WILD WISHES. BY ETHEL M. HEWITT.

I wish, because the sweetness of your I wish, because the glory of your dreaming Strews all the field of heaven with throb That I might storm the portals of your alumber. And soar with you beyond night's golden bars! Makes all the earth a garden where you That I might be the meanest of your roses, To pave your path with petals passion-red!

RISON

Long

Which

States

To Stay

upplica render iss the grants

es W

, Ga., years

firmed

the

the the ilta.

and

The

111 the ded of wish, because the softness of your I wish to be the day you die, Beloved, heating the white jasmine at your window break! hreathing Stirs the white jasmine at your window frame, frame, frat I might be the fragrance of a flower, To str. the night breeze with your dear-et name!

But most of all, I wish, my dearest darling, To be the Blessed Morning when you wake!

A Bohemian Bonanza.

-From Harper's Magazine.

Schaupard and Marcel, who had | "Monsieur," said the unknown, been at work since morning, sudden- bearer of one of those honest faces which are the type of the countrytopped ard, and he added, carelessly, "don't deal of your talent for painting por-we breakfast some time to-day?" traits, and being about to make a "I am in the same difference of the same voyage to the colonies, where I am Marcel showed great astonishment at this question. "Since when have delegated by the sugar-refiners of we breakfasted two days in successlou?" said he. Thursday," and he finished his re- family. That is why I have come to manne by designating with his maul- find you." stick that commandment of the church which refers to meat on Fri-Monsieurday Schaunard found nothing to say to that, and set to work again at his er; "Blancheron of Nantes, delegate picture, which represented a plain of the sugar industry, former mayor on which a red tree and a blue tree of V--- were clasping branches-being a and author of a pamphlet on the sugtransparent allusion to the charms ar question." of friendship from a very philosophiest standpoint the door. He brought a letter to of the refiners. "How do you wish to have your portrait?" Marcel.

"Three sous to collect," said he. "Are you sure?" replied the art- Monsieur Blancheron, indicating a is not a house-painting is miniature; face there is nothing between.

Marcel took the letter and broke the seal. At the first words, he put himself to capering about the studio in an acrobatic dance, singing, at the top of his voice, a popular students' song of the day, which indicated with him the very apex of Joy.

"Loon here," said Schaunard, feelalready symptoms of mental ina alienation, "if you don't dry up I'll play the allegro of my symphony on the lafluence of blue in the arts:" and he went on to the plano.

This threat produced the effect of a drop of cold water falling into a bolling liquid, calming Marcel as by enchantment.

"Read that!" said he, passing the letter to his friend. It was an invitation to dinner from a deputy-patrons of the art in general, and of Marcel in particular, who had painted the portrait of his country honse:

"It is for to-day," said Schaunard. "What a pity that the ticket isn't good for two. But, come to think of it. your deputy supports the minditty. You can't, you ought not, to Your principles forbid you accept. eating bread soaked in the sweat of the people."

"Bah !!" said Marcel; "my deputy belongs to the left centre, and voted against the government the other day. Besides, he is going to give me an order, and has promised to introduce me in society. And then, you see, it is Friday; and I am hungry

"Yes, monsieur, I can boast of that. Horrors!" murmured he to himself. "I am denying my gods." "That is worth mentioning, young man," replied the delegate, in putting on the dressing-gown which had such a noble origin. "Hang the gentleman's coat in the wardrobe," said Schaunard to his friend, with a significant wink. "I say," murmured Marcel, in leaping into his prey, and designating Blancheron, "some style about him. If we could only keep a little of him.

"I will try; but dress quickly and FUD. Get back here by ten o'clock, and I'll keep him till then. And don't you forget to bring me something in your pocket." "I will bring a pincapple," said

Marcel, going out. He dressed himself hurriedly. The oat fitted like a glove, and he went out by the other door.

Schaunard put himself to work. As it grew dark, Monsieur Blanchsten, Burma, has completed a six eron heard six o'clock strike, and reweeks' course in the Moody Institute, membered that he had not dined. He

"I am in the same fix; but to oblige you I will let it go to-night, although I was invited to dine in the o days in succes-"Yesterday was remembrance of myself with my Faubourg Saint-Germain," said "But we can't disturb ourselves; that would " compromise the resemblance.

