or a greater degree of energy.—Philadelphia Record.

A Winnipeg Sermon.

A story is going the rounds about one of the Winnipeg clergy, which he himself has told with great delight. A farmer and his wife came to Winnipeg on a visit, and on Sunday their host requested the farmer friends to go with him to church.

"No," said he, "I never go to church." And his wife backed up his assertion.

The visitor was finally persuaded to go to a local church and was told the pastor was also an American. After the service he was introduced to the pastor, and the following conversation took place: "Well, doctor," said the visitor, "I enjoyed your sermon."

"I am very pleased to hear that," replied the pastor. "You know," explained the farmer, "I do not go to church very often, but that sermon of yours was the least like a sermon I ever heard."—Winnipeg Telegram.

NEEDMORE.

We are having beautiful weather.

Mr. Ira Bernhardt and Miss Ette Evans attended church here last Sunday evening.

A number of our people attended church at Siding Hill last Sunday.

Messrs. T. W. Peck and Park Palmer are on a trip to Bedford county.

Most of the farmers are done husking corn and have begun their fall plowing.

It is not positively known who set the Ridge on fire, last Thursday afternoon. A high wind was blowing and everybody in Needmore turned out, and by their heroic work, soon had it under control. For fear of its breaking out again, it was watched during the night.

Raymond Peck of Gem attended church here Sunday evening.

A number of our boys went over to the Tannery last Saturday afternoon to see the Pleasant Ridge and Tannery ball game.

We are glad to say everything went satisfactory election day.

When and How to Eat.

The normal sense of hunger makes the plainest food tasty and delicious. Without hunger, that is, without the call of nature for food, one is not justified in eating, says a celebrated physician. It is under a condition of repletion and surfeiting that artificial hunger must be created by taking various condiments, spices, rich sauces and savories, and stimulating articles. All of these are unwholesome, and none of them should be resorted to except in sickness and disease, when it is often desirable and necessary to make the food as attractive and appetizing as possible to induce the patient to take it. But even in such cases it is rarely necessary to resort to unwholesome stimulation. A large part of the sickness and disease of this life would disappear if everyone made it a rule to eat only when really hungry, and then to take no more than the body required.

HOW THINGS HAVE CHANGED.

And Everything Seems to Have a Different Name.

We often hear some one say "times have changed." It is not times that have changed, but the people and names have changed. When we were young, people who had colds, soaked their feet in hot water and got well, now they have grip, take quinine and are sick all summer. Then they had sore throat, wrapped a piece of salt pork in an old sock, tied it around their neck at night and went to work the next morning; now they have tonsillitis, a surgical operation and two weeks in the house. Then they had the belly ache, took castor oil and recovered; now they have appendicitis, a week in the hospital and six feet due east and west and six feet perpendicular. People worked then. Now they labor. In those days they wore underclothes, now they wear lingerie. They went to a restaurant for their dinner, now they go to the cafe. Then they broke a leg, now they fracture a limb, they went crazy then, now they have brain storm. Politicians then paid good hard cash for votes, now they send government garden seeds.

Twenty-Sixth or Twenty-Seventh.

Will William H. Taft be the twenty-seventh President of the United States or the twenty-sixth? As a matter of fact, there have been only twenty five men, including the Vice Presidents who succeeded to the Presidency, who have held the office of President. Mr. Taft will be the twenty-sixth man to enjoy the honor and exercise the powers of President of the United States. Why then, should he rank as the twenty-seventh President?

On the McKinley peristyle on the State Capitol grounds at Columbus, O., and on the dedicated obelisk in Niagara Square, Buffalo, William McKinley is declared to have been the twenty-fifth President of the United States. This agrees with the numbering of the almanacs, and if it is true Roosevelt is the twenty-sixth and Taft will be the twenty-seventh President, although only twenty five men will have preceded him in that office.

The confusion arises from calling Cleveland the twenty-second and the twenty-fourth President of the United States because his two terms were separated by another incumbent. If the Presidential terms were numbered this would be correct, and not only Cleveland but every eight-year President should be credited with two terms. It is an anomaly to apply the term method of enumeration to Cleveland alone. This country has had only twenty five Presidents, and it is impossible for McKinley to be the twenty-fifth and Taft the twenty-seventh if individuals are meant. If we count by Presidential terms of four years, the country will have completed thirty of these terms on March 4 next, when Mr. Taft will enter upon the thirty-first Presidential term and be the twenty-sixth President.—The Press.

Farmers' Week At State College.

The school of agriculture in The Pennsylvania State College offered a program for Farmers' Week last winter that attracted hundreds of farmers from one-half the counties of the state. The lecturers were by practical scientists who pleased their hearers. The next Farmers' Week will begin December 30th, and close January 6th. Noted specialists from many states will assist the faculty of the school of agriculture in making the coming meeting the greatest in the history of the state's agriculture. The attendance now promises to be so large that it is necessary to schedule four lectures for the same hour, in order that the visitors may be accommodated. The arrangement will be such that a specialist may select lectures of direct interest to himself through out each day of the week. The program will be ready for distribution about November 15th.
