

The Sexton—in what way do you regard your occupation as helpful to mankind? The Grave digger—Well, I've made many an opening for a man in my time.

Persons desiring to set their watches or clocks with the town clock should do so by the striking time and not by the hands, as the hands are loose, and not very correct.

HIDES WANTED.—Highest market price paid for beef hides, horse hides, wildcat skins, and all kinds of grease, at Paul Wagner's Tannery, McConnellsburg.

Master Edgar Tritle, son of C. P. Tritle, of Ayr township, has in his possession a U. S. army bridle that was used in the Spanish-American war by one of Col. Roosevelt's Rough-riders.

On account of the inclement weather last Saturday, the Belfast Sunday School convention was postponed until Saturday, November 28th, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

LOST—A pair of spectacles between town and McGovern's in Tod township. The finder will confer a great favor on the owner by leaving them at the News office.

The man who joins a church or lodge, not for the reasons those institutions exist, but solely to advance his business or political interests, joins from a wrong motive and acts unfairly towards them and to society.

A despatch from Mercersburg Monday to the Franklin Repository, says that it can now be stated surely that Mrs. Elmer Trogler does not have hydrophobia. The convulsions which she had are now attributed by her physician, we are told, to the awful strain on her nervous system due to the horrible illness and death of her husband.

HIDES.—James Sipes & Sons pay the highest market price for beef hides at their butcher shop in McConnellsburg, also highest price paid for calf skins, sheepskins and tallow.

A satisfactory substitute for wood pulp has been needed, and many have been the experiments with corn stalks, and other plants of woody fiber to satisfy the need. Only partial success has rewarded the experiments hitherto, but now the department of agriculture at Washington authoritatively states that complete success has at last crowned the efforts so diligently made. Corn stalks are the raw material, the quality of the paper manufactured is superior and the cost of production will be much less than that of wood pulp. As the department is not in the habit of prematurely stating results we may accept the statement as true. It certainly solves the question of paper supply, for the raw material is practically unlimited. It is one of those discoveries that will benefit all classes. The newspaper man will welcome it, for it means less expense for paper, the public generally will gain by it, and as for the farmer it will mean that cornstalks, instead of being rubbish to gather up and burn, will be one of the most valuable by-products of his farm.

Rev. I. W. Williamson Testifies.
Rev. I. W. Williamson, Huntingdon, W. Va., testifies as follows: "This is to certify that I used Foley's Kidney Remedy for nervous exhaustion and kidney trouble, and am free to say that Foley's Kidney Remedy will do all that you claim for it." Trout's drug store.

Local Institute.
The third local institute of Taylor was held at Clear Ridge last Friday evening. The meeting called to order by the teacher, Miss Fields after which president, Ranck, took charge. The topics, (1.) How do you start beginners? (2.) Orthography in school, and out. (3.) Social Institutes their value to pupils and teachers were thoroughly discussed by W. H. Ranck, Miss Stevens, Miss Fields, H. P. Barton, Russel Gracey and D. K. Chesnut, of Taylor, Miss Baker, Miss Fleming, Mr. Deshong and Mr. Morton, of Dublin, Miss Laidig and Mr. Wink of Taylor, were among the missing. The institute was interspersed with songs and recitations which were a success and the very large and attentive audience shows that the good people of that district are interested in the education of the rising generation. Institute adjourned to meet at No. 4 school Dec. 4th. H. P. Barton, Secretary.

FAMILY FAVORITE
makes the light that rests the eyes. Nearest approach to natural sunlight known. Most economical too—burns to the very last drop without readjusting wick. Does not char, smoke or "smell." Clear, water-white, free from sediment. Not to be compared with ordinary tank wagon oil. Ask your dealer to serve you out of the original barrel. You will have the purest, best lamp oil made.

Ironing Collars and Cuffs.
Have a basin of cold water at your hand and a small piece of soft white rag—part of an old handkerchief will do very well—to use as a damper. Inexperienced ironers will find it a help to have a piece of thin muslin to lay over the collars in ironing, just till the surface becomes a little drier; this prevents the irons sticking to the starch. But after a little practice wet ironing may easily be proceeded with quite independently of this assistance. Unroll the bundle and take out two or three collars. Lay them flat on the table and rub them out with the damper as smooth as you can get them. See that your iron is very hot and perfectly clean. Pass it twice quickly over the right side of one of the collars; turn the collar, iron twice on the wrong side, iron again, repeating the process so as to dry collar equally. Each time press a little more heavily and make more effort to smooth out the collar. Continue in this way till steam ceases to rise. Now rub the iron rather heavily over the right side of the collar, as this will impart a nice glossy finish to your work. To make the ridge at the edge of the collar like a newly-bought article, at the last rub over or polish do not let the iron quite touch the edge of the collar, but keep its outer edge smoothly on a line with the stitching. No Case on Record.
There is no case on record of a cough or cold resulting in pneumonia or consumption after Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken, as it will stop your cough and break up your cold quickly. Refuse any but the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in a yellow package. Contains no opiates and is safe and sure. Trout's drug store.
We are under obligations to our esteemed friend Archie Johnston for a mess of turnips. As there are just three persons in the editor's family, Mr. Johnston sent four turnips—one to the good. For quality, they were all right, and for size—well, the largest measured twenty-one inches in circumference and weighed almost four pounds, and the rest were not much smaller.