He turned to his work.

"Holy providence!" murmured "However," said he, carelessly, "we Schaunard. "Marcel, give a chair to could dine here without disturbing "Blancheron," replied the strangourselves. There is an excelent restaurant down stairs, and they could send up whatever we wanted."#And Schaunard walted the effect of his -, captain the National Guard trio of plurals.

"An excellent idea," said Monsieur Blancheron; "and, in return for the "I am very much honored to have been selected by you," said the artist, suggestion, would you do me the Just then the porter knocked at inclining himself before the delegate, honor of keeping me company at table?"

Schaunard bowed.

"In miniature, like that," replied "Hurrah!" said he to himself, this is a man worth knowing; a ist. "All right, we will owe them portrait in oils; because, for the dele-to you;" and he shut the door in his gate, as for many others, that which you select the bill of fare?" he asked. "You will oblige me by doing it yourself," said Blancheron.

O GROAD CHEMICAL CHEMICAL CHEMICAL COLUMN COM

Philosophers vs. Oysters.

GINERO & CULLER

LITERARY philosopher once said that an oyster never made a mistake. There was greater pro-fundity in this aphorism than would appear at first glance

Making mistakes is a sign of life and activity. The man who never does anything worth while its immune from the danger of perpetrating minor errors, but, what is a great deal worse, his entire carcer is one great big mistake. Men who accomplish great deeds have small heed for the little errors. It is only the man of circumscribed vision, of limited capacity, of narrow views, who ponders long and deeply over each minor step in his affairs. Successful men are those who are willing to make one mistake that they may accomplish nine things "worth while" who are willing to lose one battle that they may achieve nine victories. And right here is a moral for advertisers. Take any advertisement in any newspaper any day and present it for criticism to any ten or twenty people. Nearly every one will point out its deficiencies or show where, in their belief, it can be improved.

Yet the advertisement produces results—it tells its story. Its main good overcomes its small defects. The advertiser who plans his campaign and copy intelligently, puts vigor and force into what he does, and keeps "everlastingly at it." is the usual winner in the race for success.

If he should stumble in his judgment, or trip over an occasional obstacle, he does not let that alter his course. but keeps right on toward the goal with undiminished vigor and speed. Now you, Mr. Merchant or Manufacturer, take this home to yourself. Don't be afraid to make a mistake in advertising. Realize that the biggest mistake you can make is not to advertise at all.

This simplicity gave Schaunard "You will repent of it, Nicolas," the measure of the man; above all, sung the painter, as he descended enough to eat a raw dog, and I must when he added that he desired his the stairs, four at a time.

ories for all white costumes,

To Work in Burma.

York Sun.

Tribune.

Miss Nellie Ma Dwe Yaba, of Bas-

The Divorce Zone.

series of visits asked not to be questioned as to how much she had enjoyed it, as she had been living in the divorce zone. "In every family in those places, and I went to five colonies," she said, "there had been

A girl recently returned from a Handbag of Twine, meets the fastening at the shoulder. -Philadelphia Ledger. Handbags and belts of fine white woven twine are the newest access-

Old Enough to Marry.

The bags are quite generous in When a girl has reached eighteen size and exceptionally strong. Belts e is old enough to marry, says Dr. are dainty and quite lacy looking. Slaughter, chairman of the council Both launder well. An admirable of the London Eugenics Education feature of the belts is that an invisi-Society. Men and women of the best ble strip of clastic is woven into the types should-for the good of the belt, so that it fits the figure snugly co-marry early, though not too without any drawing or strain on the arly. The healthiest children are woven twine .- Philadelphia Ledger. those born when the mothers are between the ages of twenty and thirty. The father should be a few years older than the mother, The trouble with the race, Dr.

