An Agreeable Surprise.

The occasion was the passing of a milestone in the life of Mr. Alvin Strait, of Harrisonville. On Wednesday, February 2, his employer, Mr. Baltzer Cutchal, told him some friends were coming to go for a sledride, and accordingly in the evening quite a crowd climbed aboard and Alvin wondered why they drove down the "Run," and could scarcely understand, when the sled stopped at his father David Strait's, and he heard the laughter of another merry group inside. He slipped into the kitchen to inquire of his mother what all the fuss was about when his pastor seized him and marched him in among the jolly crowd where he was introduced as the guest of honor for the evening. Then after passing through the ordinary stretching process for the required number of years he was allowed to view the many beautiful and useful presents his friends had brat him Music by the orchestra followed. helped by the President of the After partaking of the bountiful have a royal good time. A HOLIDAY QUESTION.

Will the Third Tuesday of February, 1911, Bo Observed.

A question which is agitating state officials and bankers this month is whether the third Tuesday of February, 1911, officially known as "election day," will be refreshments all proceeded to a holiday, and if it is so considered whether banks and public offices will have to be closed. The act of June 23, 1897, designating certain days as holidays, mentions among others the "third Tuesday of February, election day." The constitutional amendments and schedule in November abolish the February election after this year, and no provision has been made to annul the holiday.

It is probable that the matter will be one of the first subjects to be laid before the legislature of Abolition of the February election will give hotels and restaurants, as well as saloons, the priv ilege of selling liquor on the third Tuesday without it being removed from the list of holidays. The liquor license laws provide that liquors shall not be sold on days when elections are held. As no election will be held on the third Tuesday of next February liquor can be sold.
