

The Sheets Stage Line takes you to Mercersburg for 50 cents.

Rev. Diehl will preach in the Presbyterian church, McConnellsburg next Sunday morning and evening.

50 cents pays the fare one way between McConnellsburg and Mercersburg. Sheets stage line.

Rev. A. G. B. Powers will preach at Pleasant Grove the second Sunday in January at 10:30 a. m., and at Oakley at 3 p. m. same day.

HIDES.—James Sipes & Son pay the highest market price for beef hides at their butcher shop in McConnellsburg, also highest price paid for calf skins, sheepskins and tallow.

Hunter, the youngest son of the late Elliott Fraker, near Fort Littleton, is lying seriously ill of typhoid fever.

Rev. Bryner will preach in the Methodist church in this place next Sunday evening, which will be the beginning of a series of revival meetings.

Best for coughs and colds is Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. It moves the bowels freely yet gently and thereby drives the cold from the system. It stops the cough. Children like it—pleasant to take. Sold by Trout's drug store.

The ladies of the Kaobsville Methodist Episcopal church will give a chicken supper Saturday evening, January 8th, for the benefit of the general church fund.

You'll feel better after taking DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the safe, sure, pleasant, gentle little liver pills. If you would be sure of good results, insist on DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve, the original. It is good for big cuts or little ones, small scratches or bruises, or big ones, but it is especially good for piles. Sold by Trout's drug store.

Mrs. T. F. Sloan and daughters Misses Mary and Harriet, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reid Sloan, Mrs. Nelle Shoemaker, and Mr. Alex Sloan spent last Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ahimaaz Clevenger.

Thursday, February 24.—C. R. Shore, intending to remove from the County, will sell at his residence at Clear Ridge, household goods and other articles. Sale begins at 10 o'clock, and a credit of six months will be given on all sums more than five dollars.

On Tuesday night of last week, about midnight, fire was discovered in the workroom of Dr. C. R. Grissinger's dental rooms in Bedford. An alarm was at once given and the fire company responded, turning a stream of water on the fire through a window in the work room, and the fire was soon under control. Dr. Grissinger's loss is about $400 covered by insurance. Charlie Grissinger is a native of New Grenada.

SEVENTY-NINE YEARS AGO

[Harrisonville.] Stop on Sidelings Hill, which is 7 miles across. This is the worst place we have stopped at. It is a log house; the lime has tumbled out between the timbers through old age, which leaves it quite open to the weather. In the room where we slept there was a bed and just room to undress. The bed was placed under the window where there were five panes of glass out; my wife choosing the berth nearest the window, thinking it would be warmer, as we were exposed to air holes on every side, top and bottom. As soon as the people had fetched the candle, they only had that one stick in the house, there came a heavy breeze which lifted up the clothes on my wife's side and placed a snow bank gently alongside her back. She, not agreeable for a companion to be there, requested me to change berths, which I did, and took care to knock the snow off as well as possible, but not without having a few drifts in bed with us. In the morning, when we awoke, we found the effects—my wife, child and myself were wrapped in a fine cold. However, we are very thankful we are no worse.

January 20th.—Down Sidelings Hill [Rays Hill] and over the crossing of Juniata, one of the wagon's forewheels slipped off the bank. They delivered the wagoner, and got it up without any particular damage being done.

January 21st.—Through Bedford. It is 130 miles east of Pittsburgh, 200 miles west of Philadelphia. This day is very cold and stormy.

January 22nd.—Very cold and stormy. One wagoner is very kind in lending us his bed and blankets by means of which I can keep my wife and child warm, as well as myself. This evening we stop in the Allegheny Mountains. One of the wagoners picked up a black boy in the snow nearly frozen to death. They took him to the Tavern where he was restored.

January 23rd.—Proceeded up the Allegheny Mountains. I walked up. The wagon was detained one hour, the road being so full of snow they could not get along; there happening a small flat which enabled the wagons to leave the road. One of the wagoners in getting on the flat slipped in a hole which buried the fore part in snow. After shoveling the snow away, they got it out without any breakage. At the Tavern was a woman that was with a man in a market wagon. The poor woman was so frozen that they had to stop all night. It was through the kindness of the landlady, she was enabled to leave the next day. During the time we were stopped in getting off the road, the canvas in front of the wagon blew open before I could fasten it, my hands were quite frozen. After warming them as well as I could, I succeeded in fastening it down again which was of great use in keeping the wind off of my wife. This Tavern is one of the most comfortable we have stopped at.

