Presidential Facts.

Tuesday, Nov. 3, occurred the thirty-fifth Presidential election. On March 4 the twenty-seventh President will have been sworn into office.

Of the 26 Presidents, from Washington to Roosevelt, nine were twice elected.

All the Presidents from Washington to Jackson, with the exception of John Adams and John Quincy Adams, father and son, were elected twice.

Four Presidents died while in office—William H. Harrison, Abraham Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley. Three of these were from Ohio.

Virginia furnished five sons to the Presidency, from which the expression "Dynasty of Virginia" came; but New York leads with six; Ohio furnishes four, Tennessee three and Pennsylvania one.

Roosevelt was the youngest at the time of his inauguration, being 43 years of age; William Harrison, the oldest, being 68 years of age.

The Federalists were in power 12 years; Jeffersonian Republicans, 24 years; National Republicans, 32 years; Democrats, since Lincoln's time, eight years.

The average age at inauguration was 54, and the average age at time of death 69 years.

NEW GRENADA.

Nellie Kerns, of Clear Ridge, dropped in between showers last Saturday and called on her school mate Grace Lodge.

Ruth Cunningham visited friends in Mount Union a few days.

The Sunday school at Bethel is closed indefinitely.

New Grenada's latest is a Gun Club, which has been recently organized. They have a trap, lots of ammunition and clay pigeons on hand, ready for use.

T. Speer Dickson, Esq., that big-hearted, jovial fellow from Philadelphia, sojourned with friends in the Valley a few days, enjoying hunting; but sorry to relate that all he found was two ground squirrels, or chipmunks, and they got away. He needed Teddy's big stick and bear gun. Come again, Speer. We enjoy your company. We know you are as good a hunter as anyone, but finding game where there is none is something else.

The institute at No. 4 was a success—teachers and directors being mostly absent. Three teachers and one director were present, but a full house of young folks.

Love's Laws.

He loves best who loves last. There's no fool like a bold fool. Kisses speak louder than words. One good kiss deserves another. The woman who deliberates is won. Proposals make cowards of us all. A fool and his money are soon married. Be sure you're right, then lose your head. A little debutante is a dangerous thing. 'Tis love that makes the man come 'round. A ring on the hand is worth two at the door. The longest way round is the sweetest way home. People who live in glass houses shouldn't hold hands. Where there's a will there's a way.—Carolyne Wells, in Broadway Magazine.

Fiddled Into Office.

Lossing relates that in 1848 he met at Oswego, N. Y., Major Cochran, then nearly eighty years old, a son-in-law of General Philip Schuyler, who told the story of his election to congress during the administration of the elder Adams. A vessel was to be launched on one of the lakes in interior New York, and people came from afar to see it. The young folks gathered there, determined to have a dance at night. There was a hddie, but no fiddler. Young Cochran was an amateur performer, and his services were demanded. He gratified the joyous company, and at the supper table one of the gentlemen remarked, in commendation of his talents, that he was "fit for congress." The matter was talked up, and he was nominated and elected a representative in congress for the district then comprising the whole of New York west of Schenectady. He always claimed to have "fiddled himself into congress."

Only The Best For The Readers of "The Sunday Press."

Only the best is good enough for the readers of "The Philadelphia Sunday Press," for they have obtained and will print the best serial story of the day. "The Ring and the Man," is the title and was written by the great American author, Cyrus Townsend Brady. It is an American story of American life and the great metropolis is the scene of most of this dramatic action. The cause of popular government is fought out right here and the contest transcends in importance any political battle that has ever been waged. George Gormly, the hero of "The Ring and the Man," is the highest type of American manhood. His battle with the forces of civic corruption in the American metropolis will interest every American citizen and reader of strong action. The opening chapters begin Sunday, November 29, in "The Philadelphia Press." Be sure you get the opening chapters.

Hopes For Prosperity.

The crop statistics for the present year and the revival of the iron trade, are two important bases upon which to found our hopes for a recovery from the business depression.

We have harvested 659,000,000 bushels of wheat, an increase of 25,000,000 bushels over the harvest of last year; 2,565,000,000 bushels of corn, a decrease of a very small percentage from the crop of a year ago. Taking all things into consideration, there is room only for congratulations over these harvests.

In September, the last month for which we have returns the furnaces of the country produced 1,419,000 tons of pig iron, the largest total since November of last year. The progress made by the iron trade is shown by the fact that in June the output was only 36,500 tons per day, while in September it had risen to 48,000.

Now, that the people have settled by their ballots the policy of the Government for the next four years, we may trust in a revival or prosperity and its continuance during that period.

Men Past Sixty In Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Remedy should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Barnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy I feel better than I have for 20 years, although I am now 91 years old." Trout's drug store.

NEEDMORE.

A snow storm raged here all day last Saturday much to the surprise of everybody, as it is seldom such a storm occurs so early in the season.

A number of our sportsmen expect to bring home some venison next week.

H. E. Wink is visiting in the home of his parents at this place. Some of our people attended church at Tonoloway last Saturday and Sunday.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the Sunday school Convention at Damascus was not very well attended.

The protracted meeting at the Dunkard church conducted by Rev. Brumbaugh, of Saxton, Pa., closed Sunday with an addition of six to the membership.

Thompson W. Peck who recently purchased the Runyan store at this place, expects to greatly increase the stock of goods in the near future.

The many friends of Elmer Troglor of Mercersburg, were very much shocked to learn of the terrible accident which befell him.

Mr. A. M. Morgret of Berkeley Springs, W. Va., spent part of last week in our town, fencing his lot.

