MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Alma Larue Clark, born only last January, daughter of James Clark and wife, who reside on a farm near Maddensville, narrowly escaped frightful injury, if not instant death a few evenings ago. Charles Pine, of Sylvan, spent The child was being wheeled Saturday and Sunday in the home along a narrow read overlooking a rugged precipice on the edge of Sideling Hill creek, by its little sister Olive, eight years old. Meeting a team, little Olive thoughtlessly chose the lower side of the road, and getting too near the edge-the first thing she knew, baby, coach, and all were rolling and tumbling down the rugged enbankment toward the creek below.

The screams of little Olive at tracted the attention of the driver of the team, who, rushing down the declivity after the baby, plunged into the creek, rescuing the biby, who fortunately had escaped without any serious injury.

The baby and coach had stayed together until the bottom of the precipice had been reached.