January 24th.—We proceeded down the Allegheny Mountains. The danger and the awful appearance of the wagon slipping off the bank is beyond description. Ten voyages on the sea would be preferable to one going over these mountains. The day being snowy and the scene before us made us tremble and cling to one another as if destruction would terminate our existence every minute but we arrived safely at Stoystown.

January 25th.—Leave Stoystown; it is very snowy and cold. Stopped at the foot of Laurel Hill. The people are very kind.
January 26th.—Over Laurel Hill through the small towns.
January 27th.—Through Youngstown.
January 28th.—Through Greensburg.
January 29th.—Saturday two o'clock. Arrive at the city of Pittsburgh, after a journey of 24 days in a wagon, exposed to the most severe frosts and snow ever remembered for 80 years. Stopped at the Rising Sun, Liberty Street.

Now, another journey over the very same road was made last September by Messrs. S. D. Waldon, of Detroit; W. N. Murray, and W. W. Bennett, of Pittsburgh; and F. C. Graves and L. R. Mack, of Boston—the five gentlemen traveling in a 1909 Packard "Thirty" automobile, in which they made the run from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia in one minute more than fourteen hours—a distance of 301.1 miles. They made the run from Pittsburgh to Bedford—100 miles—crossing the Allegheny mountains—in 4 hours and fifty minutes; they drove from Bedford to McConnellsburg—34 miles crossing three mountains—in 1 hour and 45 minutes; and from McConnellsburg to Philadelphia—168 miles—in 7 hours and 23 minutes.

The past year has demonstrated beyond a doubt that the problem of navigating the air has been solved, and it will not be many moons until an aeroplane passing over McConnellsburg on its way between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, will attract as little attention as a traction engine or an automobile at this time.

Most people who have not seen an aeroplane, shudder at the danger connected with that method of travel. It is said by those in a position to know, that the "flying machine" (aeroplane) is not possessed of greater possibilities of danger than the automobile or the express train. It does not follow that because it is a flying machine, that the aviator (driver) will sport his machine at dizzy heights, or lose himself in the clouds. He does not need to do anything of the kind. The machines fly just as well—better, when only a few feet above the earth, than when at great heights. It is possible to travel miles and miles, and not be at a greater height than five to ten feet above ground. Hence anything going wrong with the machinery makes it as easy to glide down easily to the ground, as would be the dropping of a hoisted umbrella.

A WILD BLIZZARD RAGING.
brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and lagrippe—that terror of Winter and Spring. Its danger signals are "stuffed up" nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head, and a throat-gripping cough. When Grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn, of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being 'laid up' three weeks with grip." For sore lungs, hemorrhages, coughs, colds, whooping cough, bronchitis, asthma, it's the supreme. 50c. $1.00. Guaranteed by Trout's drug store.

Officers Elected.

The result of the election held by the Big Cove Agricultural Society on the evening of December 31, 1909, was as follows: President, George A. Comerer; Vice President, James H. Kendall; Treasurer, M. M. Kendall; Secretary, W. C. Patterson; Assistant Secretary, J. F. Johnston.

The election for representation on the State Board of Agriculture resulted in the choice of J. L. Patterson to succeed himself.

Joyous Christmas Occasion.

The home of Homer L. Sipes in Licking Creek township, was the scene of great pleasure on Christmas day, when the brothers and sisters of Mrs. Rhoda Keefer met there to celebrate the occasion with a grand dinner in honor of Mrs. Keefer and daughter Miss Carrie, near Chambersburg. They were royally entertained by music from the grappophone.

Those present were Mrs. Rhoda Keefer and daughter Carrie, Joseph Sipes and wife, R. R. Sipes, wife and children, Dwight, Earle, and Rhoda; Amon M. Sipes wife and children, Ira, Opal and Rosa; Homer Sipes, wife, and children Owen, Wilmer, Rebecca and Amy, Mrs. Rebecca Lake, and Howard Mellott.