Slaughter says, is that women don't Chicago. She planned to spend a select their husbandy with any month lecturing in the Eastern States thought of producing the best chiland then sail for England, to remain dren. They are looking for money, six months before returning to her material comforts and all sorts of native country, where she intends to artificialities enter into the selection. work as an organizer for the Young "Rational choosing of mates does Women's Christian Association, Miss not exclude sentiment," he says, and Yaba has spent four years in the he adds that if mercenary motives are United States. She completed a climinated the right sort of man will course at Ann Arbor, Mich., before be chosen early in his twenties. entering the Moody Institute .- New

Dr. Slaughter doesn't address any rebukes to the men who marry women for a pretty face without stopping to ask what is behind it, or to the men-there may be a few-who are looking out for the dot .- New York

Marriage.

Don't Marry-For money-it may take wings.

a divorce, and the one topic was the For a home-the world is full of 'heart hunger that had made one or them the other seek fresh fields.' I could For a companion-companionship not quite understand why any woman is as worthily attainable.

should be 'hungry for love and sym-For a housekeeper-you can empathy' when endowed with a decent ploy one. hushand and children, or why it was For pique-it will not mend matalways the most eligible bachelor ters.

that was hungered for."-New York For a nurse-the penalty is unlimited.

To please your people-the nearest Elected Honorary Chairman. of kin do not know your heart. Dr. Sarah Dolley, of Rochester, Tribune.

To displease them-they care for ou.

was elected honorary chairman at the meeting which the women mem-To have children-there are countbers of the American Medical Assoless needy and worthy ones.

Recipe. Beefsteak Pie .- Crust for pie: Ten ounces of flour, a teaspoonful of baking powder, half a teaspoonful of saltmix; one-quarter pound of lard, rub in one-third of the lard lightly with the fingers, and make to a paste with cold water. Knead lightly, and roll out lengthways; put the remainder of the lard on one end, not too near the edge, and fold the other part of the paste over; press the edges lightly; roll out; roll and fold up three times; roll out the last ut-out time the size of the deep pie dish. To make the pie: Take one pound of lean steak and cut into medium-sized pieces; split carefully in two or three, to be as thin as possible; mix together one-half tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of salt; one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper; dip the meat in it = O and roll up; set on end in a medium-sized pie dish, the edges of which have been previously wetted (kidney cut up in small pieces, mushrooms or oysters added are all an im-L provement). Place the crust on; make a hole in the centre; brush over with milk, pinch the edges, and decorate with О leaves cut out of the paste. Bake an hour.

ciation held in New York City for the | To escape a single existence-it is purpose of devising means for educat- an honest and honorable state ing the public in the prevention of The school girl-time will change disease. Dr. Dolley was the second her vision. woman in this country to take a med-The too-ready girl-any man ical degree, the first having been could win her.

Elizabeth Blackwell, who now resides Under brain storm-you will rein England. She is the honorary cover. president of the Women's Medical So-With a sandwiched heart-you will State Pennsylvania

Tale Of A Coat.

Chester .- George Lykens had hearing before Magistrate Stockman charged with stealing Policeman John Piggott's uniform coat, which, according to the offlicer's testimony was taken from a police watch box in the western section of the city. Piggott denies that the coat was stolen while he was dancing in his shirt sleeves at a Polish recption. It was rumored that Piggott had placed his hat, coat and club on a window sill from which the cost was taken. The cost incident was one of the matters which the Police Committee had contemplated investigation at its recent session, but as no witnesses appeared, although several people were summoned, the matter was dropped. Lykens was held under $300 for a further hearing. Security was furnished by Councilman William Devency.

fired at Miss Lang, killing her al-most instantly. The shooting oc-curred at the Augustian home. A fired at Miss Lang, killing her al-most instantly. The shooting oc-curred at the Augustian home. A few weeks age three consins of this dead girl were hurned to death in a fire which destroyed their home.

Luther League,

Luther League. Reading.—"Home Missions" was thetheme at the sixty-fourth quarter-ly convention of the Central Luther League, of Berks County, held at missions were made by Rev. A. C. Schenck, of Philadelphia; William Mearing, New Holand; Arthur T Mickler, president of the Lather League of Pennsylvania, of Easton and Rev. M. Luther Zweitzig, of and Rev. M. Luther Zweltzig, of Reading.

