Seventeen Million Breakfasts

Shot from Guns

Last month, Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice were served for seventeen million meals.

Did you ever know foods to come so quickly into such popular favor?

Yet there are many still who don't use them—many who have never tried them. They simply don't know what they miss.

One taste of these crisp, gigantic grains makes one a convert forever. They are irresistible foods.

Puffed Wheat—10c

These are the foods invented by Prof. Anderson, and this is his curious process:

The whole wheat or rice kernels are put into sealed guns. Then the guns are revolved for sixty minutes in a heat of 550 degrees.

That fierce heat turns the moisture in the grain to steam, and the pressure becomes tremendous.

Think of whole wheat or rice kernels puffed to eight times natural size—made four times as porous as bread.

Think of crisp, brown, nut-like grains which are ready to melt in the mouth.

Think of cereals with the starch granules so broken that the digestive juices act instantly. The most wholesome, most enticing cereal foods in existence.

Don't you want to know, and to let your folks know, the goodness of these new foods?

Puffed Rice—15c

Then the guns are unsealed, and the steam explodes. Instantly every starch granule is blasted into a myriad particles.

The kernels of grain are expanded eight times. Yet the coats are unbroken, the shapes are unaltered. We have simply the magnified grain.

One package will tell you why people delight in them. Order it now.

For all simple canned fruits, it is best to make a syrup of sugar and water, varying the sweetness to suit different fruits. When this syrup has boiled about two minutes, drop in the fruit. Thorough scalding of berries is all that is necessary.

If apples are pared and quartered, then put into cold water over night, they will not braak up in canning. The cold water toughens the fibre of the apple and makes it retain its shape. Canned this way, they resemble pears, and are fully as good.

There are two sets of buildings on the premises, one of which consists of a large two and one-half story frame dwelling house, occupied by the late S. B. The other set of buildings consists of a two and one-half story dwelling-house, stone bank barn and out buildings.
