He had lived a faithful Christian ever since his youth, being a member of the M. E. church at Clear Ridge, and one who was always found in his place of worship, even in his declining years, when his health and the weather would permit.

He was never married, having moved to Clear Ridge with his parents from Trough Creek Valley, when he was about ten years of age, and after the other brothers and sisters were married and left home, he still remained with his parents, doing the farming and caring for them; and just shortly before their death, his sister, Mrs. Harriet J. Grove was left with three small children, which she brought home, and which he helped to raise; for by his father's will, the home place fell to him, after paying out the other heirs. Also, he and his sis ter, Mrs. Grove, raised his broth er George Woodcock's son, Clark Woodcock.

He lived to a ripe old age, and had followed many younger relatives to the grave. Just two weeks previous to his death, his sister Mrs. Lizzie Berkstresser, died, and just two weeks previous to his funeral, he attended his sister's funeral.

His funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. M. Cline, at the M. E. church at Clear Ridge, on Sunday, who preached from the text, II Kings 25:2-"Set thy house in order for thou shalt die and not live." None can doubt the words of the text, but his last illness, Roy had been in that John was ready.

He is survived by one sister Mrs. Harriet Jane Grove, who on habits, his death coming at a time account of ill health, went to the when he was making rapid adhome of her daughter at Salisbury, Md., a few weeks ago, and hence could not be, present at Clear Ridge Cemetery.

His great grand-father and great grand-mother, we are told by one who has reliable data to that effect, died at the ages of 115 and 180 respectively, who were among the very first settlers in Wells Valley, and who resided where Anderson's mill now stands.