Canoe Club Officers.

Easton .- The Riverside Canoe Club held its annual meeting here and purdered unconscious elected W. A. Eynon, commodore; elected W. A. Eynon, commodore of Ronald Richard, vice-commodore of the may, and Harry Clendanich, president of the club; Lestie Mon-tague, vice-president; S. S. Hora, secretary, and Schuyler Nipes, treas-urer.

Railroad Patterns Burn.

Hazelton,—Fire destroyed several buildings and $25,000 worth of pat-terns at the Lehigh Valley Railroad shops at Weatherly. The patterns were the production of years of toil and many of them were very valuable.

Train Runs Down Men.

Sunbury.—While Dr. Harry Mc. Neil, this place, and John Smith, a prominent resident of Milton, were driving over a Reading Railroad crossing here, they were run down by a passenger train and held in part of the weeked carriage, which part of the wreeked carriage, which was dragged two hundred feet, before being released. They were bad-ly lacerated and bruised.

Cars Kill Two Men.

Scranton.—James Thomas and Joseph Stackhouse, masons, work-ing in the Exeter colliery at West Pittston, were killed by a rimaway trip of cars sent down the Red Ash vein incline by the mistake of a switchtender at the head of the plane. Both men were married and have families Scranton .--- James Thomas and Baseball In Ris Sleep.

Firebugs Foiled.

Trebugs Folled. Doylestown — Well-Inid plans of ard catcher of the Eagles baseball team, immed out of bed in a dream buildings on a farm at Levin, belong-ing to Lottle Croft, were discovered and the buildings were saved. The house, barn, shed and all outbuildhouse, barn, shed and all outbuild-ings were saturated with kerosene and ready to apply the match and ready to apply the match.

Honor Ex-Governors.

Considerable interest has been aroused on Capitol Hill by the movement innugurated by the Pennsyl-vania Fablic School Memorial Assovania Fublic School Memorial Asso-clation to secure a monument to Thaddens Stevens and ex-Govenors George Wolf and Joseph Ritner in this city. The movement, which is in charge of Colonel O. C. Bosby-shell, of Philadelphia, has attracted much attention among patriotic and fraternal organizations and members of the Legislature say thos are beof the Legislature say they are be-ing asked if the statues are to be put into the Capitol. The idea of the association is to perpetuate the services of the "Great Commoner" Stevens and the men who were Gov-ernors between 1829 and 1829 in beall of what is now the State's magnificent school system. Numerous letters of approval have been receiv-ed by Colume) Bosbyshell, it is said by men here who are taking an inter-est in the matter, and the next Legis-Pittaburg — Resenting a repri-mand which Margaret Lang, 13 years old, a neighbor, caused him to receive, George Augustian, 7 years old, of Millyale 2 and 7

Woman Is Missing.

Thomas Strohl, a neighbor, she told Mrs. Strohl she would be some only Subject by Fly Wheel, Vork.—While oiling a gnsoline engine, George Reider, of Alpine, had his clothing enght in the fly whisel. Before he could get loose, nothing but a pair of old shoes decorated him. The unables of his arm were badly tor; and he was ganized Sharon Hill Persyterian Church.

After Milk Thieves.

Mahanoy City.—A squad of State police has begun a campaign to ex-terminate the sneak thieves who prey upon the milk left upon the door steps of residents. Several arrests have already been made

Hazers Threaten Students.

Washington. --- President Monatt, of Washington and Jefferson Cellege, has issued a statement accusing the students of mob violence and prom-ising protection to W. R. Cowieson,

"There are yet other obstacles," replied Schaunard, a- little jealous of the good fortune which had befallen his friend. "You can't go to a swell dinner in a red blouse and a longshoreman's hat."

I will borrow some clothes from Rodolphe or Colline."

"Bah! Have you forgotten that we have passed the twentieth of the month, and that at that epoch the clothes of those gentlemen are spouted ?" "I will, at least, find a black coat somewhere about here by five o'clock," said Marcel.

