AERO LAURELS FOR UNCLE SAM

Glenn H. Curtiss the Hero of the Rheims Contests.

CLOSE OF A NOTABLE EVENT.

America's Only Representative In The Competition Carried Off The Lion's Share Of The Honors--An Accident To Bleriot Removed The American's Most Dangerous Competitor In The Three-Lap Speed Contest--Helicopters Superior To Dirigibles.

Rheims (Special).--A twilight vision of Paulhan's graceful monoplane, like a great white bird soaring above the plain, so high that it seemed to rise above the yellow harvest mist, was distributed to the faintly lit, and the floating Golden Elixer, as the Curtiss machine has been dubbed, smashing another world's record in the Prix de la Vitesse, were the closing glories of aviation week.

The victory of Glenn H. Curtiss, the sole American representative in the contest, coming on the heels of his great victory in the international cup, gives the United States the lion's share of the honors of the meeting.

The Prix de la Vitesse, of 20,000 francs ($4,000), divided into four prizes, was distributed to the four machines making three rounds of the course, 30 kilometers, at the greatest speed, the first prize being won by Curtiss quite handsily, notwithstanding his penalization.

Curtiss only missed winning the lap speed contest from Bleriot by a small margin. He captured second place in that event, which was over the full circle of 10 kilometers, or 6.21 miles, raising his total money winnings for the meeting to 38,000 francs, besides the international cup, which goes to the Aero Club of America, inscribed with his name.

FEWER IDLE CARS.

Further Decrease Of 47,749 In The Number Of Surplus.

Chicago (Special).--The American Railway Association in its fortnightly report on car surpluses and shortages, says that there has been a further decrease of 47,749 in the number of surplus cars, bringing the total down to 159,424, which is 93,723 fewer than for the corresponding period of 1908.

Box cars decreased 21,141 and coal and gondolas 19,328. There was also a decrease of 6,248 in miscellaneous cars, due principally to a reduction in the surplus stock equipment. There is an increase in the scattering storages from 169 on August 4 to 2,009 on August 18.

The flood waters of the Santa Catarina River continued on their rapid course throughout the night, and to add to the horror of the situation rain commenced to fall, and caused untold suffering to the thousands of homeless people who had congregated on the various plazas.

The destructive flood, due to the continued fall of rain for the past 96 hours, swept everything before it, and hardly a vestige is left of what was a few days ago a conglomeration of small houses containing wild families belonging to the poorer classes. The number of dead, which cannot be accurately estimated for days--perhaps weeks--is variously placed at from 400 to 1,000. The victims were from the poorer classes.

The flood reached its crest between 1 and 3 o'clock Saturday morning. Many families were swept to death, with hardly a chance for their lives. With the onrush of the water's pandemonium reigned, and as the water swept from their homes, on the tops of which many had sought shelter, never anticipating that the water would reach an unprecedented height, pitiful appeals for assistance could be heard by those on higher ground, but aid of any kind was impossible.

Sunday night every effort was made by kind-hearted people to shelter homeless women and children. Private homes were thrown open to the sufferers. The police station, many hotels and clubs, as well as the rooms of several organizations, saved the displaced of the women and children were thus cared for, many men were compelled to sleep in the open in the various plazas. Both Zaragoza and Hidalgo plazas were alive with people throughout the night, and a vast throng congregated in this vicinity, which is on high ground, in order to watch the flood as it swept onward.

Already many bodies have been recovered, but it is impossible to state the exact number. A semireliable authority says the police records show that 400 bodies had been recovered up to noon today. Scores of other bodies are believed to be still lodged in various points along the stream, and it may be weeks before they are recovered.

Excursion Steamer Colombia Is Sunk

Nearly All Of The Crew Saved. While The Majority Of The Passengers Who Survived Are Men--Passengers Were Asleep When The Crash Came And A Panic Ensued--High Seas Made The Work Of Rescue Difficult--Bringing The Bodies Ashore.

