Scott and James Hull were unfortunate enough to lose one of their big farm horses last Sunday, and the Crownwell Brothers, one of their stage horses Monday night. It has seldom happened that as many horses have died in this community in a short time as within the last few weeks.

George Keefe, of Big Cove Tannery, got down his rifle the other day and thought he would limber it up a little before the hunting season got in. Of course, one cannot do much shooting with one first loading his gun, and so George loaded his. But when he pulled the trigger, the charge blew out through the pivot, burning his face and scaring him half to death. Upon closer examination, it was found that the gun had been carrying a load for a long time, and George not knowing that it was loaded had given it the second charge.

Judge and Mrs. Peter Morton attended the wedding of their son Roy, at Petersburg, on Tuesday evening.

Scott S. Hann, of Webster Mills, raised 47 bushels of buckwheat from two and one-tenth acres of ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac B. Layton spent a day or two in town this week. Mr. Layton has had good luck with his sweet potatoes this year. He yanked one out the other day that weighed four pounds; and those that weigh two and three pounds are too common to speak about.

Some miscreant turned loose three of Edward Cuswa's horses from the barn on his farm north of Greencastle one night last week and then drove one of them down the Cumberland Valley railroad tracks for a quarter of a mile until a freight train came along and killed it.

September 21st was Ettie Hann's birthday, and her friends gave her a postal card shower. Her mother carefully concealed them from Ettie as the cards came in, and the next day as Ettie was quietly preparing her lessons for school, came in and showered the cards down upon Ettie's head. When the young lady found out how the shower came about, she was more than delighted, and wishes in this way to thank the ninety-six friends who were so thoughtful of her on her birthday.

Linn Alexander, of this place does not spend much time hunting ground squirrels, but he does like to catch 'em. So the season had not opened very wide until Linn had a trap somewhere on Tuscarora mountain, and when he went to it Monday morning he had the satisfaction of seeing in the trap a fine specimen of a son of a Bruin. It was a last year's cub, but it weighed about a hundred pounds just the same, and was a great curiosity, as it was displayed at the Hohman meat market.

John Stull, of Neffs Mills, Huntingdon county, spent last Thursday night in town. He is a steward, Sunday school superintendent, and an all round useful citizen, and belongs to Rev. George M. Shimer's church at Neffs Mills. Joseph Shimer had been up visiting his parson brother, and Mr. Stull very generously offered to bring Joe home in Mr. Stull's Ford runabout. Brother George, who knows a good thing when he sees it, took occasion to come along, and returned Friday morning with Mr. Stull, and had a nice automobile ride.

Rev. Henry Wolf, of the United Brethren church, preached in the Reformed church in this place last Sunday morning, to a large and appreciative congregation. While Mr. Wolf does not assume to be anything more than a plain everyday farmer—was born in Germany and received the rudiments of a meagre education in the German language in that country, he possesses a fine English vocabulary, is a fluent speaker, and with the great store of knowledge he has laid by from his extensive reading during a long lifetime—coupled with an experience that comes from a love of the "old time religion"—his sermons are strong and helpful.

A sad accident took place at Water Street, near Alexandria, Huntingdon county, a few days ago which resulted in the death of Lucille, a bright little three year old daughter of Robert S. Walters, a track walker on the Pennsylvania Railroad. The girl and a five year old brother were playing in the yard at the house where some shavings and rubbish were being burned. The mother left the yard to draw some water when the child got too near the blaze and her clothing caught fire. Her little brother ran to tell his mother, but by the time she got there the child's body was burned to a cinder and he was gone. Both mother and father were frantic with grief over the occurrence.

Mrs. D. M. Snyder, of Peoria, Ill., who had been visiting her sister, Mrs. Geo. W. Hays, went to Everett and will spend some more time with her mother, Mrs. Eliza Michaels, before returning to her western home.

A New Delight— Foods Shot from Guns

There are myriads of homes where these foods are not new—these delicious Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice.

The people who know them are already serving seventeen million dishes per month.

But to millions of others these foods remain a new and unknown delight. And to those this appeal is addressed.

The appeal is to try one package—just for the children's sake.

Puffed Wheat—10c Puffed Rice—15c

These are the foods invented by Prof. Anderson, and this is his curious process:

The whole wheat or rice kernels are put into sealed guns. Then the guns are revolved for sixty minutes in a heat of 550 degrees.

That fierce heat turns the moisture in the grain to steam, and the pressure becomes tremendous.

Serve it tomorrow morning. Listen to what they say. Then ask them what food they want next.

Wheat and rice are common foods, prepared in numerous ways. See if this way is best.

We make all sorts of cereal foods, so it matters little to us which kind you prefer.

But it means much to you to get the food that you like best. See if Puffed Wheat is that food.

Then the guns are unsealed, and the steam explodes. Instantly every starch granule is blasted into a myriad particles.

The kernels of grain are expanded eight times. Yet the coats are unbroken, the shapes are unaltered. We have simply the magnified grain.

One package will tell you why people delight in them. Order it now.

EDUCATING NURSES.

Free Scholarships Including Room, Board, Laundering, Uniforms, &c., Available.

Philadelphia, the City of Brotherly Love, has an exhibition of practical benevolence in the work of the Philadelphia School for Nurses which is of surpassing interest to every one interested in the care of the sick, the education of nurses and the promotion of public health and sanitation.

The annual report showed that during the past year, ten thousand, two hundred and seventy-five patients were supplied with nurses, who otherwise could not have secured skilled nursing care. Four-fifths of this service was rendered gratuitously. It was shown also that in teaching facilities, available workers and number of students, the School ranks as the largest school for nurses in the world.

Clara Barton, the world renowned nurse and manager of field hospital work, and organizer of the Red Cross Society, having for many years observed the efficient work of the Philadelphia School for Nurses, recently invited Dr. Eugene Underhill, founder of the institution, to visit her, and be present at a conference in her summer home in Oxford, Mass., for the purpose of considering the advisability of reproducing the work in the larger New England cities.

At a public reception, representative from Lowell, Salem, Worcester, Springfield, Bridgeport, New Haven, Providence and other manufacturing centers, called attention to the need of this service for their respective cities.

Several large classes of students are about to be enrolled in the Philadelphia School for Nurses, who will, doubtless, witness the extension of the work of the institution in accordance with plans now developing as a result of the recent New England conferences. A large number of free Two Year scholarships are available to young women throughout the entire country, preference being given to those living in the smaller towns and cities, and the rural districts. These scholarships include room, board, laundering, uniforms, all necessary instruction, and railroad fare paid to the student's home upon the completion of the Course. A preparatory Home Study Course and a Short Resident Course are also available to those who desire to quickly prepare themselves for self support, but who are unable to devote two years to study. Any reader of this paper who may be interested in the general subject can, by addressing the school at 2219 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., get full details of the work, and the scholarships now available.
