Although Pennsylvania completed its new State Capitol five years ago, and some six millions of dollars were stolen under the guise of "trimmings" for the Capitol, "not a man has served one hour in jail for the theft of any part of that six millions," reminds Collier's Weekly, which adds: "Perhaps when the sum is so large the rogues are immune."

Local Institute.

The first local institute of Todd township was held at the Woodburn school, last Friday evening. The following topics were most thoroughly discussed by the teachers present: 1. If your time be limited, what branches can you neglect to teach daily, with the most profit to your pupils? 2. Supplementary work, value of amount of and where prepared? 3. Responsibilities of a teacher and parent for the child's education.

The discussions were most practical and many helpful suggestions were made.

The following teachers were present: Mary Ott, Nell Barmont, Blanche Brant, Myrtle Stevens, Nell Curran, A. D. Peightel, D. K. Chesnut, John Woodcock, Robert Crower, Levi Morton and Blanche O. Peck.

SURGICAL OPERATION.

Aaron M. Martin, of the Cove, Submits to the Knife, Tuesday, for Chronic Appendicitis. Doing Well.

During the past several months Aaron M. Martin, of Ayr township, has not been feeling well, and a careful diagnosis by his physician revealed the fact that he was suffering from chronic appendicitis, and that the surest way to get rid of the trouble was to go after the offending little vermiform with a knife. Hence Tuesday morning Dr. Buchanan, Chief of Clinics in the Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, Drs. Kempfer and Wright, of Chambersburg, and Dr. Mosser, of this place, assembled at the home of the patient.

Aaron does not have any appendix now, and is feeling very comfortable, with prospects of soon being well as ever.

Trespass Notice.

It is unlawful for any person wilfully to enter upon any land within the limits of this commonwealth where the owner or owners of said land has caused to be prominently posted upon said land printed notices that the said land is private property, and warning all persons not to trespass thereon. Persons who violate such notices are liable to a fine of $10.00 and costs of prosecution. All penalties recovered in this way shall be paid into the school fund of the district in which the trespass was committed.

MONEY COMES IN BUNCHES

To A. A. Chisholm, of Treadwell, N. Y., now. His reason is well worth reading: "For a long time I suffered from indigestion, torpid liver, constipation, nervousness, and general debility," he writes. "I couldn't sleep, had no appetite, nor ambition, grew weaker every day in spite of all medical treatment. Then used Electric Bitters. Twelve bottles restored all my old-time health and vigor. Now I can attend to business every day. It's a wonderful medicine." Infalible for stomach, liver, kidneys, blood and nerves. 50c. at Trout's drug store.

LACKAWANNA ROAD MAY BE EXTENDED.

May Come Through Fulton County on its Way From Northumberland to The Western Maryland.

Indications point to the improvement of the Lackawanna Railroad property at Bloomsburg and the ultimate extension of the line to Philadelphia.

Rumor says that Lackawanna has bought large tracts of land in eastern part of Northumberland, where a more commodious round house than the five stall one now in use shall be built. The present round house of the Lackawanna will be torn down to allow further developments of that company in Northumberland; the general belief being that this includes the bridging of the West Branch of the Susquehanna and a connection with the Reading system on the opposite side, the interests of which are closely allied with the Lackawanna, and which connection will give the latter practically its own route into the bituminous coal fields of Center, Clearfield and Indiana counties, overlooking to a large extent the tribute of $80,000 to $50,000 paid monthly at Northumberland to the Pennsylvania for charges on freight haulage over its lines, largely of soft coal. There is also much talk of the Lackawanna building its own lines—one direct west towards the Pittsburg field, the other southwest through Snyder, Juniata, Huntingdon and Fulton counties to a Western Maryland railroad connection, from Northumberland. In both such undertakings the Lackawanna would acquire short line narrow gauge railroads now in operation and which in a measure will mitigate considerable heavy grading and filling though on the route to Pittsburg.

We Shoot Out 75 Pounds Nearly Every Minute

Each mammoth gun, at each discharge, shoots out 75 pounds of Puffed Wheat or Puffed Rice.

And a gun, to meet the present demand, must be shot about every minute.

For, last month, seventeen million meals were served of these new, enticing foods.

If your folks like what most folks like, they'll enjoy these gigantic grains.

Puffed Wheat—10c Puffed Rice—15c

These are the foods invented by Prof. Anderson, and this is his curious process:

The whole wheat or rice kernels are put into sealed guns. Then the guns are revolved for sixty minutes in a heat of 550 degrees.

That fierce heat turns the moisture in the grain to steam, and the pressure becomes tremendous.

Crisp and nut-like—four times as porous as bread. Grains that melt in the mouth.

There is nothing else to compare with them. No cereal food half so good.

When you try them, you'll be glad that we told you about them. And your folks will be glad.

Don't wait longer. Order one package. Submit it to a vote of your table.

Then the guns are unsealed, and the steam explodes. Instantly every starch granule is blasted into a myriad particles.

The kernels of grain are expanded eight times. Yet the coats are unbroken, the shapes are unaltered. We have simply the magnified grain.

One package will tell you why people delight in them. Order it now.

A Mustard Poultice.

A mustard poultice is a most useful application and can be made in a variety of ways. The simplest and cleanest for ordinary purposes is as follows: Take a piece of soft flannel, dip in tepid water, wring out immediately and sprinkle one side of it with dry mustard. Mustard poultices should be made with tepid or cold, never with boiling water. The activity of mustard as a skin stimulant is due to a volatile oil. This oil is formed in the mustard only after the latter is made wet, and boiling water prevents the formation of the oil.

Moreover, bear in mind that the oil is volatile. Hence the poultice should not be placed in a hot oven or on a hot dish when made, but should be applied immediately. There is no necessity for the layer of mustard to be thick. The skin may be protected with thin linen or a fold of gauze. The covering of the outer surface of the poultice is a matter of moment. A comparatively impervious material is desirable to prevent the too free escape of the volatile oil. Another way of making a mustard poultice is by spreading a large tablespoonful of mustard, made in the ordinary way as if for the table, or a piece of soft linen, and warming it before the fire when it is to be applied.—"The Art of Making poultices," in The Ladies' World for October.

Halley's comet, which made its last visit within sight of old Mother Earth seventy four years ago, has again come so near that it can be seen by the aid of a powerful telescope, and will be visible to the naked eye early next Spring. This comet has made a grand appearance in its previous circuits and was quite appalling to the superstitious, and no doubt many will be filled with dreadful fear again as on May 19, 1910, it is stated by astronomers, it will be so near the earth that a grand falling of star dust will be visible.