"It took me three weeks to find one when I went to my cousin's wedding; and that was early in Janu-R17.

Well, I will go as I am," replied Marcel, striding across the room. "it shall never be said that a miserable question of etiquette prevented my taking my first step in society."

"Good," said Schaunard, taking much pleasure in the chagrin of his friend; "but what about the boots?"

Marcel wont out in a state of agitation impossible to describe. Toward two o'clock he returned, londed down with a paper collar.

"That is all I can find." said he, piteously.

"It was hardly worth while running about for that," responded Schmunard. "We have paper enough 17. here to make a dozen collars."

"The devil!" anid Marcel, tearing his hair; "we ought to have some effects between us," and he commenced a fong research in all the corners of the two chambers. After an hour's hunting, he realized a costume composed as follows: One pair of plaid trousers.

One gray hat.

One red cravat.

One glove, originally white, One black glove.

"That will make two black gloves at a pinch," said Schaunard. "But when you are dressed you will look like the solar spectrum. But what of that, you are a colorist."

Meantime, Marcel tried the boots. Cursed fatality! They were both for the same foot. The despairing artist then spied in a corner an old boot in which they put their brushes. and possessed himself of it.

"Like Garrick in 'Syllabe.' " said his ironical companion. "This one "Nobody will notice that. I will varnish them." "Good enough! All you want now is the regulation black coat."

There came another knock at the door. Marcel opened it.

"Monsiour Schaunard?" said a stranger, standing on the threshold.

"That's me," said the painter, beg-portrait painted with the finest He entered the restaurant, stood up at the counter, and dictated a bill colors. "I never use any others." said of fare which made the Vatel of the Schaunard. "How large would mon- shop turn pale. sieur like his portrait?" 'Some ordinary Bordeaux."

"As big as that," replied Monsieur Blancheron, designating a canvas. "But how high does that come?" "From fifty to sixty francs; fifty try to distinguish yourself. And we without the hands, sixty withwill be served in half an hour, and "The devil! my cousin talked in porcelain-do you understand?" about thirty." "That is according to the season At eight o'clock Monsieur Blanchsaid the painter; "the colors are higheron felt the desire to pour into the er at different seasons of the year."

"Exactly."

bosom of a friend his ideas on the sugar question, and recited "What, just like sugar?" Schaunard the pamphlet which he had written. "Go ahead, then, for fifty francs." Schaunard accompanied him on the

"Who is going to pay?"

leaving the other his fortune.

they were perfectly empty.

found them in each other's arms, dis-half an inch of water in the studio.

Marcel ran against the table, and saw the splendid debris of a superb repast. He examined the bottles;

He tried to awaken Schaunard, but he threatened to kill him if he should take from him Monsieur

Blancheron, of whom he had made a

"this to one who has brought you your dinner." - From the French

A Cool Gamester.

"Lady," said the hobo, "de greatest pleasure dat I could find in life would be to chop some wood for

"Ingrate!" said Marcel, pulling out solved in tears. There was already

"Not I, probably," said Schaunard,

"You're wrong: for ten francs more, I would put in the hands, in pinno. At ten o'clock, Monsieur Blanchwhich I would place your pamphlet on the sugar question, which would be flattering." "B'gosh, you are right." names

"Ye gods!" said Schaunard to himself, "If he continues I shall explode. and wound him with the pieces. "Have you remarked?" hissed Marcel in his ear. "What?" "He has on a black coat." "I understand, and I have your idea. Leave me alone.' "Well, Monsieur," said the delegate, "when shall we commence? It must not be delayed, for I sail short-

"I have a little journey to make myself; I leave Paris day after tomorrow, so, if you like, we will commence at once. A good sitting of his pocket a handful of nuts; will advance the work."

"But it will soon be dark, and you can't paint by candle-light," said of Henri Murger, translated for the Monsieur Blancheron.

"My studio is so arranged that ] can work at all hours," replied the painter; "so, if you will take off your coat, and assume the pose, we will commence." "What do you want me to take off my coat for?"

