"Ya-as," drawled Uncle Si Peavey, "ye know Bill Wiggins' frogpond?"
"Yes," said old man Braggard, "What of it?"
"Well, I went down there the other night after sundown to shoot a couple of bullfrogs with my old shotgun," said Uncle Si. "There was 5,000 of 'em settin' on them lily-pads, and just lifted that there gun to my shoulder and let her go."

"Spose ye did," said old man Braggard, "How does that affect my bird story?"

"Beats it all hollow," retorted Uncle Si. "The minute my gun went off the bull deemed 5,000 bullfrogs croaked."—Harper's Weekly.

Bad Food and Good Health Won't Mix.

The human stomach stands much abuse, but it won't return good health if you give it bad food. If you feed right you will feel right, for proper food and a good mind is the sure road to health.

"A year ago I became much alarmed about my health, for I began to suffer after each meal, no matter how little I ate," says a Denver woman.

"I lost my appetite and the very thought of food grew distasteful, with the result that I was not nourished and got weak and thin."

"My home care was very heavy, for beside a large family of my own I have also to look out for an invalid mother. There was no one to shoulder my household burdens, and come what might I must bear them, and this thought nearly drove me frantic when I realized that my health was breaking down."

"I read an article in the paper about some one with trouble just like mine being cured on Grape-Nuts food, and acting on this suggestion, I gave Grape-Nuts a trial. The first dish of the delicious food proved that I had struck the right thing."

"My uncomfortable feelings in stomach and brain disappeared as if by magic, and in an incredibly short space of time I was again myself. Since then I have gained 12 pounds in weight through a summer of hard work and realize I am a very different woman, all due to the splendid food, Grape-Nuts."

"There's a Reason." Trial will prove. Read the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

MOTHER AND CHILD STABBED.

Victims Of Brutal Assault In Bed By Unknown Assassin At Coaldale.

Pottsville.—One of the most brutal crimes ever perpetrated in this county was committed sometime during the early morning hours at the home of Mrs. Kate Sprenze, at Coaldale, when she and her 7-year-old daughter were fatally stabbed and beaten and left to die while an infant child lay between them, apparently having never awakened by the noise, although its face and hands were covered with the blood of mother and sister.

Mrs. Sprenze keeps a boarding house at Coaldale, and has ten men living there. They sleep upstairs, while she and her two daughters slept on the first floor. One of the boarders was awakened by groans, and with the assistance of another boarder they broke in the door and there found the mother and daughter lying unconscious on the bed.

Both had their faces beaten in an unrecognizable condition, their skulls were fractured, while the mother had forty stab wounds on her head and body. The daughter had been stabbed about a dozen times. Not a scratch was found on the baby.

TO BUY BRADDOCK'S GRAVE.

Fayette County Citizens To Erect Monument To British General.

Unlabeled.—Patriotic citizens of Fayette County, at a meeting here raised $1,250 with which to purchase several acres of mountain land in the center of which lie the remains of General Braddock, who was wounded in the battle of Braddock's Field in the French and Indian War and was carried back into the mountains seven miles east of here, where he died and was buried.

The resting place of the British general was originally marked off by an oak tree, but this was broken off by a storm in 1868. A fence now surrounds the grave. The money was subscribed to purchase the ground for fear some day the relatives of Braddock might attempt to remove the remains and erect over them a monument upon the scene of the famous battle in which the general was wounded. Fayette County will erect a monument over the spot.

General Braddock is intimately associated with this section, having tarried at Fort Cumberland on his way to Western Pennsylvania. He made a road and camped through this locality. Braddock's Stone, a marker of this time, still remains near Frothingburg. A small stream near Cumberland is known as Braddock's Run.

A PARDON FOR ACTOR GENTRY.

Shot Actress Madge Yorke In Philadelphia.

The State Board of Pardons recommended a pardon for James B. Gentry, the actor, serving a life sentence for the murder of Madge Yorke, the actress.

The murder of Madge Yorke, which James B. Gentry was sentenced to be hanged and finally sent to prison for life, was committed on the afternoon of February 17, 1915, in Philadelphia.

Madge Yorke was playing with the "Baggage Company," in this city. Gentry, who was filling an engagement in Boston, had his friends alleged, been seriously ill with the grip and was drinking heavily. He had an engagement to meet Miss Yorke in New York early in February, but through a misunderstanding he missed her at the railroad station.

He met some friends in New York who jokingly told him that Miss Yorke was receiving the attentions of another actor. From that time he rushed into the room occupied by Miss Yorke at a Walnut Street hotel and shot and killed the actress. In his hurry to escape from the hotel Gentry fell from the fire-escape, fracturing two of his ribs. He made his way to Fairmount Park, where for two days and nights he slept and roamed through the woodland in the bitter cold. Being unable to withstand the pangs of hunger and his terrible suffering Gentry gave himself up to a park guard and was sent to a hospital. He was later tried and found guilty of murder in the first degree. He was sentenced to be hanged on April 22, 1917, but on the day preceding the date on which the sentence was to be carried out the Board of Pardons recommended that the sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

Gentry's friends carried out the recommendation of the board. Since then repeated efforts have been made to have the actor pardoned. Gentry has always maintained that he has no recollection of the murder of Miss Yorke; that his mind was a blank until he found himself in a hospital in Philadelphia.

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "Further progress is making toward business confidence and activity and even the vexatious delay to the treatment of the tariff and the somewhat disappointing June crop statement have not served to check the improvement. Statistics of pig iron production during May furnish additional evidence of the betterment of iron and steel. A significant development is the urgency with which many buyers request prompt deliveries, especially transporting companies."

"Greater interest and larger volume of actual transactions are observable in the primary cotton goods market than for a long time past. Jobs are the principal operators, although the market as a whole still continues to be somewhat uneven."

Bradstreet's says: "Reports from leading industries are on the whole favorable so far as booking of future orders is concerned. Building trade reports confirm earlier predictions of a record spring construction in an enormous total far surpassing all previous monthly records ever compiled. Reports as to collections share the irregularity noted in general distributive trade, varying from slow to good in different sections. Reports from the Northwest are that merchants are discounting bills more freely."

"Business failures for the week ended June 10 in the United States were 197, against 191 last week, 253 in the like week of 1908, 161 in 1907, 170 in 1906 and 175 in 1905."
