The Usefulness Of Tears.

The psychological aspect of tears has interested thinkers for ages. That crying brings about certain mental crisis now and then is definitely asserted and, in all probabili-ty, very true. Every woman knows that nothing relieves her feelings more readily or lifts a strain from her mind more certainly than a good weep on occasions.

The physical aspect or tears, how-ever, has never been considered very seriously by scientific investigators until these latter days, when all our things we call germs. Everything about us seems fashioned for one of two purposes—either to attract or repel germs. Tears are said to be great germ killers.

Wherefore, if the baby cries, for instance, be not distressed. It is good for the baby to cry; it rids the little thing of millions of bacteria. If your young boy stubs his toe and bawls with all the vigor of an offended nature not yet arrived at youth-ful estate, console yourself that, while his toe hurts, his tears are washing away hosts of micro-organisms that might otherwise work great havon with his physical self. SENSE ABOUT FOOD

Facts About Food Worth Knowing.

It is a serious question sometimes to know just what to eat when a person's stomach is out of order, and most foods cause trouble. Grape-Nuts food can be taken at any time with the certainty that it will digest. Actual experience of people is valuable to any one interested in foods.

A Terre Haute woman writes: "I had suffered with indigestion for about four years, ever since at attack of typhoid fever, and at times could eat nothing but the very lightest food and then suffer such agony with my stomach I would wish I never had to eat anything.

"I was urged to try Grape-Nuts. and since using it I do not have to starve myself any more, but I can eat it at any time and feel nourished and satisfied; dyspepsia is a thing of the past, and I am now strong and well.

"My husband also had an experience with Grape-Nuts. He was very weak and sickly in the spring. Could not attend to his work. He was put under the doctor's care, but medicine did not seem to do him any good until he began to leave off ordinary food and use Grape-Nuts. It was positively surprising to see the change in him. He grew better right off, and naturally he has none but words of praise for Grape-Nuts.

"Our boy thinks he cannot eat a ment without Grape-Nuts, and he learns so fast at school that his teacher and other scholars comment on it. I am satisfied that it is because of the great nourishing elements in Grape-

Britain is at last awakening to the absolute necessity of progress and the highest kind of knowledge. Britsh universities are opening technical colleges rivaling the great German polytechnics.

An electric glue heater has been out upon the market which is claimed to melt glue in thirty minutes, and to teep it at a temperature of 150 derees for several hours after the curent has been switched off.

An electric heater for thawing explosives is used at the Roosevelt trainage tunnel in Cripple Creek, Col. It is in successful operation. The sost of this method of heating is about ten cents for twenty-four hours, and is said to be far more economical than coal.

A hydro-electric power station is projected near Wadesboro, N. C., on the Rocky River, capable of producmg, with the initial installation planned, 6000 to 7000 horse power. The site is within a mile of the new Southbound Railway, and a new town is expected to be developed by the in-Justrial facilities.

"One of the simplest things to represent on the stage, one would think, is daylight," says an Italian named Fortuny in the Theatre Zeitung, "and still its accomplishment has always paffled stage managers. Our daylight does not come from one point, but from all directions, and this light, as from the sky, is what has not yet been produced. The difficulties, however, have been overcome, and on the stage of the new Royal Opera House at Berlin the stage daylight of my invention will be seen when that house is completed. The effect is produced by electric light, mirrors, prisms and silk cloths of various colors, through which the light is made to stream."

There could hardly be a better example of the scientific spirit than the recent application of the methods of biometry to those excessive minute animals, the bacteria. C. E. A. Winslow and Anne Rogers Winslow have, according to Professor F. P. Gorham. marked the beginning of a new era in bacteriological classification and nomenclature by their studies in this direction. They have applied the methods used by authropologists and students of variation and heredity to the definition of the species of bac-The results are, of course, technical in their nature, and in themselves only interesting to students of the subject, but they have a broad general interest because they serve to assure the public that advance on strictly scientific lines is being made in the study of those almost infinitesimal creatures that play so important a part in human life and everything that human life depends upon.

BAGGING AT THE KNEE.

Men's Trousers Not the Only Gar-

"That men's trousers bag in that havor with his physical self. If prompted to have a good cry, let nothing stay the flow of briny drops incident thereto.—Washington Herald. way is notorious, in fact baggy trouto have his trousers bag at the knee, and there have been told stories of men particular about their apparel who when in their finest attire declined to sit down for fear they'd get their trousers out of shape there, and it certainly is a common thing to see men, on sitting, hitch their trouser legs up a little, to take the bagging strain off the part that commonly comes over the knee and to lessen the bagging.

"So men have always had trouble with their trousers in this way, but that women could have trouble of such sort with their skirts I had never dreamed, for were not skirts so voluminous that their folds could be shifted and arranged at will, to prevent their getting out of shape? Well, it seems that the close fitting skirt of the present day is so scant that it cannot be thus loosely disposed or shifted about, one must sit in it as it is, and thus woman comes to have a new experience and to get some faint glimmer of one of the most trying troubles of men.

"It makes me smile to hear sister say to mother that the skirt of her new spring suit has already begun to bag at the knee."-New York Sun.

Sleeply Grass of New Mexico.

While making a trip through the southwestern part of New Mexico Herbert W. Wolcott, of Alamogordo, M., found a grass from which he believes a narcotic may be extracted which will take the place of those now known to medicine.

"The grass is known as 'sleepy grass' to the natives of New Mexico near the Apache reservation," said Mr. Wolcott. "Cattle and horses will eat it the first time they see it. It makes them fall to the ground in their tracks and lie in a state of coma for two days. When they wake up they have no ill effects from the opiate. But they will never eat it again; in fact, they will run away if it is offered to them. "This 'sleepy grass' is not to be confused with the loco weed. The grass is a real grass, not unlike the Kentucky blue grass in appearance.