'Yes."

me.

"I don't want any wood chopped." "Didn't you say you wanted this "Or carry some water from de portrait for your family?" spring-"I've got a well right at the kitch-

"Well, then, you ought to be rep en door resented in your home costume, in ] "Or shoo de cows in from de Your dressing-gown. Besides, that is the custom." ture-pillow.

Argonaut.

"I haven't any cows. We buy our "But I have no dressing-gown with milk.

"Wall, lady, I've made three "But I have. The case is forseen. gnesses about what I could do to help said Schaunard, presenting to his you along. Now it's your turn. model a ragged jacket, historic with I don't mind givin' you a small hint paint stains, which made the honest dat victuals an' clothes'll be purty near de answer. It's a nice game, lady, an' 1 t'ink you're goin' to be countryman hesitate at first. "That is a very singular garment," lucky."-New York Times. "And very precious," responded to painter. "A Turkish vizier pre-the painter. "A Turkish visier pro-sented it to Horace Vernet, who gave it to me. I am a pupil of his." "You are a pupil of Vernet?" said "Place-makers' Bible" is so from a typographical error makes Matt. 5:9 read: "Blessed which are the place-makers" instead of neacemakers.

clety of New York State, which celrue it. ebrated her eighty-first birthday last

To spite somebody-you are stor-March with a dinner in Rochester .---ing up trouble. New York Sun. In haste-you will repent at lels-ure

Multitude of Mantles.

This season is to be one of capes. 'but an uncle of mine, whom you will not coats. The old fashioned word see up stairs-a great epicure. So mantle is revived. There is the cape d'Espagnole, the Cavalier cape, the Henry II. mantle and the Louis XIII. mantle.

The latter is not a wrap, but a drapery. It is very artistic and provides a way to continue using the ever graceful scarf. Whether Marto graine La Croix, of Paris, really originated it or not, is hard to tell, but her name was given to it at the races not long ago.

It is of gold or silver tissue, of eron and his friend danced a galop, chiffon or gauze, in any suitable color, and may be bordered with a wealth and called each other endearing of decorous ornament. It is caught At eleven o'clock, they swore never on each shoulder at the back, drops to part, and made their wills, each down into folds that reach the knees and then goes up the fronts and At midnight, Marcel returned, and Fashion Note.

And forsake other filial duties. But-

Do marry where your heart intersts are tried and proved; steadfast and immovable; constant and pure They who so choose have mastered themselves and are the pillars of so-"To thine ownself be true." ciety. -Wyalusing.

A rage for champagne color is on. Gooseberry will be seen, particularly in velvets.

On some of the most fashionable stockings lace monograms appear.

Emerald green is an exception to the rule for tones that might be called dull.

Dull, rusty-looking colors prevail, with red as a brilliant exception to the rule. Browns in the khaki and leather order have been promised us for several weeks. A particularly cheerful tone is known as ripe cherry, promising a blg run for hats. Colored shirt waiss have a double pleated frill made of two rows of alenciennes lace.

High tan shoes, the lower part made of ordinary tan leather, the uppers of high brown sucde. The shocs are buttoned.

Little wraps that end in dainty sash ends and front tabs and have skeleton body parts are one of the season's introductions.

Hats made of fine bastiste, quite simply arranged with a band of velvet ribbon around the crown, are enjoying a remarkable vogue.

Mourning ruching is made of three rows of pleated tulle, two rows of white with a row of black in beween. It is neat and crisp looking.

Black velvet hats are faced with colored broadcloth tomatch the gown. This foretells an extravagant season, since the tendency seems to be for a

A shade of red that will be fashionable is terra cotta. It requires care in manipulation, of course, although an all terra cotta hat, with a

On shoppers, rather than in the shops themselves, a noticeable num-

The attractive feature of this pony own is the embroidery done in data attern, in silk to match the materi "he waist and sleave effect is also novelber of flower trimmed bats. All sorts and descriptions of flowers are used, and most of them are evidently new.