Rev. A. G. B. Powers is holding a protracted meeting down at Damascus.

Paying Visits in Australia.

In Australia a month's visit to a country house would be nothing. Two months—three months—six months—as long as you like would not be considered too long, other things being equal. Nobody thinks of dates. To write and invite you from the 15th to the 30th would be rude. You are asked to stay as long as you like. Or else you ask yourself to stay as long as you like. Or even—to face all the contingencies—you neither ask nor are asked. You simply go. And, having arrived, you remain, for the one unfailing commodity of an Australian country house is welcome. Everything else may give out. If you stay long enough there is sure to be a time when there are no servants, no milk, no vegetables, no meat but mutton, or even no water, but the thoughts of guests going away will never enter the minds of the host and hostess. Good nature, gaiety, informality—these are the leading notes of life in every Australian country house.—London Globe.

A Nerve Rest for the Baby.

We hear almost too much of nerve rest nowadays, but there is not often much said of giving the baby a nerve rest.

Imagine how you would like to be danced or joggled or made to show off in all your waking hours. Yet that is the fate of the average baby from the time it is big enough to take notice.

Is it any wonder that children develop Saint Vitus dance, or get inflammation of the brain, not to speak of horrid dispositions? What they need is nerve rest.

The more you ignore the baby the less you treat it as a prodigy, the more comfort it and you will have in years to come.

Do not have your child, show off, no matter how much its cunningness may tempt you to go share with friends less fortunate.

Make a practice of keeping the baby by itself the greater part of the day. It is surprising how soon, with proper training, the child will be content to lie in its crib, playing happily with a single toy or just looking around.

The Heavily Scented.

Nothing is more vulgar than to use a heavy scent; it stamps a woman at once as lacking in refinement.

The dainty girl does not use perfumes directly; if she likes them at all they must be faint, elusive and individual.

The best way to secure this elusive fragrance is to use sachets in closets, bureau drawers and boxes. They may be made of orris root, mixed with any desired sachet.

When a certain scent is selected by a girl it is well to confine herself to it. To smell one day of heliotrope and the next be reeking with musk, is both bad taste and unfashionable.

Instead of wearing tiny sachets concealed in the pompadour, the up-to-date girl will keep her brushes in a box that is heavily perfumed; this gives that faint, intangible perfume to the tresses that is considered a mark of smartness.

Besides being bad taste to use a heavy scent, it is in many cases injurious to the health. Musk acts on certain women almost as a narcotic; while violet powder often causes hay fever patients to sneeze violently, and sickens persons of weak digestion.

CLEAR RIDGE.

Everybody's hunting while the snow lasts. Clarence Henry and lady friend Miss Reed, of Dudley, spent Sunday in our town.

The local institute held at Cherry Grove school, No. 8, on Friday night was a success in every way. The attendance was large and the topics were well discussed. There were ten teachers present.

Lillian Fleming, Elsie Baker and Jessie Henry—three of Dublin township's teachers—spent Sunday at home.

Quite a number of people from here attended the sale at Hustontown last Friday.

On account of the inclement weather last Saturday night the attendance at the J. O. U. A. M. banquet was small but all went well with those that were there, for all seemed to enjoy themselves; oysters and stewed chicken were served for refreshments.

Miss Edna Kerlin, of this place, is visiting friends in Six Mile Run, Altoona, and Pittsburg.

The champion hunter of the season here seems to be John McQuade. On Monday evening he came in with a ten-pound turkey hen, and on Tuesday evening came home with an eighteen pound gobbler. Next.

SLEEP IN THE OPEN AND KEEP YOUNG

The Ozone Cure Grows in Popularity.

A few years ago to have confessed to sleeping in the open air even under the starlit June sky, with its balmy, rescented breezes, was to label oneself tubercular. Now a woman can creep into her blankets in the face of a blizzard, needing no other excuse than the restful, dreamless sleep that brings new life to brain and body. Yearly, the enthusiasts for outdoor sleeping increase. Once try it, and not only will you never go back to your bed in a steam heated room, but you will spend your time converting your friends to the idea that there is no greater sedative to tired nerves, no surer cure for colds, no better way to feel the pulse of youth unto old age, than to spend your nights in the open air.

In summer, sleep in a light silk kimono over a cotton nightgown; in winter, wool should always be worn. Pajamas are an excellent choice, covered by an eiderdown wrapper with a large hood that can be drawn down over the eyes. Loose knitted bed-sacks and a hotwater bottle insure absolute warmth.

A noted lung specialist, a devotee of outdoor sleeping, declares that soon all houses will be built with provision for outdoor bedrooms, as more and more persons are coming to recognize its tonic effect. Curiously enough, not only does one awaken refreshed from a night in the open air, but less sleep seems to be necessary; seven hours outside are equal to ten in a heated bedroom.

Happily for those who have neither porch, tent nor lean-to, a noted specialist has declared that the same effects can be had indoors if one will only throw open wide doors and windows. The trouble is to make them over come their inherited fear of drafts. This dread will no longer linger with the next generation.

Sleep in the open air, no matter how you manage it, and life will take on a new color, even to the healthy, while the invalid will soon cast aside his aches and pains under the "God of the out of doors."—The Designer.

Our schools are progressing well. The institute at Siloam was well attended last Friday night.

Everybody that is able to carry a gun is in the mountain this week hunting deer.

Now is the time when, with but fatal results, hunters mistake men for deer and are unable to distinguish between a rabbit and a full grown man.
