The Cat And The Sparrows.

This is a true story with all the necessary vouchers, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An East End family has a cat, a big grey Tom who answers the name of Ben. Ben's natural enemies are the sparrows. When he can creep up on one of them and make its feathers fly he is delighted.

Some time ago a lot of the little chatterers settled on the limb of a tree in Ben's back yard. Ben saw them and crept foot by foot to the tree. Up the trunk he cautiously climbed and finally reached the limb. At this point the sparrows saw him and flew to the ground where they chattered vigorously, Ben in the meantime watching them from the limb with hatred in his yellow eyes. Then without warning the sparrows suddenly flew up and started a concerted onslought on Monsieur Ben. The pecked him without mercy until he dropped his head and beat a demoralized retreat—crying meanwhile with pain and rage.

Even as he descended the trunk of the tree three of the birds followed him with vicious bills.

When he reached the ground he ran to his mistress on the porch and sprang into her arms—the triumph ant birds withdrawing their fighting line in good order.

RESULTS OF FOOD Health and Natural Conditions Come From Right Feeding.

Man, physically, should be like a perfectly regulated machine, each part working easily in its appropriate place. A slight derangement causes undue friction and wear, and frequently ruins the entire system.

A well known educator of Boston found a way to keep the brain and the body in that harmonious co-operation which makes a joy of living.

"Two years ago," she writes, "being in a condition of nervous exhaustion, I resigned my position as teacher, which I had held for over forty years. Since then the entire rest has, of course, been a benefit, but the use of Grape-Nuts has removed one great cause of illness in the past, namely, constipation, and its attendant evils. I generally make my entire break fast on a raw egg beaten into four spoonfuls of Grape-Nuts, with a little hot milk or hot water added. I like it extremely, my food assimilates, and my bowels take care of themselves. I find my brain power and physical andurance much greater and I know that the use of the Grape-Nuts has contributed largely to this result.

"It is with feelings of gracitude that I write this testimonial and trust it may be the means of alding others in their search for health."

Weekly Review of Trade and Market Reports.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Favorable industrial conditions remain unchanged and new production is now proceeding at an enormous rate. All through the West the thought and talk of the people is concerning things actually produced and wealth created from the soil. The recent warm weather checked activity in some mercantile lines and high prices and speculative developments work unfavorably in others and this gives the superficial impression of a pause in business revival But the basic facts still point to a remarkable industrial expansion.

Bradstreet's says: Colder weather and the approach of the holiday season have continued to stimulate retail trade and measurably improve reassorting trade with jobbers, while rains or snows. while temporarily retarding country trade by making the roads bad, have checked excessive growth of or insect damage to winter wheat and given a good quantity of moisture to the growing plant, thus placing that crop in good shape to enter the winter.

In wholesale trade there are, however, some intimations of cross currents tending to restrict fullest activities

"Your Head Or Money."

Mulai Hafid, Sultan and Shereef, is gitted with a grim humor that keeps his courtiers trembling on the razor-edge of expectancy.

His latest victim is the Kaid of Larache, who has recently been on a visit to his Majesty. Certain of his position on the coast and uncertain of his sovereign, the Kaid of Larache had heretofore refused all invitations to pay his respects to the new Sultan in Fez. What caused him to relent is not known, but he came, and with him came a peace-offering of $5,000 and a bale of silk. Mulai Hafid gave orders that his visitor should be lodged sumptuously and fed at he own table. Each night the Kaid of Larache was convinced that he had won the confidence and affection of his sovereign, and boasted to his companions that he had never been asked to give an account of the revenues of his office.

At last the day came when the Kaid of Larache decided to return to his home. The caravan was accordingly prepared, and the Kaid went to the palace to take leave of the Sultan. His Majesty condoled with the Kaid for "having to return to an office so unprofitable that it had ceased to yield any revenue," and warm-ly congratulated him on "his devotion in offering his own head in place of the missing revenue." There would be, added the Sultan, a collection of dollars or of heads at dawn next day

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent, of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been about the second of the all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the