Susquehanna Scholarship.

gratitude safe. Selinsgrove. -- Hearty greeted the announcement by Presi dent Charles T. Alkens to-day that Amicable Church Settlement. he had secured for Susquehanna University the establishment of three scholarships of $1,000 each, donated singly by Mrs. DeWitt Bo-dine, of Hughesville; Rev. Dr. E. S. Brownmiller, of Reading, and A. M. Brown, of Tyrone.

Killed By Falling Clay,

Company, at Shoemakersville, this county, Jacob Franke, a laborer, aged 70 years, was caught by falling Sherardoah -Earl clay and was injured so badly that he died a half hour later. His skull was fractured and he was infured in-

Chain Dogs For 100 Days.

Sanitary Board, visited Rehrersburg Just as he completed the rescue the and ordered all dogs to be chained building collapsed. The loss was for 100 days, owing to an outbreak $3,000.

Snowball Battle In Sunbury.

Selinsgrove. - Four inches of snow on Buffalo flyer, southbound. was utilized for a snowball battle by many passengers at Sunbury station five days for expectorating in a trolley car.

Filthy Habit Leads To Jail.

'What Is Ice Cream?"

York .-- President Robert Crane of Philadelphia, who is presiding over the annual meeting of ice cream manufacturers of the State, impressed upon the association in an ad-dress that uniform laws should be dress that uniform laws should be enacted in all of the states on the question of "What is ice cream?" This, he said, would prevent trouble over interstate, the states of the arch is cut the name of John Leaman and the date of 1766. over interstate shipments and from dissatisfaction of manufacturers in states in which the standards set are higher than in others.

Quits Northampton Heights.

South Bethlehem.-Rev. S. Martia Wenrich resigned as pastor of St. Matthow's Lutheran Church Northampton Heights to become pastor of the Pleasant Valley, Monroe County, charge.

Refuses To Leave Track.

Hazleton.—A Hungarian woman sat on the Lehigh Valley track, near Lattimer, and refused to move whea the engine whistle was sounded. It was necessary for the engineer to stop the coal train, and the crew had to carry her away.

and in his phantom effort to line his fist second crashed through the window. His life was grabbed him just as he was making through the window after the umpire, who had declared the runner

Pottsville .-- As the outcome of the eastern Penesylvania eldership ference of the Church of God, held at Auburn for more than a week, but which adjourned, an amicable settlement was reached as to Schuylkill property in dispute, held by the German eldership and claimed by the East Pennsylvania eldership. Reading .-- While working under a Litigation has been in progress for years years.

Shenardoah .-- Early in the morning Jacob Nuntrick, of Shepton, was awakened from sleep by dense smoke and found his home on fire. He sounded an alarm and securing a ladder climbed upon the rear roof of the house, broke open a window Reading .- Dr. W. G. Huyett, of and rescued his panic-stricken wife Wornersville, this county, a repre- and six children. He was terribl, sontative of the State Live Stock burned about the head and body He was terribly

Plan Memorial.

Reading .- Rajah Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, is arranging for a memorial service to be held here on October 27 in memory of those who lost their lives in the illfated Honda wreck and for the mem-bers who died in recent years. At Bethlehem .-- James Platish, of the same time a handsome memorial Siegfried, was sentenced to jail for altar, presented by John Barboy, in memory of late members, will be dedicated.

To Have Centennial.

Mount Joy. - Ronrerstown, Lanaster County, is laying claim to anwill celebrate its cen-It tiquity. It will celebrate its cen-tennial in 1912. On the farm of S. O. Frantz, near town, is a walled Recently a swallow made a flight of 150 miles at a rate of 134 miles an hour.

According to German chemists, the largest quantity of cedar wood off is obtained from the tree known popularly as the Virginia juniper (Juniperus Virginiana); the same off is also obtained from the Oleum Itani cedri, the Cedrus lebani, and the Cedrus deodara The off is ob-tained by the distillation of the wood with water.

The annual report of the Montrean harbor commissioners says that Montreal is now handling a greater volume of business monthly than any other North American port emp cept New York.

hat to accompany every gown. black frock, would be charming.