Montevideo (Special).--In a driving rainstorm about 6 o'clock A. M., the Argentine excursion steamer Colombia and the North German Lloyd steamer Schlesien collided at the entrance of Montevideo harbor. The Schlesien was outward bound for Bremen. The Colombia's bow was crushed in and she sank almost immediately. Between 150 and 200 persons were killed or drowned.

The Colombia carried about 200 passengers and a crew of 48 men. Most of the passengers were asleep and panic followed the crash. At most immediately small boats put out to the sinking steamer, but the work of rescue was rendered very difficult by the high sea. About 70 persons were brought ashore. Most of the dead are women and children. A majority of the survivors are men.

The Colombia was carrying excursionists from Buenos Ayres to a festival at Montevideo and the disaster has caused the keenest emotion. The Uruguayan government, in consequence, has postponed the fetes arranged for the celebration of the inauguration of the port. The Schlesien, which is only slightly damaged, has been detained here by the port authorities. Her commander attributes the collision to the wind and the high seas which made both steamers almost unmanageable.

Scores of bodies have been recovered and are now lying at the customhouse, but many of them have not been identified.

The Colombia was an old steamer of 1,200 tons engaged in the regular passenger service between this port and Buenos Ayres.

GAVE HIS LIFE TO SAVE OTHERS

Wireless Man, Calling For Help, Sinks With Ship.

Five Lost When The Alaska Steamship Company's Steamer Ohio Hits The Rocks And Founders--128 Passengers Escape In The Boats--Vessel Goes Down In Three Minutes--The Survivors Picked Up By Steamers.

Seattle, Wash. (Special).--Five lives were lost in the sinking of the Alaska Steamship Company steamer Ohio off Steep Point, Alaska. There were 128 passengers on board, but all these escaped, the victims being employees. The loss of the steamer and the cargo is total.

The drowned are Purser F. J. Stephens, of Seattle; Wireless Operator George E. Eccles, of Winnipeg; two seamen and the quartermaster, names not given.

Stephens and Eccles went down saving the lives of passengers instead of looking to their own safety.

A wireless dispatch says the Ohio sank in three minutes. This probably means that she was on the reef a considerable time and that the passengers were all off before the ship slid into deep water, which she did so speedily as to carry down five of the crew.

Some of the passengers were taken ashore in lifeboats and taken by the fishing boat Kingfisher to Swanson Bay. Others were taken on the Humboldt and Rupert City. The Humboldt's rescued passengers will be landed at Ketchikan, while the Rupert City is taking her passengers to Vancouver.

It is 320 miles from Seattle to Steep Point. The rocks where the Ohio sank slide off rapidly into unusually deep water. The Ohio was insured for $250,000. Capt. John Johnson, her navigator, was regarded as one of the most skillful on the Pacific Coast.

FOUR PEOPLE CRUSHED IN A MAD PANIC

Factory Employees Pack The Staircases.

Three Hundred Men, Women And Girls Fight To Escape From A Burning Building At Waverly, Ia.--Leap From Upper Stories, Striking The Prostrate Forms Of Fellow-Workmen.

Waverly, Ia. (Special).--In a panic of 300 employees of the Kelly Canning Factory to escape from the second floor of the canning department, where a gasoline tank had exploded and thrown fire over the room, George McRoberts was killed, three persons were probably fatally injured and a score of others were severely hurt. The building was destroyed by the fire that followed the explosion, causing $100,000 damage.

While the canners were busily engaged in preserving sweet corn in the second floor of the factory a gasoline tank used for the soldering of cans burst with a frightful detonation, hurling clots of flaming fluid over the large room. Most of the employees are women, young men and girls. All were excited by the shower of flames, and with cries of fear for the stairs and the windows.

Many leaped to the ground in pell-mell disorder falling on each other. Scores tried to descend the stairways with leaps and bounds, only to become hopelessly entangled in the narrow ways.

Those employees working on the first floor went quickly to the rescue, dragging the entangled persons from the jammed staircases and fighting off the flames until the injured could be carried to safety.

When all had been taken from the building it was found that Mrs. Walter Davis, Irene Lockley and George Miller had been so severely injured that they will probably die.

The material loss included 3,000,000 cans of corn, not insured.
