Resignation.
Paul Wiltach, playwright, and biographer of Richard Mansfield, died at the Players' Club in New York, a fact that had fallen. "It wasn't worth much," said Mr. Wiltach, "and I suppose its author minds its failure no more than old Jethro Higgins, of my native Lafayette, minded the decease of his third wife."
"The minister visited Jethro to condole with him; but the old man, puffing on his pipe, said: "Thank ye, parson, for the visit and kind words; but as for Hannah Maria, she was a cross-grained critter, and the Lord's welcome to her."
—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Making It Pleasant For Him.
"The toastmaster at the banquet, "we have listened to some excellent orators this evening, and I am sure we have enjoyed their efforts very much. I have purposely kept one of our best speakers for the last, and after you have heard him I know you will be glad to go home. Gentlemen, I have the honor to present Mr. Ketchum A. Cummin, who will now address you."
—Chicago Tribune.

Joyous Occasion.
"Yes, they're going to give him a big public funeral."
"Was he so much respected?"
"No. They're doing it for the moral effect. I don't mind the expense. The deceased was a joy rider, you know."
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

How She Got Out Of It.
The questioner—I hear his wife is a brunette, but I thought he married a blonde.

NOT DRUGS Food Did It.
After using laxative and cathartic medicines from childhood a case of chronic and apparently incurable constipation yielded to the scientific food, Grape-Nuts, in a few days.

"From early childhood I suffered with such terrible constipation that I had to use laxatives continuously, going from one drug to another and suffering more or less all the time."
"A prominent physician whom I consulted told me the muscles of the digestive organs were partially paralyzed and could not perform their work without help of some kind, so I have tried at different times to use every laxative and cathartic known, but found no help that was at all permanent. I had finally become discouraged and had given my case up as hopeless when I began to use the scientific food, Grape-Nuts."
"Although I had not expected this food to help my trouble, to my great surprise Grape-Nuts digested immediately from the first, and in a few days I was convinced that this was just what my system needed."
"The bowels performed their functions regularly and I am now completely and permanently cured of this awful trouble."
"Truly the power of scientific food must be unlimited." "There's a Reason."

WARNING TO FRUIT GROWERS.
Don't Spray Trees While in Blossom.—Zoologist H. A. Surface.
The owners of the fruit farms who intend spraying their trees to prevent diseases and kill the codling moth larva are advised by Prof. Surface, of the Division of Economic Zoology of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, not to spray the blossoms, but to wait until after the petals have dropped, or more than three-fourths are down. He also says injury will be caused to the blossoms if they are sprayed when open, but the spraying should not be delayed after the blossoms have fallen. To secure the best results the spray must be applied within six days after the blossoms fall, and a second spraying should be done ten days after the first application to prove effectual.
The following are said by the department to be the objections to spraying trees when in bloom:
There is no definite pest for which the spray is applicable at that time, and each spraying should be for something definite.
The very young fruit is liable to be injured by the spray liquid falling upon it at this time. Spraying when in bloom is a very sure way of thinning the fruit crop, but it is very unscientific and unsatisfactory.
Spraying in blossom with poison results in the destruction of bees. Bees are necessary for fertilization and setting of the fruit.
The delay of only a short time, or until just after the blossoms fall, gives the proper time for spraying for the codling moth and for plant diseases and does not result in the destruction of fruit or bees.
The proper spraying material is the Bordeaux Mixture, to which an arsenical poison such as Paris green or arsenate of lead is added. There are two spraying streams for this mixture, according to the hardness of the tree or plant to be sprayed. Spray the apple, pear, quince and potato with the strong formula which calls for three pounds of bluestone and four pounds of quicklime in fifty gallons of water, and on other plants use the weaker formula of one pound of bluestone and one pound of arsenate of lead in fifty gallons of water. This is used on peach and plum trees on account of their tender bark, and on similar delicate plants. Peach and plum trees do not need to be sprayed immediately after blossoming, but the grapes should be sprayed for wormy fruit, making the application after the fruit reaches the size of buckshot.

ARRESTED IN RIVER.
Alleged Horse Thief Dives In Vain To Escape Pursuers.
Reading.—A man giving his name as George Hill was arrested in the Schuylkill River in Birdsboro, by Willis Quigley, who followed Hill into the river when the latter was being chased to answer a charge of horse stealing at Pottsville.
The local police received a telephone message from Pottsville to be on the lookout for a bay horse and top buggy, which had been hired out by a Pottsville liveryman on Monday. It was found that a team answering the description came to a Birdsboro hotel on Tuesday and was abandoned by the driver.
Hill gave the pursuers a merry chase through fields, over hills, and, arriving at the river bank dove off of a high rock into the stream. Young Quigley leaped in after him and caught hold of his coat tail and after hard work pulled him back to shore where the officers took charge of him. The accused was given dry clothing and then brought to Reading.

Sweaters As Proof Of Insanity.
Stroudsburg.—That the purchase of sixteen sweaters, by Mrs. Julia Hunsicker, of Chestnut Hill, was a reasonable proof of her weakness of mind, was the contention of petitioners in their argument before Judge Staples, in an effort to convince the Court that there was need of the appointment of a guardian to care for her estate, once valued at $12,000. Shortly after retiring on the night of the accident, the child told his mother that his father had been killed in a wreck and cried bitterly. An hour later a telegram was received, telling of the accident.

Weekly Review of Trade and Latest Market Reports.
R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:
"Two developments of the week are of special significance. One is the distinct improvement in the iron and steel trade, on which the whole industrial situation so largely depends. The reduced prices have stimulated an active demand which, in turn, brought about this week a lifting of prices on a number of products. The demand is especially notable for construction and agricultural interests."
"The other development is the foreign commerce statement, which reveals extraordinary importations of crude materials for manufacturers' purposes, a clear proof of reviving industry."

Bradstreet's says:
"Summed up, the situation may be said to be a current trade, wholesale and retail, better than last year, but disappointing as a whole, while the tone for the future is still quite markedly optimistic."
"Business failures in the United States for the week were 268 against 247 last week, 232 in the like week of 1908, 163 in 1907, 139 in 1906 and 193 in 1905."

Rev. G. M. Gray Feels It a Duty to Speak.
Any person suffering with backache, urinary disorders or other evidence of kidney trouble may feel the utmost confidence in the following statement made by Rev. G. M. Gray, Baptist clergyman, of Whitesboro, Texas:
"I am the happy recipient of great relief from pain, through using Doan's Kidney Pills. Five years ago when suffering from distressing lumbago I took Doan's Kidney Pills and they removed the trouble, including embarrassing urinary ills. Doan's Kidney Pills are an honest remedy, and I feel it a duty to tell my experience, though not seeking publicity."

Not His Place.
Judge Frederick E. Crane, the young and brilliant jurist who presided over the Thornton Hains trial, has a way of illuminating with an apt anecdote a point he wishes to make.
In one of the early cases he so brilliantly conducted before his elevation to the bench, Mr. Crane said to an obstinately reticent witness:
"You seem bent on giving the court all possible trouble. You are like the man who sat in the dock one Sunday morning with a bandaged head.
"Prisoner," said the magistrate to this man, "you are charged with having been drunk and disorderly. What say you—guilty or not guilty?"
"That's wot you're paid to find out," growled the prisoner. "I ain't got no call to lie, but I do yer work."
